Boasts Might of Fascism in Italy.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 27.—Premier Mussolini today cast a critical eye over his Italy after seven years of Fascism and pronounced it perfect.

Haranguing his 60,000 Black Shirts on the anniversary of their now historic march on Rome, he told them that Italy is at last what he wanted it to be, a country "armed in heart and hand," ready for peace and ready for everything.

Once more Il Duce proclaimed the might of Fascism and once more called on all the world to witness that Fascism has got teeth and sounded the well known warning, "Hands off Italy!" In his new note was the prideful boast that Fascist Italy will tomorrow enter the "Year VIII." and that his big job is well along.

Promises No Easy Time.

"I do not promise you an easy time, Black Shirts," he roared out at them. "Not even the 'Year VIII.' will bring that to us, because the situation is difficult, not only for us but for Europe and the whole world. Italy is today what I wanted it to be—an army of citizens and soldiers ready for works of peace, laborious, silent, and disciplined. And if tomorrow some one wished to disturb the peaceful rhythm of the development of our people, if some one wanted to break this superb unity of spirit, would you answer to my call, Black Shirts?"

And the legions thundered a mighty "Aye," and arms shot up in Fascist salute toward the man on the crimson velvet rostrum.

The Black Shirt legions were massed in the vast Piazza Venezia in front of the old palace built of marble from the colosseum, that is now the sun of the Fascist universe. This was the climax of the day's celebrations.

Premier Mussolini was clad in the famous uniform of honorary corporal of Fascist militia and he obscured his court of Black Shirt nabobs like the sun outshines the stars. His arms struck out in powerful gestures as he spoke.

Fascists Surround Mussolini.

Only "pures" were grouped anywhere near Il Duce—the Praetorian guard of the Fascist militia. The other legions were spread out behind them, the solid mass of steel encircling their condottiere. Beyond them and outside a barricade of planks were massed party enthusiasts, syndicates, and other groups of Fascism. The mob stretched up the marble cliffs of the monstrous Victor Emanuel II. memorial. A hundred loud speakers echoed Il Duce's voice.

"I am proud," he bellowed out. "I remember the beginnings. You were few then, but your spirit was ardent. Seven years have not passed in vain. Today your battalions and legions are a splendid exemplification of the new quality of this Fascist people of Italy, which is armed in hand and heart.

Again Mussolini Roars.

"I said in my message of a few days ago that Fascism was ready to meet any eventuality. The harpings of those few whom we were wrong not to have shot in 1922 [and here the Roman mob as in the days of old on the same historic site cried, "Down with traitors!" "Down with expatriates!"] mean nothing. Other revolutions after seven years have always gone decadent. Not so with Fascism. After seven years it still has the courage to shoot a lot of well aimed lead into the backs of traitors."

Again the legions, picturing in their minds the firing squad that shot Vladimir Gortan at Pola, while all Jugo-Slavia stormed in protest, roared in triumph.

Rome Flaming with Lights.

Speaking of the harmony with which the Italian people were working, Il Duce declared this to be from the ruling crown prince down to the humblest workingman. Mention of the royal family brought cheers, the memory of the attempt on the life of Crown Prince Humbert still being fresh.

Rome tonight offers a spectacle full of strange contrasts. There is a milling mob on streets, brilliantly illuminated with electric lights. Ancient monuments of Rome are thrown into bold relief by millions of candle power. The Colosseum, Arch Constantine, and Trajan's column were picked out by floodlights.

PROTEST PLAN FOR PARDONING 600 CONVICTS

Three State Prisons Take Precautions.

Plans for safeguarding the three penal institutions of Illinois in the event of an uprising by some of the convicts, should Gov. Emmerson and his parole board decide not to issue conditional pardons to 600 convicts, are being made by the state and local police authorities. This was discovered yesterday when it was learned that Gov. Emmerson and the parole board have been conferring on the advisability of granting the conditional pardons.

The revelation that the state officials are considering the conditional pardon plan to satisfy convicts who contend their parole privileges have been unjustly curtailed brought a protest from law enforcing officials in Cook county.

The situation was brought about when the legislature in 1927 changed the penalty for robbery with a revolver from 10 years to life in the penitentiary or reformatory to the former punishment of one year to life. Many of the convicts who have already served 6 years and 3 months feel that they have been discriminated against and should have their liberty.

Good Behavior Paroles Ruled Out.

The Illinois Supreme court in a recent decision held that the former policy of issuing a parole to gun robbers when they had served the minimum of the sentence, less time off for good behavior, was invalid. The court held that 10 years meant 10 years and that there could be no allowance for good behavior. Since before this decision convicts had been paroled in the 3 year 3 month period, the men now in prison feel that they are not getting a "square deal," and much talk of impending rebellion has reached the authorities.

The situation became so tense recently, it is reported, that Warden H. C. Hill of the Stateville penitentiary, on Oct. 16 called his prisoners into assembly and told them of the Supreme court decision. He is reported to have also informed the convicts that the parole board would make some effort in their behalf—but made no promise, only a suggestion.

Law Is Changed Twice.

The law for years provided that robbery with a revolver should be punishable by an indeterminate term of from one year to life, the time served depending on the age and behavior of the prisoner. The crime of robbery, however, became so prevalent that in 1919 the law was changed to the more severe penalty of 10 years to life.

The one year to life penalty was restored, however, on July 1, 1927, when legislators decided that instead of reducing the number of robberies, the heavier punishment only made it more difficult to convict youths charged with robbery. Records show that most of the gun robbers are in their teens.

Under the one year to life law a prisoner may be paroled in one year. The older convicts felt that this was unfair and the state assembly tried to legislate in favor of the 10 year to life convicts. This took shape in a bill introduced by Senator Victor P. Michel of Peoria and made effective on June 26.

The 6 Year-3 Month Plan.

The purpose of the bill was to call attention to "deserving prisoners" and make allowances for good behavior from the minimum of the sentence instead of the maximum. This made it possible for the release of a 10 year to life prisoner in 6 years and 3 months.

It was pointed out by those favoring the bill that the parole board could even up the sentences under the old and new laws by keeping the prisoners under the smaller sentence for a greater time than the minimum and giving the old timers the benefit of good behavior from the minimum.

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, however, blocked this plan, it was thought at the time, by giving an opinion that the legislature could not make the law retroactive to take in the cases of convicts then in prison.

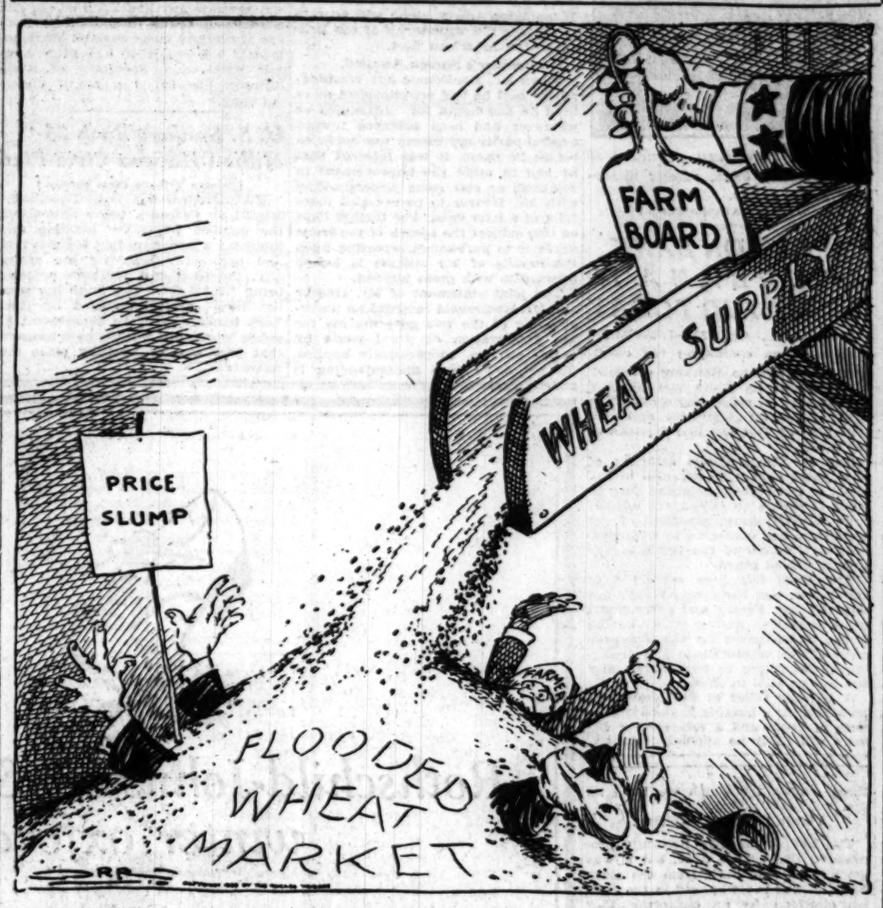

A resolution was then introduced by Representative John Devine of Dixon, asking the governor to consider pardons or other methods of freeing the "deserving" of the 647 gunmen then in prison. This resolution passed the legislature.

Parole Board Releases 100.

TIME TO REGULATE THE FLOW

BY DAVID DARRAH.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Imperial Airways tonight issued a statement announcing that its flying boat, City of Rome, due to land at Genoa Saturday afternoon, was lost at sea with six men and a woman aboard in a gale off Genoa.

"The seas at the time were heavy with a gale blowing at nearly 70 miles an hour," the air line states. "A wireless S O S was sent out. After alighting safely, the flying boat was taken in tow by the steamship Famiglia and remained in tow for an hour and a half.

Find Body of Pilot.

"Unfortunately three of the tow ropes parted as the flying boat was riding the gale. The Famiglia steamed into Spezia, where the captain went aboard a destroyer, which put to sea at 11 p. m. to continue towing the boat to Spezia.

"They were unable to locate the flying boat and aircraft, tugs and destroyers from Genoa have been equally unsuccessful. The body of Pilot L. S. Birt was washed up at Reggio today. In view of this, and the fact that there was a change in the wind during the night, making conditions even more difficult, grave fears are held for the safety of the boat and the six other occupants."

One Woman Aboard.

The crew of the flying boat, besides Pilot Birt, consisted of Flight Engineer F. T. Pembroke and Wireless Operator S. J. Stone. There were four passengers: A Mr. Turney, who is customs officers at Croydon airdrome; Mr. Robinson, Mr. Ritchie, and Miss Bromford.

The ship was an all metal flying boat with three engines developing 1,500 horsepower and had a capacity of 15 passengers. It served the Alexandria and Genoa section of the England to India air route.

This was the third disaster in little more than four months on the British Air lines. In the first seven lives were also lost when the City of Ottawa, a land plane, went down in the English channel on June 17. Another land machine, City of Jerusalem, crashed at Jask, Persia, in September, killing three.

Three Bodies Recovered.

GEONA, Italy, Oct. 28 [Monday.]—(AP)—Three bodies, those of the pilot and two passengers of the City of Rome, have been recovered. The search is continuing for those of four others, including the woman, who were aboard.

BOMB MOVING CONCERN AFTER OWNER'S DEATH

A bomb wrecked the front of the Edward Leonard House Moving company office at 4720 Wentworth avenue early this morning and gave the Stockyards police a new kind of mystery.

Leonard, the owner of the concern, died on Oct. 3 in a hospital. On the day of his death his office was damaged by fire. According to police records, Leonard served three years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for the robbery of $577,000 worth of stamps from the postoffice at St. Paul, Minn. He was released on Jan. 5, 1919.

The postal authorities recovered $545,000 of the loot, but $32,000 never was accounted for.

When the police learned of Leonard's death Lieut. John A. Ronan of the detective bureau obtained permission of the Probate court to search two safes at the Wentworth avenue address, hoping to find the missing stamps. The search was unsuccessful.

Early this morning the police were seeking a nephew of Leonard who is reported to have taken charge of the business, in an effort to discover a motive for the bombing. The damage caused by the blast was estimated at $500.

TWO ELEVATED TRAINS CRASH IN LOOP; 5 INJURED

A motorman and three passengers were cut and bruised and other passengers were shaken up early today when a northbound Ravenswood "L" train crashed into the rear of a Waukegan limited of the North Shore lines at the Adams street station. Other northbound trains in the loop were rerouted while repairmen worked three hours to cut the two trains apart.

Albert Nebalski, 45 years old, motorman of the Ravenswood train, suffered cuts on the face in the crash. Three sailors returning to the Great Lakes Naval Training station on the North Shore train were the passengers hurt.

Miss Esther Hill, 22 years old, of the Berkshire hotel, an entertainer in the Club Royale, 426 South Wabash avenue, was struck on the head by a metal signal flare that fell from the tracks as she passed under the wreck. She was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where it was said her condition was not serious.

LAKE GIVES UP MESSAGE FROM FOUNDERED SHIP

Holland, Mich., Oct. 28.—[Monday.]—(AP)—A message signed and ostensibly written by A. R. Sadin, purser of the Grand Trunk car ferry Milwaukee, which foundered in last week's storm on Lake Michigan, was found in a bottle in the lake near here yesterday.

It was dated Oct. 22, at 6:30 p. m., and read: "Making water fast in slicker. Pumps working good. Have turned back to Milwaukee. Might make it. Might not. All crew same as last payroll."

Coast guards here said the message was encased in an official tube, into which a ship's officer is required to place a message in the face of an impending wreck. The guards explained that "slicker" is the name given the compartment in which the crew of the ferry slept.

Business Heads Are Advised to Read Want Ads

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Systematic study of the "help wanted" advertising appearing in newspapers would be an "invaluable aid" to business executives, employers, economists and others interested in the trend of the labor market, in the opinion of the industrial research department, University of Pennsylvania, which today announced the results of an intensive survey of such advertising.

The survey, made by Miss Anne Bezanson, associate director of the research department, covered a period of nearly seven years, ending in August, 1929, and included a detailed study of help wanted advertising carried by newspapers in Philadelphia, New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, and Minneapolis.

"At any given time the total demand for labor is represented by the number of employes at work plus the number the employers are willing to hire at the current rates, but the record of demand is scattered among many sources and is in no way easy to appraise," the report of the survey states.

"The most urgent part of the unfilled demand in a locality, however, is indicated by the help wanted advertising in the newspapers in that area and since such advertising has been widely used by employers in all industries, it provides the basis for an indicator of general usefulness.

"One of the most conclusive and also one of the most disturbing findings of the study concerns the advertising for laborers," the report said. "For the last three years the advertising for unskilled male labor has been negligible."

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A pitched battle raged for half an hour near the American embassy today when police tried to disperse 500 communists bent on protesting the sentences of the Gastonia, N. C., textile strikers. Three arrests were made before order was restored. Ambassador Dawes is now in Chicago.

Women screamed and fainted as mounted police charged the crowds on the sidewalks. Entrances to Victoria station were blocked with a milling mass of police and communists, while passing motorists narrowly escaped having their windows smashed by the enraged demonstrators. Banner poles wielded as weapons, and in the tussles to seize them the police and communists rolled over and over in the road.

Police Halt Rioters.

A cordon of police prevented the rioters from reaching the embassy, where they had hoped to present a resolution denouncing "the persecution of militant workers" and especially of the Gastonia strikers.

The trouble began with a protest meeting at the foot of the Nelson column in Trafalgar Square, where speakers abused the United States and "the capitalist MacDonald government" with equal bitterness. Leaflets were scattered among the crowd proclaiming that "an even more ghastly crime than the legal murder of Sacco and Vanzetti is about to be perpetrated in America—the home of the frameup, tear bombs, hired thugs, the Ku Klux Klan, lynch law, shootings, murder, railroading, assassination, physical torture, terror, and life-long imprisonments."

Rush Reserves to Embassy.

Then, while women and children sang "The Red Flag," the procession marched under a police escort past Westminster abbey toward the American embassy. One of the banners announced: "MacDonald gorges in Washington—strikers are starving and murdered in Gastonia."

Meanwhile a truckload of police reserves rushed past the unsuspecting marchers and arrived in front of the embassy before the procession reached there. As soon as the communist leaders were turned away at the embassy door the crowd became infuriated and rushed the police cordon.

"WHIM" SLAYER'S BROTHER SEIZED IN NEW YORK

George Vogel, 20 year old soda clerk, and a brother of August Vogel, 22 years old, who shot to death Lyle Perrenoud, 27 years old salesman, in a so called "whim" murder, was arrested last night in New York. Chicago police were advised that the slayer, who was also hiding in New York, had dodged capture by only a few minutes and might soon be seized.

Lieut. Otto Erianson of the detective bureau moved to procure an extradition warrant charging George Vogel as accessory to murder, and prepared to leave for New York today. The Vogel brothers were traced to their hideout in the home of their sister, a Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, in East 87th street, New York, through a money order forwarded from Chicago and claimed Friday by one of the Vogels.

The murder of Perrenoud climaxed a liquor party staged by the Vogel brothers, another soda clerk, and three women, including Mrs. Fay Allison, 29 years old. Mrs. Allison told Chicago police that August Vogel became enraged because Perrenoud, driving another car, would not "talk back" during a traffic tangle.

FACES PRISON TERM OF FROM 1 TO 50 YEARS

The jury of seven men and five women, which had received the case Friday at 4:17 p. m., recommended that the theater man be sent to the penitentiary but added a further recommendation that the court extend leniency. The verdict was returned at 9:28 p. m.

The penitentiary verdict carries a sentence of from one to 50 years. Had the jury found the showman guilty with a recommendation of a county jail term, he would have been confined for a period of not more than one year.

Mercy Plea Not Effective.

The "mercy" rider on the verdict means nothing in the Superior court in California, as the sentence is automatic. It may or may not be considered by the parole board when it sets the real length of Pantages' sentence at the end of his first year's confinement.

Pantages' face flushed a dull red and then became an ashen gray, and perspiration popped out on his forehead as the clerk read the verdict handed to him by the foreman, Frank E. Frantz. He muttered unintelligibly and appeared dazed.

Before the clerk had finished reading the verdict Pantages' daughter, Carmen, who only two months ago heard her mother found guilty of manslaughter in the automobile crash death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese, collapsed.

Rodney Pantages, son of the convicted man, sat with his arm about his sister. His brother Lloyd was beside him. The Pantages' stepdaughter, Mrs. Dixie Martiman, also collapsed.

Led Away to Jail by Deputy.

Judge Charles Fricke vacated Pantages' bail and a deputy sheriff led him to jail, where he was divested of his natty business suit, forced to don a blue denim prison uniform, and was finger printed. It was said that Pantages objected to none of the prison routine except the bath. He protested that was unnecessary, but he got a bath just the same.

Miss Pringle was not in court when the verdict was returned, but from her home came the statement that she was happy that "justice had been done."

District Attorney Byron Fitts termed the verdict "a great victory for the people." Defense attorneys announced "an appeal will be taken to the highest court in the land."

Date of sentence was set for Friday, but the motion of attorneys for an appeal will delay this action.

Jury Deliberates 53 Hours.

The jury was out an even 53 hours. They had retired at 7:50 p. m. after a day spent in hearing the testimony of Miss Pringle and the defense doctors reread.

They were reported to have stood 11 to 1 for conviction for several hours prior to the verdict.

Mrs. Christina D. Ulrich, a juror, sobbed visibly as the verdict was read. It had been clear throughout the day as the jury heard the testimony that she was very nervous, and courtroom attachés felt certain at that time that she was holding out for acquittal.

First indication that the majority of the jurors were for conviction came today when the jury entered the courtroom to hear testimony re-read.

Foreman's Tongue Slips.

"We have not arrived at a unanimous verdict," Frank E. Frantz, foreman, said, "and the person voting for ac——"

The judge stopped him, but it was clear that the jurors had reached the point where only the medical testimony, regarding whether Pantages had completed an attack, kept the acquittal votes from changing over.

The testimony of Miss Pringle and that of Drs. Sterling Pierce and Peter O. Sunden was read. Then the jury retired. The two doctors, appointed by the prosecution, but not called by that side, testified for the defense that they had examined Miss Pringle four days after the attack and found no evidence of a rape within the previous week.

Then the jury left the courtroom again at 7:50 p. m. At 9:15 the buzzer sounded and those in the courtroom knew that the last votes had been changed, one way or another.

Here is the jury's verdict:

"We, the jury in the above action, find the defendant guilty of rape, a felony as charged in the information, and recommend that imprisonment be in the state prison, and recommend clemency by the court."

The case had its beginning last Aug. 9, when Miss Pringle ran to the busy downtown intersection of 7th and Hill streets, screaming that she had been attacked.

Sobs Out Her Story.

She sobbed out her story, accusing the showman of having lured her to a secluded conference room to discuss her act and there making love to her and attacking her.

Pantages was released under $50,000 bond, which gave him his freedom up to the time the jury retired. From that time on he was under guard of deputy sheriffs both in the courtroom and at his home.

The trial started on Oct. 8 in the same courtroom in which the magnate's wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, was convicted of manslaughter in the automobile death of Juro Rokumoto only two weeks previous.

After court adjourned, Pantages and his children went into the judge's chambers, where they were allowed to talk before the 54 year old man was taken away to a cell on the top floors of the building, the Hall of Justice.

Trial Is Sensational.

The trial was sensational, and much of the testimony unprintable. Miss Pringle told her story from the stand, sobbing frequently.

"He told me that he hated his wife," she said. "I told him I wasn't interested, that I wanted to talk business. Then he told me I had lovely hands, and finally grabbed me and kissed me. Then he forced me down and I couldn't get away. I tried as hard as I could to get to the door."

Finally, she fainted, she said and when she regained consciousness he was standing beside her.

Then, she testified, she broke away and ran out of the door.

Pantages' story was entirely different. Where the girl had said he left her in the theater while he went to a barber shop, then returned and beckoned to her, Pantages said that when he came back he did not beckon. He had put her in the show to "get rid of her," because of her persistent efforts to get bookings, he said.

What Pantages Swore.

The showman testified that Miss Pringle followed him after he looked into the theater for an employé, then begged for a private interview.

"When she didn't want to go back to the main office, I took her into the little room," he said. "When we got there I asked her what her important business was and that I didn't want to hear any more about her act. She told me, 'You know what I want.' Then she tore at my necktie and my clothing. The door was open slightly and I finally pushed her screaming into the hall."

The showman held that the girl and Nicholas Dunaev, author of her act, had framed him because he had sold his theaters for $20,000,000.

Garland Biffle, who testified for the defense that he saw Miss Pringle go into the building with Dunlaev and heard her say, "If he doesn't book me he'll always be sorry," as well as heard Dunlaev reply, "Don't get cold feet," was indicted for perjury.

U. S. OFFICIALS ASSAY RESULTS OF NAVY TALKS

Improved Relations Held Principal Gain.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Now that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain is on the high seas homeward bound from his expedition of exploration of the potentialities of Anglo-American relations, official Washington is assaying the results of his mission.

Unmistakably, the general opinion is that the outstanding achievement of President Hoover and the prime minister in their five days of frank discussion and of Mr. MacDonald in his appearances and utterances before the senate and in other public places, is a distinct improvement in the relations between the two English speaking powers.

Other achievements of equal or greater importance there may have been, but if so they are but vaguely shadowed forth at this time and will be dependent upon future developments for clear definition and valuation.

Forward Step Taken.

While, therefore, there is uncertainty as to tangible accomplishment, in the realm of intangibles there is virtually universal confidence that a great step forward has been achieved. Everywhere he went Mr. MacDonald made an exceedingly favorable impression. In the person of Mr. MacDonald, John Bull appeared to Brother Jonathan as a pretty likable kinsman, after all.

So, it fell out that the prime minister's visit cleared the Anglo-American atmosphere of a deal of prejudice suspicion and ill will with which it has been surcharged of late. A rift in the relations of the two countries has been developing since the ill fated Coolidge arms conference at Geneva in 1927, which failed because of the failure of Great Britain and America to agree on a formula of naval limitation. Britain wanted a higher aggregate tonnage of cruisers than we would consent to, and America wanted full freedom to build eight inch gun cruisers within the tonnage limit, which Britain would not agree to.

Each Blamed Other.

Each country blamed the other for that fiasco, but Americans felt they were justified in imputing the failure to the deep seated repugnance of the British government to accord naval parity to the United States, particularly as Lord Robert Cecil immediately after the conference resigned from the cabinet in protest against the ministry's instructions to the British delegation at Geneva.

The rift became almost a breach with the disclosure of the Anglo-French naval accord of 1928, which was clearly a maneuver of the British government to overreach and isolate us in future disarmament negotiations and coerce us into acceptance of virtually the same plan of cruiser limitation which we rejected at Geneva the year before. Secretary of State Kellogg literally blew this naval accord out of the water in a memorable official note in which he showed that the aim of the project was to impose limitation on that class of ships vital to our defense and to leave unlimited those classes for which we have no use.

Voters Overturn Ministry.

The British ministry promptly pronounced the scheme dead, but it was too late to save itself from the same fate. It was overwhelmed in the British elections by an electorate that clearly repudiated the anti-American policy of the Baldwin ministry. Mr. MacDonald sailed into power on the opposite tack of pro-American policy, on which line he has been going strong ever since. Some of his critics think he is overdoing it a bit, in view of the suspicions he has aroused on the continent that he is bent on destroying the entente cordiale between Britain and France and establishing in its stead an entente cordiale with the United States.

The British election, the visit of the prime minister to Washington, and his utterances in America have been professions of a new and friendlier attitude toward the United States. It remains to be seen how closely British acts square with British professions. But in any event, an atmosphere has been created favorable to a fresh attempt to adjust differences between the two countries on the navy limitation and other questions.

A close approach to an agreement on a naval parity formula already had been reached before Mr. MacDonald came to America. To gain this agreement, Mr. Hoover demonstrated his willingness to make great concessions to what the British contended for at Geneva and to revise materially our theory of national defense necessites. He agreed to accept numerical big cruiser and eight inch gun limitation as well as postponement of battleship replacements, to none of which we were willing to agree at Geneva.

On their side, the British agreed to an American preponderance of big cruisers, but not sufficient to give us partly, the two governments being three cruisers apart on this question at this writing. The British also came down 20 cruisers and 100,000 tons from their Geneva demands which, however, were 18 cruisers and nearly 130,000 tons above what they have now, so that this concession is of the paper variety. The postponement of battleship replacements under the Washington treaty alone will operate to prolong the superiority of the British to the American fleet.

Premier's Speech Awaited.

When Mr. MacDonald left Washington he said he had accomplished more than he had hoped for. Inasmuch as whatever had been achieved toward a naval parity agreement was achieved before he came, it was inferred that he had in mind the improvement in relations or else some understanding with Mr. Hoover to be revealed more fully at a later date. For further light on this subject the speech of the prime minister to parliament reporting upon the results of his mission is looked forward to with great interest.

The joint statement of Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald recorded an understanding of the two governments for the preservation of world peace by moral suasion, coöperatively applied. To get some such understanding is what Mr. MacDonald came for. What he really wanted was something much more definite, such as a pledge by the United States to join with Great Britain in coercive measures against any nation violating the Kellogg-Briand pact for the renunciation of war.

United States' Promise Sought.

That is what MacDonald has been aiming at, what the British and the other league of nations powers have been aiming at ever since the anti-war pact was broached. They want to assure themselves that in the event of another war, the United States will not insist on its neutral right to trade with their enemy.

"It is inconceivable," said MacDonald on one occasion last spring, "that the United States and ourselves should be on opposite sides in such an event."

But Mr. Hoover would not agree to go further than promising coöperation in moral suasion of a nation violating or threatening to violate the anti-war pact. Whether a boycott of the offending nation would be considered a form of moral suasion is a matter of speculation. At any rate, Mr. Hoover would not agree to any limitation of our full freedom of action in the use or nonuse of coercive measures and Mr. MacDonald was compelled to content himself with what Secretary of State Stimson has called a moral understanding.

REPORT ON BANK AT URBANA IS EXPECTED TODAY

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—State auditors examining the condition of the Urbana Banking company which closed its doors last Monday are expected to report tomorrow. The bank, capitalized at $100,000, and with a surplus of $100,000, had deposits of $1,250,000.

Roy R. Cline, state's attorney of Champaign county, is expected to ask recall of the September grand jury in order to secure an indictment against John H. Thornburg, president of the bank, who has confessed to misappropriating $100,000 of the funds of the Urbana school board.

Thornburn left here several days ago before the bank was closed but returned last Friday and surrendered to authorities, asking that he be placed under arrest for the embezzlement of the school funds and declaring he is willing to pay the penalty and has no alibi to offer.

A bill for relief of depositors has been filed for a hearing in the January term of court and a receiver for the bank will likely be appointed shortly.

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 27.—Carlos Miguel de Cespedes today announced the detailed plans for building and financing a new aqueduct for this city and practically repaving the entire city, the total cost for both projects being $25,000,000. The financing plan has been carefully studied by New York bankers, and the department of public works has already been assured that they can successfully place the financing.

CAPONE TO TRY FIFTH TIME TO GAIN FREEDOM

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Al Capone's fifth bid for freedom is to be tested in the Superior court tomorrow. His petition for a writ of habeas corpus on the grounds that his sentence was illegal will be argued.

Warden Herbert Smith of Eastern penitentiary, where "Scarface" Al is now a star boarder, and District Attorney John Monaghan have been required by the court to show cause why the Chicago gang leader should not be freed.

There is also before the court a petition in behalf of Frank Cline, Capone's "Man Friday." Cline was with Capone when the beer baron was arrested here on May 16 for carrying a gun. He got the same sentence as his boss—a year in jail—from Judge Walsh.

This time Capone's counsel, headed by Congressman Benjamin M. Golder, are arguing that Capone's and Cline's sentences should have been indeterminate.

ASKS COUNCIL TO INVESTIGATE CHRIS PASCHEN

Refusal to Revoke Cuneo Permit Stirs Albert.

An investigation of Building Commissioner Christian P. Paschen will be asked of the city council at its meeting Thursday. The action is demanded in a resolution to be introduced by Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d]. The resolution is based on the ground that since Oct. 17 Paschen has refused to obey the mandate of the council and revoke the building permit that allows John F. Cuneo to erect a sixty story tower at the northeast corner of Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

"Cuneo's permit, which is a monument to special privilege, has not been revoked in spite of the fact that the council order directing that action became a law eleven days ago," said Ald. Albert yesterday. "It is strange that the building commissioner has not followed the council mandate and especially so in view of the fact that people question the manner in which the amendment to the zoning law under which Cuneo was issued his permit by Paschen was slipped through the council.

Asks Inquiry by Committee.

"My resolution will call for a complete investigation of this matter. I want a council committee appointed to scrutinize all of Paschen's activities in the Cuneo case, including his defiance of council authority.

"This is a council governed city and if any public official is hiding behind technical objections to dodge the duties placed on him by the council we should know everything concerning his actions and seek the motives for his conduct. The public official found guilty of such reprehensible actions with the public trust should be removed from office."

Paschen's reluctance to take the action ordered by the council became a matter of record when he wrote to Corporation Counsel Ettelson requesting an indemnity bond of $1,000,000 to protect himself against a threat of Attorney Barnet Hodes, representing Cuneo, to sue him for damages if the permit is revoked.

Ettelson O. K.'s Revocation.

Ettelson replied that Paschen would be following express council authorization in revoking the permit and would not be liable personally for damages. He inferred that the building commissioner had not been so critical of council authority when he issued the permit to Cuneo under the zoning amendment, which was passed by the council without publicity.

Hodes' threat, it was recalled, is not the first one the attorney has made. When Paschen was directed to stop what slight building operations Cuneo had begun Hodes threatened suit. The police carried out Paschen's order but the legal action did not develop.

Paschen's refusal to obey the council started before Oct. 17 when the revocation ordinance became a law, according to the records. On July 18 the building and zoning committee requested him to act and he did nothing. On Sept. 10 Ettelson informed Paschen that the Cuneo amendment was illegal, but the commissioner still declined to act.

Contractor on Committee.

The contractor engaged to erect the Cuneo tower is the O. W. Rosenthal-Cornell company. O. W. Rosenthal is a friend of Paschen and a member of the committee which is revising the city building code under the commissioner's direction.

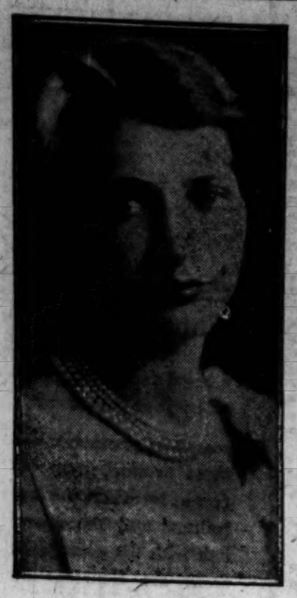

It was recalled yesterday that property owners who are opposing the Cuneo project in the courts at first appealed to the zoning board of appeals, of which Lawrence Cuneo, a cousin of John F. Cuneo, is a member. The board gave the appellants no relief.

The Cuneo amendment became a law early last July. Cuneo immediately appealed for his permit, submitting plans drawn by Daniel H. Burnham. Paschen then claimed that he knew nothing of the permit but a day later gave out a statement that he thought the high building would be an asset to the city.

CHEEP! CHEEP! 200 FIREMEN RACE TO RESCUE

Through the streets of the near west side yesterday raced the equipment of seven fire companies, manned by nearly 200 intrepid firemen. Down the south branch of the river steamed the fire tug Joseph Medill. Sirens shrieked and whistles blew as the fire forces converged at the Schoenhofen brewery at 18th and Canal streets.

Engine companies 25, 6, 8, and 18, truck companies 14 and 4, squad 3, and the fire tug pulled up at the brewery building, whence the alarm had come. Off the trucks came ladders and hose, and up the side of the building went Fireman Frank Piper of truck No. 14.

To the fourth floor clambered Fireman Piper, into a window, and out again. Slowly he descended the ladder, carrying his burden gently, amid the cheers of his companions and a crowd of onlookers. Back on the ground he turned over to a weeping woman her canary, Billy Boy, who had been roosting in the fourth floor window.

Two student army flyers from Selfridge field and two young girls from Mount Clemens, Mich., with whom they had come to Chicago to get married, were held at the South State street police station last night.

The flyers, William Wilson, 20 years old, and Harry Bergen, 21 years old, are members of the 17th pursuit squadron, stationed at Selfridge field. The girls are Helen Ross, 16 years old, and Florence Chapton, 19 years old, of Mount Clemens. The four were arrested by Sergts. John Lannon and Edward Burns of the South State street police station.

At the station the two young aviators told of taking unofficial leave and bringing the girls here in an automobile. They had hoped to get marriage licenses today. Col. Charles Danforth, commanding officer at the flying field, was notified that Berger and Wilson had been arrested.

BRIEF HISTORY OF 4 NOMINEES FOR SUPERIOR COURT

Sketches of Pam, Rundall, Schwaba, Sankstone.

This is the ninth installment of sketches of the candidates in the Cook county judicial election of Nov. 5. Following the precedent of the Chicago Bar association, The Tribune presents the nominees in alphabetical order, first those for the Superior court and then, at the conclusion of the series, those for the vacancies in the Circuit court.

PAM ON BENCH 18 YEARS

Judge Hugo Pam, one of the Republican judges on the fusion ticket in the Democratic column, has been on the Superior bench for eighteen years and for the last ten years has been head of the law division of that court.

HUGO PAM.

"In that capacity," said the recent report of the Chicago Bar association, "he has demonstrated a conscientious desire to do his duty."

But then the report went ahead to say that Judge Pam's interest in philanthropic and charitable movements has interfered with the discharge of his full duty as a judge. This charge has been emphatically denied by those associated with him in this form of work which, they contend, has been performed almost entirely outside of court hours.

"In the last year," said a statement issued in his behalf, "he has spent much time with the head of the state department of public welfare, with other judges, representatives of women's clubs, civic and welfare organizations, and alienists in an attempt to establish better means of taking care of the insane. In his national probation work he has fought for better administration of pardons and paroles. In this activity the judge believes he is better prepared to meet the duties and responsibilities of a judge. In the meantime the records of the court show that he has kept his calendar up as well as any other occupant of that bench."

President of Law Institute.

Judge Pam always has been interested in the study of criminal procedure and for three years was president of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology. He now is an honorary vice president of the National Probation association, director of the Juvenile Protective association of Chicago, vice president of the Illinois Society of Mental Hygiene, and chairman of the Chicago committee of foreign language information service.

In the bar primary which closed on Oct. 18 Judge Pam was one of the sitting judges who received a full indorsement by being accorded more than a majority of the votes cast. His total was 1,624 out of 3,065 votes. He was number eighteen on the list of winners.

A native Chicagoan, Judge Pam is a graduate of the University of Michigan, class of 1892. From 1897 to 1911 he was associated with his brother, the late Max Pam, in two law firms, the later of which was Pam & Hurd.

RUNDALL FOE OF CRIME

He is 44 years old, and a native of Wisconsin, but he has been practicing law in Chicago since 1906, when, after receiving his professional degree from Northwestern university at the age of 20, he was admitted to the bar. He is a member of the firm of Barthell & Rundall.

"He is a good lawyer with an excellent background of professional experience," said the recent report of the Chicago Bar association. "He has judicial temperament and capacity. He is qualified."

In the bar primary Attorney Rundall landed in thirtieth place. His vote was 935.

SANKSTONE INDEPENDENT

George E. Sankstone is an independent candidate for the Superior court. The Chicago Bar association says "he does not possess the requisite qualifications for the office." In the bar primary he ran thirty-seventh in a field of thirty-nine. He received 239 votes out of a possible 3,065.

STEPHENSON SEEKS FURTHER HEARING IN SUPREME COURT

Robert S. Baker of Michigan City, attorney for D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana klan chief imprisoned for the murder of Madge Oberholzer three years ago, announced yesterday that he had forwarded to the Indiana Supreme court a request that Stephenson be permitted to submit additional arguments in the appeal from his conviction.

The motion sent by Mr. Baker charges that Stephenson never had opportunity to examine the brief submitted in his behalf to the Supreme court, and that it was presented without his consent.

There have been many rumors in Indiana recently that the high court's opinion in Stephenson's case is already written and will soon be handed down. These reports, which members of the court refuse to discuss, are that the court will reverse the conviction and order a new trial. It is considered a foregone conclusion that in this event Stephenson will go free, since the evidence and witnesses in the first trial have long been scattered.

SCHWABA NEW IN RACE

Municipal Judge Peter H. Schwaba is one of the new candidates, a Democrat, on the fusion ticket appearing in the Democratic column. When he was elected to the city bench in 1922 he was the youngest of its members.

"His services as a judge of the Municipal court," says the official report of the Chicago Bar association, "appear to have been conscientiously rendered in a manner which has given satisfaction. We regard him as qualified to be a judge of the Superior court."

In the bar primary following the distribution of this report Judge Schwaba narrowly missed being among the twenty winners, there being twenty judges of the Superior court to be elected next week. He received 1,350 votes which was forty less than were given to Judge Charles A. Williams, one of the incumbents who was number twenty on the list.

Judge Schwaba is 42 years old. He was born at Stevens Point, Wis., and was graduated from the Chicago College of Law [the law department of Lake Forest university], being admitted to the bar in 1913.

MOST PERFECT FOOT IS PICKED BY CHIROPODISTS

The most nearly perfect foot among the 34 pairs of feet entered in a "Cinderella" contest conducted last night by the Illinois Association of Chiropodists in convention in the Hotel Sherman belongs to Mrs. Nellie Hayes, 25 years old, 1644 West 79th street, a jury of six decided. She was given a silver loving cup.

The entrants were graded on the anatomical structure of the foot, its functional capacity, the general contour, and posture of the body and the dimensions of the foot in proportion to the body. The prize winner's foot takes a size 3-B shoe. She is 5 feet 2 inches tall, and weighs 120 pounds.

Florence Lorne, 16 years old, 528 North Cuyler, won the second prize, and Edith Dopp, 13 years old, 5349 St. Louis avenue, won the third.

Mail Clerk Gets Thrill Out of Reading Love Letters

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Leniency will be meted out to Benjamin J. Cronin, 40, bachelor mail clerk, who got a thrill by opening and reading the flaming love letters passed between a divorcee and a New Rochelle man.

"His sole motive in reading the letters was that of idle curiosity," United States Commissioner Hugh J. Lavery declared. "Cronin had no criminal motive." The commissioner said the divorcee will not press charges against Cronin.

Democrats Launch New Attack on G. O. P.

That the political leaders backing the various judicial tickets consider next week's contest a private fight rather than the selection of twenty-two qualified men for the state bench of Cook county, was thought indicated once more yesterday when from the different headquarters came statements continuing the recent hostilities among the spokesmen rather than discussion of the qualifications of the nominees.

One of the most forceful of the statements was produced from the Democratic headquarters supporting the fusion ticket which includes the seventeen sitting judges. This was a charge of political trickery by means of which, according to the allegation, the Republican forces are seeking to put over a combination of candidates on the Thompson-Crowe-Barrett ticket and the Brundage "people's ticket against coalition."

Facsimile Ballot Cited.

The specific evidence submitted in this connection was a facsimile ballot marked for all five of the city hall candidates, for two candidates on the Brundage slate, and for two of the sitting judges.

Supplementing this charge came another from the nonpartisan judicial campaign headquarters in the Brevoort hotel, the joint offering of Chairman Harry Eugene Kelly and Floyd E. Thompson, former justice of the Illinois Supreme court. This was a repetition of the charge that there is secret coalition or "collusion" between the sponsors of the city hall ticket and the Brundage ticket.

The contribution of the Brundage headquarters in the Hotel La Salle was comparatively mild, centering chiefly on the opening of noonday meetings today. The city hall group gave out a statement over the signature of B. W. Snow pointing out that the real business in hand is the choosing of judges rather than the settlement of controveries among the bosses.

Smith Charges Trickery.

The Democratic attack on the alleged trickery of the opposition was made by County Recorder Clayton F. Smith, chairman of the party's managing committee.

"This ballot," he said in condemning the marked facsimile, "is only one of several being circulated in the desperate effort of the Thompson-Galpin-Snow-Barrett leaders to put over one or two of their candidates at the expense of all the others. To get support for their favorites they are offering to trade support for the whole Democratic ticket with one or two exceptions. In certain wards, for instance, Democrats have been approached and offered votes for twenty men in exchange for votes for one man.

The Kelly-Thompson Statement.

"There is no complete ticket opposing the fusion ticket designated on the ballot as 'Democratic,'" said the joint Kelly-Thompson statement. "There are five candidates under the designation 'Republican' and twelve candidates under the designation 'People's', the latter being really irregular Republicans. There is a secret coalition between these two groups by which they seek to capture the two vacancies in the Circuit court and fifteen of the twenty places in the Superior court."

"While there are important political issues in this campaign," said Acting Republican Chairman Snow, "it should be remembered that this is a judicial election. Aside from any question concerning the return of sitting judges to the bench, five vacancies are to be filled. It is just as essential that the same high standards govern the selection of judges in the first instance as determine whether sitting judges merit reelection."

Noon meetings of the campaign will open today with Edward J. Brundage, Frederick A. Brown, Robert McCormick Adams, Stephen Love, and others speaking at the Adelphi theater for the People's ticket.

In connection with this meeting the Brundage group issued a challenge to A. J. Cermak, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, and United States Senator Deneen to appear and answer questions.

The Democratic noonday speakers will open up tomorrow noon at Cohan's Grand Opera house, among those listed being Chairman Kelly of the nonpartisan committee, former Justice Thompson, Col. Noble Brandon Judah, Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, Probate Judge Horner, and John J. Healy, former state's attorney.

PUT OKLAHOMA DRY ON TRIAL TODAY FOR KILLING 2 FARMERS

Chandler, Okla., Oct. 27.—[U.P.]—Jeff Harris, Oklahoma posseman, will be brought to the Lincoln county courthouse tomorrow for trial on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of two farmers during a prohibition raid last Independence day.

Conflicting stories were told of the shooting, which occurred at a farmhouse near Tecumseh, Okla., in the Seminole oil area, scene of wide activity against prohibition violators.

Friends of the slain men, James Harris and Oscar Lowery, declared they were law abiding men, that Jeff Harris and the posse, led by Federal Agent W. W. Thomason, did not show warrants, and that the shots were fired without justification. No liquor was found.

PLAIN CLOTHES POLICE BEMOAN UNIFORM ORDER

Don't Have 'Em, They Reply to Alcock.

Deputy Commissioner John H. Alcock, in charge of police department personnel, yesterday issued an unexpected order that each and every one of the 1,000 policemen assigned in plain clothes to the detective bureau must stand inspection in full regulation uniform in Grant park at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

The order created much consternation among the men affected. It was the first time in years that the plain clothes men at the bureau had been ordered to stand inspection in uniform. Many of the officers and men have no uniforms at all, and many others who do have them have uniforms that for years have been out of date.

It was estimated that at least 500 to 700 men will have to purchase uniforms, leather puttees, Sam Brown belts, and other trappings.

Tells Reason for Order.

There was so much complaining that it was transmitted to Deputy Alcock. He was asked the reason for the order.

"It's regulations," said the grim lipped Alcock. "Every man in the department should have a uniform, and on Tuesday we'll find out who has one and who hasn't.

"A bureau assignment is no excuse for disregarding the regulation that all must have uniforms. There is no guarantee of permanency in a plain clothes assignment. I've had jobs in which I didn't need to wear a uniform for years. And I've always had one. Commissioner Russell has had positions in the department where he didn't need to appear in uniform for long periods at the time. But he's always had one. It's the regulation."

The men at the bureau pointed to examples of injustice. There was Anthony Nagel, who has been in the bureau since the Spanish-American war and has never been made to stand inspection in uniform. There was Nagel's partner, Ed Flaherty, who has been there longer than Nagel; Louis Adolph, who has been there more forty years; William McGuire and Ed Gorman, who have been there more than twenty years; Lieut. John Norton, who has been there thirty. Add a whole lot more.

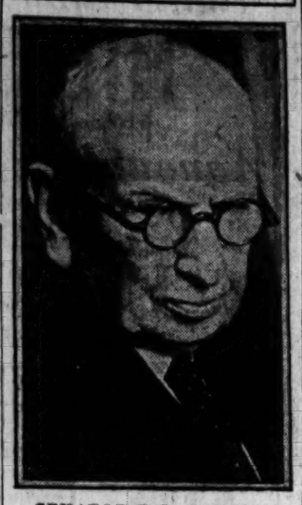

Why Have a Uniform?

"Why," asked one veteran detective, "should we who never use them have uniforms? Most of us have had them and it's been money wasted. The regulation uniform has changed at least four times in the last five years."

"I've still got the old long coat I bought in '93," said another, "and the two gallon helmet. I wore them just three times and they've been among the mothballs ever since.

There was just one question bothering a good many of the men: Would Deputy Alcock look into the inside pockets of the coats and check on the name there? Each policeman must have his name in the inside pocket of his coat. If it wern't for that—or the chance the deputy may turn out the pocket and look—a man might borrow a uniform for the day and get by.

NEAR DEATH

SENATOR T. E. BURTON.

SENATOR BURTON SINKING; IN COMA MOST OF THE DAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Friends of Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio gave up hope of his recovery tonight following a sinking spell late this afternoon, from which he only partially rallied. He is 77 years old.

The senator lapsed into unconsciousness and remained at the point of death for about two hours, when he began to rally. He was still unconscious in the early hours of the evening.

The senator's secretary, Robert Norton, said, "It is only a matter of hours or days until he passes away. There is no hope left for his recovery."

He added that specialists had been called into consultation with the senator's personal physician.

CLAIMS CHEKA CAMERA 'STOLE' ITALY'S SECRET

Russia Possesses Code, Says Ex-Envoy.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The mystery and intrigue surrounding the theft of the secret Italian diplomatic code from the Italian embassy in Berlin was increased today by a new version, which cropped up in Paris. The loss of the code was responsible for the firing of the entire Berlin embassy staff by Premier Mussolini. Scotland Yard men admitted yesterday that they had escorted a little blonde Jugo-Slav woman to Victoria station en route for France as an undesirable visitor to Great Britain.

The British were supposed to have acted on information from Italian secret service men, who had trailed the woman, whom they held responsible for the disappearance of the code through half the capitals of Europe. Mme. N—— P——, as she was called, was declared to have obtained the code through the exercise of her siren-like charms on a too susceptible attaché of the embassy.

The rumors in this diplomatic thriller have now shifted and the latest version, as revealed here today, says an unnamed attaché of the Italian embassy in Berlin turned traitor and tried to sell the secret code to the soviet embassy in Paris.

Asked $5,000 for Code.

This information was gleaned tonight from a member of the soviet embassy, who obviously wishes to have his identity concealed, and George Bessedovsky, the disgruntled former soviet chargé d'affaires, who figured so prominently in a sensational escape from pursuing agents of the cheka by taking a flying leap over the embassy wall and then appealed to the Paris police for protection.

The unnamed embassy member that an attaché from the Italian embassy in Berlin came to Paris last winter, offering to sell the code to the soviet embassy, asking $5,000.

"Come back in a few days, after I have asked my superiors," the soviet secretary receiving him replied.

Code Photographed by Cheka.

The Italian returned and was told the embassy agreed in principle but must have expert assurance that the code was genuine. The Italian produced a book, containing the printed code, from his brief case and was told to wait in the antechamber. He waited nearly two hours, then was suavely told the code was uninteresting and unusable to the soviet government. Disgruntled, the Italian walked out stormily, wondering where next to try to sell the treasure.

Meanwhile the soviet embassy had dispatched a courier to Moscow on the first train with photographic copies of the code. Ianovitch, ostensibly merely a photographer with a shop alongside the embassy, and his wife, Alexandra—both in realty cheka agents—had made photographic copies of each page of the code book while the Italian was cooling his heels.

Ex-Envoy Repeats Version.

Bessedovsky corroborated the story, explaining that "the code in question was undoubtedly the missing Italian code."

"I know positively," added Bessedovsky, "that the special service cheka of Leningrad last fall were able to decode all the secret diplomatic dispatches of the Italian government which had fallen into the hands of cheka agents."

GUESTS ACCUSE HOTEL EMPLOYE OF BEATING TWO

Police last night were hunting for A. Maher, assistant manager of the Cooper-Carlton hotel, 5307 Hyde Park boulevard, after hotel guests charged that he had gone on a rampage through the hotel, attacking two guests and threatening a number of others. One of the two who said Maher attacked him was Herbert Behon, 35 years old, a war veteran who had returned only two days ago from a hospital where he underwent an operation.

Behon told the police that as he was entering his room Maher without warning struck him and knocked him to the floor. Maher then went to the fourth floor, where Dr. Edwin N. Mincer, an optometrist who lives at the hotel, said Maher struck him.

Maher then went to the lobby and threatened to "beat up" all of the guests there, according to the story to the Hyde Park police. When a squad from the Hyde Park station arrived at the hotel, Maher could not be found. Mincer and Behon said they would make charges of assault and battery.

LIST BACKERS OF SUPERHIGHWAY FOR WEST SIDE

Many Organizations Favor $20,000,000 Project.

BY HAL FOUST.

A list of some the indorsers of the Austin-Kinzie elevated boulevard project was made public yesterday by Dr. John Dill Robertson, president of the west park board. It includes labor organizations, civic groups, business men's associations, community improvement clubs and governmental bodies.

The voters of the west park district will ballot on a $20,000,000 bond issue on Nov. 5 for the construction of the superhighway on a fill abutting the embankment of the Chicago and North Western railroad. The county board has obligated itself to appropriate $2,800,000 of the county's share of the gasoline tax to complete the improvement if the bond money is not sufficient to cover the cost.

Plan Commission First.

Perhaps the original sponsor of the proposal for the west side to construct a motorway comparable to the outer drives that serve the north and south sides is the Chicago plan commission. The west side committee of the commission, headed by Col. A. A. Sprague, formally approved the plan.

The west park board placed the project on the ballot with the advice of a citizens' committee consisting of 500 leading business and professional men of the district. The board also had advice as to costs and other technical questions from a council of fifteen engineers, members of the Western Society of Engineers, the American Society of Civil Engineers, and the Illinois Society of Engineers.

The West Town Chamber of Commerce, representing the business interests of the community, made a thorough and independent investigation of the project and voted its indorsement with a declaration that the improvement will spur the development of the west side as wide boulevards have done for the north and the south sides, which have voted $88,000,000 bonds.

Lists Project's Indorsers.

Chicago Plan Commission (West Side Committee).

Board of Commissioners of Cook county.

West Town Chamber of Commerce, with a membership of 1,000, having 19 affiliated societies on the west side, representing a membership of approximately 60,000.

Austin Lions' club.

James G. Brophy post, No. 195.

Central Austin club.

Crawford Avenue Improvement association.

Fulton Street Wholesale Market company.

Garden Club of Illinois.

Garfield Park Pavilion Boosters' club.

Italian Civic Club of Austin.

Knights of Pythias, 30th state district organization.

Lawndale Lions' club.

Logan Square Athletic club.

Madison-Kedzie association.

West Division Street Business Men's association.

West Town Hotel association.

Chicago Federation of Labor.

Chicago Building Trades council.

Cement Finishers' union, No. 502.

United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

United Electric league.

Motorists' Association of Illinois.

The elevated highway, extending from Canal street to the city limits, will furnish fast and safe travel for 80,000 cars a day. It will take through traffic off the surface streets. Ramps at the main north and south streets will make it easily accessible so that a west sider's motoring time from the loop and from the city limits can be measured in his distance from a ramp.

The Austin-Kinzie superboulevard will not be a "Chinese wall" separating parts of the west side. The main construction will consist of widening the railroad embankment.

The motor toll will be reduced by the elimination of grade crossings. North and south streets will pass under the superboulevard just as they now pass under the Chicago and North Western tracks.

Much of the opposition to the Austin-Kinzie superhighway has centered on the fact that other major street developments are also needed. The Austin-Kinzie project was selected to submit to the public for approval because of the economy of its design. For example, the cost of the Monroe street proposed improvement has been estimated at $58,856,325 and that of two levels on Congress street at $101,172,810. Engineers are still working on the cost estimate for a depressed boulevard on Congress street.

COURT CHANGES, NEW LAWYER STANDARDS ASKED TO AID JUSTICE

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Giving more power to judges in instructing juries, better methods of selecting judges, higher requirements for admission to the bar and giving less than twelve jurors power to return verdicts in both civil and criminal cases, are reforms urged for the improvement of the administration of justice in a nation-wide preferential vote taken by the National Economic league, the results of which were made public today.

Hunt Kin of Aged Woman Found Wandering Streets

Hyde Park police last night were seeking friends or relatives of an aged woman who was found wandering in the vicinity of 75th street and Cottage Grove avenue. She said her name was Nancy Woods and that she was 85 years old, but could not recall where she lived or who her relatives were. She said she had left her daughter-in-law's home to buy a paper and had walked a long distance. She was taken to the matron's quarters at the Hyde Park station.

RADICALS LEAD CZECH VOTE FOR NEW PARLIAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Oct. 27.—After one of the hottest political campaigns since its coming into existence in 1919, the Czecho-Slovakian parliament's elections passed quietly today and resulted in a shift to the left. The electorate went to the polls to vote on seven Czech, six German, two Hungarian, two Slovakian, one Polish, and one Communist party lists presented to them. Thus, only 19 political factions sent candidates instead of 29 groups in 1925. One hundred and fifty senators are being elected for seven year terms and 300 congressmen for six year terms.

The polls closed at 4 p. m. at most places, except at Carpathorussia, where they closed at 8 p. m., due to the fact that the population there is largely made up of Jews, who were celebrating a holiday until late in the afternoon and would have been unable to vote.

Among the legislators already sure of election two are in prison: The fiery Slovak autonomist leader, Adalbert Tuka, who was recently sentenced at Bratislav to 15 years in prison for organizing the "Rodobrona," an illegal military formation for severing Slovakia from the rest of the republic. The other prisoner is the priest, Dobranski, chief of the Hungarian Christian Socialist party, who was arrested yesterday at Eperies under similar charges. Both men headed their party lists.

CANCER CELLS REPRODUCED AND CHECKED, CLAIM

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Research in which cancer cells were reproduced in normal living cells and then checked was announced today by the New York Homeopathic Medical college and Flower hospital.

In a review of its recent work the institute said:

"Another staff member has made an important advance in his attack on the cancer problem. He has succeeded in producing cancer cells in normal living cells under experimental conditions of isolation and then has been able to check the activity of these cells, making them harmless."

This work, it was learned, has been carried on by Dr. C. E. Tharaldsen, professor of anatomy at the college.

A shock is administered to a normal cell at a certain stage of its development. When that cell splits in two the new cell is of the cancer type and all of its descendants are cancer cells.

IVAN LAZAREFF OF CHICAGO ART THEATER DIES

Director Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Ivan Lazareff, 52 years old, for twenty years a member of the Moscow Art theater and since 1926 the founder and director of the Chicago Art theater, died yesterday of heart disease at the home of a friend, Charles Baker Hulbert, 7621 Princeton avenue. He had been in poor health for more than a year, but had not ceased his theatrical work. His death was comparatively sudden.

Mad Emperor in "The Miracle."

Lazareff, who was born in Saratov, Russia, came to America in 1922 with the Moscow Art theater group. He appeared in "The Lower Depths" and "Tsar Feodor," and will also be remembered in Max Reinhardt's production of "The Miracle," where he alternated in the rôles of the mad emperor and the crippled beggar. He also appeared as Father Pierrot in "Pierrot the Prodigal."

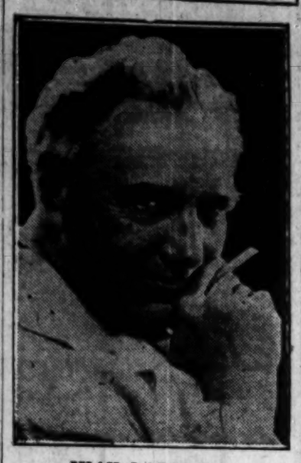

In June of 1926 he founded the Chicago Art theater and a school of the theater at 410 South Michigan avenue, where he produced many plays, both American and continental. Recently he had been on tour with his own production of "Cricket on the Hearth" and "The Protégée," and had ready for appearance here "Fires of St. John." He was an intimate friend of Maxim Gorky and perpetuated in his school the methods of Gorky and of Reinhardt.

Memorial Services Tonight.

Miss Jane Addams and Anthony Volkoff, formerly Russian consul in Chicago, will be speakers at a memorial service which will be held at 410 South Michigan at 8 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Lazareff is survived only by his widow, who is known on the stage as Katia Astrova, and was associated with him in his school. Funeral services will be held at St. Michael's Russian church, 4400 South Paulina street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

DOOMED SLAYER FAILS TO BUY HIS WAY TO FREEDOM

Guard Spurns Bribe to "Look Other Way."

Lamar, Colo., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Ralph Fleagle, last of three admitted bank robbers and slayers to be sentenced to death on the gallows by juries here, attempted to buy his way out of jail when he saw the shadow of the noose, it was learned today.

Fleagle, with Howard L. Royston and George J. Abshier, confessed the holdup of the First National bank here in May, 1928, and subsequent slayings of four men in connection with the robbery. One other member of the gang, Jake Fleagle, brother of Ralph, still is at large. Ralph told officers every detail of the crime, in consideration for a promise by the state that the death penalty would not be asked in his trial. Prosecutors accordingly did not ask the death penalty, but a jury last night returned that verdict anyway, after being informed by witnesses of the "bargain."

Offers Bribe to Guard.

Meantime, in the Prowers county jail here, Fleagle, feeling his end approaching, Thursday accosted Undersheriff Guy Firebaugh, offering him a reward if the officer would turn away momentarily and leave the way open for a dash for freedom. The officer, so incensed at the attempted bribe, ordered Fleagle put in closer confinement, even before Fleagle had an opportunity to specify the amount he would pay.

Removed to Other Jails.

Abshier and Royston last Friday were removed to Pueblo, Colo., for safekeeping while the Fleagle trial was in progress. Fleagle last night was spirited out of the jail here by officers who took him to Golden, Colo., a small town fifteen miles west of Denver. He was closely guarded and shackled.

Appeals for new trials in Abshier's and Royston's cases were denied by the presiding judge. Appeal for a new trial by counsel for Fleagle is yet to be heard. Defense attorneys said the appeals will be carried to the state Supreme court.

Snow Visits Salt Lake, but Melts as It Falls

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The first snow of the season, driven by a high wind, swept over this city tonight. A cold wind started late in the afternoon and was followed in the evening by a driving rain which later turned to snow. The flakes melted as fast as they hit the streets.

expiration of the minimum 10 year term.

This practice was stopped, however, by the recent ruling of the Supreme court in the case of Harry Jennings, a gun robber who asked for relief on a habeas corpus writ on the ground that the parole board would not grant him a pardon even though he had served the minimum sentence less good behavior time.

Judge Joseph B. David of the County Superior court at the time said he thought the law was against Jennings, but that it was a matter for Supreme court decision. He granted the writ on the condition that an appeal would be made to the reviewing court, but Jennings was kept in the County jail. He is now back in the penitentiary.

Court Upholds Carlstrom.

The Supreme court upheld the contention of Attorney General Carlstrom that the Michels law is not retroactive and that a 10 year sentence means 10 years. Carlstrom says the law is unconstitutional in other respects.

The convicts were kept in ignorance of the Supreme court ruling until the meeting called by Warden Hill. Rumors of the decision apparently reached them, however, and unrest was noticed by the prison authorities.

It was for this reason that the announcement was made and the hope expressed that the governor and parole board would look into the situation. The parole board is now holding hearings to determine whether any of the old timers in the Stateville or Chester penitentiaries or Pontiac reformatory deserve executive clemency.

Stege Fears Pardon Plan.

"God alone knows what will happen to Chicago if 647 gunmen are turned loose on us," said Deputy Police Commissioner Stege when he heard of the conditional pardon plan. "Gov. Emmerson would make it more convenient for them if he would give each of them two pistols as he bids them good-by."

It will be an impossibility for the parole board to supervise the conduct of some 600 additional paroled convicts, and the gun robber is the type who most needs supervision. Freeing them in the winter would be an additional menace."

Hinton G. Clabaugh, former head of the parole board, said he is opposed to the wholesale pardoning plan, as he was opposed to the parole law. He said he favors a definite sentence by the judge or jury.

2 BROTHERS DIE AT AIR CIRCUS; PILOT INJURED

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Two brothers were killed and the pilot of the plane in which they were flying was seriously injured when their ship crashed from a height of 150 feet during an air circus at the Stockton municipal airport today. Thousands of spectators saw the plane go into a tail spin and crash at the edge of the airport.

The dead are Floyd Widman, 16, of Terminus, almost instantly killed, and Oscar E. Widman, 23, his brother, who died at a hospital. Peter Botkin of Stockton, the pilot, suffered possible internal injuries.

The brothers had come to see the circus and went up with Botkin for a ride.

Two Die, One Hurt in Ohio.

St. Clairsville, O., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured in an airplane accident near Woods Field, Monroe county, tonight. The dead were Lester Patton and Clarence Ricor. The injured man was Wallace Mott, owner of the plane, all of Woods Field.

BRIAND ACCEPTS FOREIGN POST IN FRENCH CABINET

Socialists Vote to Back Premier Daladier.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 27.—Edouard Daladier, France's new premier, tonight announced that Aristide Briand has promised in principle to stay at his post as foreign minister in the new cabinet and continue with his peace policies.

Former Premier Briand will make his acceptance definite after he has had a more definite statement upon the Daladier policy, as well as a line-up of his prospective fellow-ministers in the cabinet. He has advised M. Daladier to build his cabinet on the widest possible basis, including as many groups as possible.

M. Briand's apparent acceptance, together with today's decision by the Socialist party to participate in the Daladier cabinet, appears to have solved another government crisis—the seventeenth since the war. The executive committee of the Socialist party voted its support to Premier Daladier by a vote of 36 to 12.

Majority Is Assured.

With the support of 104 Socialists, M. Daladier's party of 110 radical Socialists and an affiliated group of 46 Republican-Socialists, plus a few scattered fragments, the new premier is assured of at least a temporary majority in the chamber of deputies. Tomorrow night the National Socialist congress will formally adopt the committee's decision.

The Right and Nationalist parties are bitterly attacking President Doumergue for confiding the government to Premier Daladier, insisting that another Left cartel will surely wreck the nation's finances again. It is generally believed that M. Daladier's foreign policy will follow the broad lines that M. Briand pursued, as it is pointed out that it would be extremely difficult for any government to adopt different tactics at this time.

Recall Poincaré's Régime.

It is recalled that even M. Poincaré was extremely chauvinistic when he assumed power in 1926, but that he gradually thawed and completely modified his attitude toward Germany, and even accepted disarmament in principle, although insisting on starting his pet project of forcing the steel ring of fortresses on the eastern frontier.

Regardless of the bitter attacks on M. Briand for his conciliatory attitude and sacrifices at The Hague in order to meet Chancellor Philip Snowden's demand for Great Britain, it is realized deep down in the hearts of all the political group leaders that he could not have done otherwise. It is generally believed that the Young plan is certain to be adopted, the Rhineland evacuated as agreed, and reduction in armament carried out as soon as agreements are reached.

Already See End of Daladier.

M. Daladier's attitude toward the forthcoming five power naval parley is not known, but little worry is expressed, as it is generally felt that his cabinet will not last until the end of January. If M. Poincare recovers as rapidly as his physicians hope, he may be able to resume power within three months, in which case he is considered certain to be swept back into the premiership by an overwhelming vote.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 27.—Confirmation of the food shortage in the Russian industrial districts is revealed by the Moscow newspaper, Trud, which reports:

"By decision of the government, the workers of the Donnetz basin in the Ukraine will be placed on the same basis as the workers of the Moscow and Leningrad districts, and each member of a worker's family will obtain 400 instead of 300 grams of black bread daily. There will also be an increase in the ration of white flour, families of workers receiving 1 kilogram [a kilogram is equal to 2.2 pounds] per head monthly. The ration of barley grit is increased from 1,250 grams to 2 kilograms monthly, and for members of families and officials doing office work, from 750 grams to 1 kilogram. For workers the ration of sunflower seed oil is increased to 250 grams monthly, for members of their family 100 grams."

NATION HONORS ROOSEVELT AND ITS NAVY TODAY

Open All Ships in U. S. for Public to Visit.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The American navy, whose limitation is now under contemplation in a world wide movement for curtailing the burden of armaments, will have its own day tomorrow to display the might and efficiency of its forces.

Navy day, celebrated annually on Oct. 27, birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, who led in its upbuilding, was moved back this year because the date fell on Sunday.

Flyers to Do Stunts.

Tomorrow all ships in American ports, all navy yards and shore activities, will be thrown open for inspection by the public, while the aerial branch of the service displays its equipment and the prowess of its men in maneuvers overhead.

All naval dirigibles at Lakehurst, among them the Los Angeles and the tiny all metal airship which is the latest addition to the fleet, will parade over cities of the Atlantic seaboard. At Washington ten officers plan to make simultaneous parachute jumps from a large transport plane, and at other naval air stations similar maneuvers are planned. Cruisers and destroyers have been ordered to the larger ports of the country to receive aboard all citizens who wish to inspect their sea defenses.

Explain Naval Parity.

At numerous cities throughout the country naval officers, active and retired, will deliver addresses on the value of the navy in peace and in war. Over the radio from Washington will be broadcast a special Navy day program to include a speech on the navy by Secretary Adams and an explanation of naval parity by Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired.

The seventy-first anniversary of the birth of President Roosevelt today did not pass unmarked. In a statement issued Saturday President Hoover declared that the day "annually brings a reminder of the driving power of stalwart character and vigorous ideals."

Public Appreciation.

"These," he said, "are embodied in his person, and they gave force and substance to the distinctive charm with which he projected his virile personality upon our national life."

The President urged Americans to make the aniversary an occasion of general and public appreciation of Roosevelt's life.

UNVEIL TABLET TO ROOSEVELT IN CHURCH; FLYERS DROP FLOWERS

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Nine airplanes, led by Col. Clarence D. Chamberlin, dipped over Oyster Bay today in tribute to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt. Today was the 71st anniversary of his birth.

Starting from Roosevelt field, which was named for the late President's son, Quentin, killed in France, the planes first dipped in salute over Col. Roosevelt's birthplace on East 23d street, Manhattan, then proceeded out over Long Island sound to Sagamore Hill, Oyster Bay, his late home.

Mrs. Roosevelt, two of her sons, Archibald and Kermit, and their children were on the lawn as the planes flew over. The flyers dropped flowers over the colonel's grave near by.

A tablet bearing the inscription "the pew of Theodore Roosevelt, 26th President of the United States, for 30 years, from July 1, 1888, until his death, January 6, 1919, now endowed in his memory," was placed this morning on the front of the pew which Roosevelt occupied in Christ Episcopal church, Oyster Bay.

Behind the tablet was a list of 125 who contributed to the memorial.

NAVY DAY ESSAY CONTEST VICTORS ARE ANNOUNCED

Winners in the "Why We Observe Navy Day" essay contest held in the Chicago public schools were announced last night by Capt. Edward A. Evers of the United States naval reserves. The announcement was made in connection with Navy day—yesterday—which is to be observed throughout the nation today.

Pupils whose papers, among thousands submitted, won the highest honors are A. Goodman, Lane Technical High school; Lillian Hartman, Manley Junior High school; Evelyn Burkhart, Schneider school, and Isadore Dorinson, Hibbard Elementary school.

The prizes are wooden plaques with silver plates bearing the winners' names. The plaques, donated by George F. Getz, chairman of the Chicago Navy day committee, do not become the property of the winners but of the schools they represent.

Cupid Gets Couple Free on Charge of Speeding

WALL STREET'S LEGION LABORS ALL DAY SUNDAY

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Wall street, usually as deserted and quiet as a country graveyard, on Sunday, today hummed with activity as brokers and bankers sought to put their houses in order after the most strenuous week in history, in which all previous records for the exchange of securities on the New York Stock exchange, the curb market and over the counter were broken.

When the bell clangs at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for the resumption of trading, most houses will be abreast of their work and ready for what may come.

Every stock exchange and curb house, all of the registrars and transfer offices and other organizations that clear, classify or deal with securities had full staffs at work all day and the financial district teemed with messenger boys chasing from one house to another. Cars were parked, sometimes two abreast, before each large building and clerks battled away at the mountain of clerical detail entailed in adjusting the biggest stock market in history.

Sightseers in Street.

Sightseers strolled about from street to street gazing at the stock exchange building and at the Morgan offices, centers of last week's dramatic financial happenings. Here and there a sightseer picked up from the gutter a vagrant slip of ticker tape.

It was the parked cars lining the curbs that gave most evidence of the fact that it was an unusual Sunday. Many a limousine, with a bored chauffeur lounging at the wheel, stood all day in the financial district. Usually these cars are on the road on Sunday, at golf courses or at least far from the street.

"The physical work of the members of the New York Stock exchange is well in hand," said an official of the organization tonight. "Not all of them have caught up, of course, but at least the day and a half respite from trading has given the opportunity to post the books, straighten out orders, and make inroads on the clerical work."

Orders Straightened Out.

Every specialist on the floor of the New York Stock exchange was on the job today from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. with his books. Only one or two left an authorized representative. Most of them were in the street in person by order of the governors of the exchange. It was authoritatively stated that no difficulties have arisen over the confusion of orders which cannot soon be straightened out.

No statements were issued today by members of the banking pool engaged in the task of stabilizing the market. In fact the market appears to have already stabilized itself quickly and to a remarkable degree. The calmness of the trading on Friday and again on Saturday reflected the fact that normal conditions in the market had once again been restored.

HARROWING DAYS SPENT BY CREW ON BARREN ISLAND

Shipwrecked Sailors Safe at Sault Ste. Marie.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Members of the crew of the freighter Chicago were resting here today after the harrowing experience of being marooned from Tuesday night to Saturday on barren Michipicoten island, in Lake Superior, 100 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie.

They were taken off the island at noon yesterday by the coast guard boats Seminole and 119 and arrived here at 11:30 a. m. today. Capt. P. C. Farrell of Buffalo and the thirty-one members of his crew were reported in good condition with the exception of two or three of them who contracted severe colds.

Rock Wrecks Boat.

Underwriters' agents left for Michipicoten island today to examine the Chicago and determine how much of the wrecked freighter and its cargo could be salvaged. The bottom of the boat has several large holes in it, according to the crew. They said a rock broke through the bottom and protruded into the engine room.

The crew reported that the Chicago was not abandoned until Wednesday night, 24 hours after it ran on the rocks. It then listed fifty degrees and momentarily was expected to slip off the rocks. The bow was high in the air and the stern submerged. They managed to reach shore in lifeboats during a blinding snowstorm and with waves rolling thirty feet high.

Didn't Know Where They Were.

Capt. Farrell said he did not know where he was until Indian fishermen of Quebec Harbor, at the southeast end of the island, heard of his plight and came over to visit him. His compass failed to function, due to magnetic disturbances common to northern Lake Superior, and he thought the boat was aground on Isle Parisienne, 75 miles away in Whitefish bay, he said.

Chagrined over the mishap, his second in two years, Capt. Ferrell insisted that "if blame is coming to any one, it must come to me." He was at the helm when the boat ran aground.

Just twelve miles from the wrecked Chicago, being towed to the Soo, was the freighter Ralph Budd, which last year he captained when it was wrecked on the rocks near Calumet, Mich.

Frank Bank, a coal passer from Buffalo, was the member of the crew who made his way across the island to Quebec Harbor, bringing word to the outside world that the crew were alive.

The crew took a crate of eggs, meat, and other provisions off the boat, but most of their food was consumed the first day on the island.

Identify Bodies of Two Victims of Lake Tragedy

The bodies of two members of the crew of the car ferry Milwaukee, which sank in the storm on Lake Michigan last Tuesday, were identified at the county morgue yesterday as those of Joe Scholock of Milwaukee and Chris Lawrence of Buffalo. The identification was made by Gustav Beidstrup of Milwaukee, a deckhand who missed the boat when it put out from Milwaukee, having gone ashore to buy a pair of overalls. The bodies of Scholock and Lawrence were picked up Thursday by the steamer Steel Chemist between Racine and Chicago.

Per Capita Circulation Is Placed at $6.75.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Official treasury department estimates are that there is approximately $6.75 in coin in circulation for every person in the United States. The value of outstanding coin of all denominations, exclusive of the metal reserve held by the treasury and banks as security for gold and silver certificates, is placed at $809,912,747.

Since the establishment of the Philadelphia mint in 1793, the government has coined 158,843,856 double eagles [$20 gold pieces]; 52,811,985 eagles [$10 gold pieces]; 72,249,869 half eagles [$5 gold pieces]; 19,478,833 quarter eagles [$2.50 gold pieces; $46,593,947 standard silver dollars; 458,001,676 half dollars; 621,062,764 quarter dollars [to Dec. 31, 1927]; 1,315,395,790 dimes; 1,447,143,760 nickels, and 5,378,227,400 pennies.

Nine Are Discontinued.

In addition to these coins, nine others of varying value were formerly issued, but were discontinued, owing to the confusion which resulted from their similarity in size and color. The discontinued pieces were the gold $3 and $1 pieces, the silver trade dollar, twenty-cent, half-dime and three-cent pieces, the nickel three-cent piece and the bronze two-cent and half-cent pieces. All of them, except the trade dollar, are still legal tender at their original value.

During recent years, the practice of commemorating some important event by the issuance of a special coin has been adopted by the government. The highest coin in this category is a $50 gold piece, issued in commemoration of the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco, in 1915. In 1918 a coin known as the Illinois centennial silver half-dollar was authorized and issued as a memorial of the 100th anniversary of the admission of Illinois to the union. Including the regular pieces and the commemorative coins, the government has issued about 1,347 coins of different design since the beginning of governmental cointage.

Gold, Silver, Copper Used.

Gold, silver, and copper are the principal metals used by the United States in the coinage of money. Gold and silver coins are composed of 900 parts of pure gold or silver and 100 parts of copper alloy. The five cent piece contains 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel, and the one cent piece 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent tin and zinc. The alloy neither adds to nor detracts from the value of the coin.

There are seven kinds of currency in circulation in the United States: United States notes, treasury notes of 1890, federal reserve notes, federal reserve bank notes, national bank notes, gold certificates, and silver certificates.

These are issued in denominations of one, two, five, ten, twenty, fifty, hundred, five hundred, thousand, five thousand, and ten thousand dollars.

One Dollar Bills Lead.

Including all kinds of currency, there are, according to the latest figures, 467,192,795 one dollar bills, 32,217,297 two dollar bills, 182,101,699 five dollar bills, 135,049,934 ten dollar bills, 71,945,883 twenty dollar bills, 5,618,268 fifty dollar bills, 3,198,064 hundred dollar bills, 116,644 five hundred dollar bills, 153,008 thousand dollar bills, 5,860 five thousand dollar bills, and 1,067 ten thousand dollar bills in circulation in the United States at present.

FRANCE GRANTS GOULD GAMBLING PALACE PERMIT

NICE, France, Oct. 27.—[U. P.]—Frank Jay Gould announced today that he had won his two year fight to obtain from the French government a gambling license which will enable him to open his $4,000,000 casino overlooking the Mediterranean here. He hopes to open the palace next Sunday.

The palace is described as the most pretentious in Europe. It occupies two acres of ground and is ten times larger than the casino at Monte Carlo. Eight hundred and sixty tons of marble were used in its construction. The marble walled gambling room contains 42 tables with seats for 600 players. Five hundred employes, including manager, croupiers, cashiers, waiters and doormen, are required to operate the gambling palace.

The immense casino, which Gould describes as "a place the Caesars could not have built," was announced early in 1926 by Gould, who has lived in France for years and bought up a number of large hotels and resorts on the Riviera. In finally getting the license Gould was assisted by the mayor of Nice, who pleaded with government officials that the loss Gould would suffer through inability to open the casino would prompt other foreign capitalists to refuse to invest their money in France.

MARKETING COST FOUND BIG ITEM IN MILK PRICE

Industry Concentrated in Large Dealers.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Between the row of milk bottles on Chicago's back door step and the herd of cows grazing peacefully twenty to two hundred miles away—the source of supply—has been built an army of workers and machinery that is constantly eating into the 14 cents a quart the consumer is paying.

To find exactly who gets the difference between the retail price and the actual cost of producing milk calls for a mathematically minded sleuth. The farmer says he gets between 5 and 6 cents a quart. The dealer says he makes a profit of about half a cent. And all the rest goes for cost of distribution, of which labor and machinery are the main items.

Many Forced Out.

A survey of the evolutionary process that is squeezing out milk dealers in Chicago at a steady pace indicates that the survivors in the competition will surely be the fittest—financially as well as in business acumen.

Ter years ago there were 600 licensed milk plants within the city's borders. In 1926, when the city council's ordinance became effective excluding all milk from cows not tested and free from tuberculosis, there were 247 dealers. In the space of three years nearly one hundred more dealers have either quit business or were absorbed by the large distributors.

Today the city health department licenses but 152 milk plants, five of these located in the nearby suburbs of Cicero, Forest Park, Argo, and Summit. Otto Black, business agent for the Chicago Milk Dealers' association, reports but 146 in the city by his count.

Nine of the largest plants in Chicago handle 61 per cent of all Chicago's milk distribution, according to Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner. Ninety-six small plants handle only 5 per cent of the city's daily milk consumption.

Tells Change in Conditions.

"Conditions are quite different today than they were a few years ago in the milk marketing business here," said Don Geyer, secretary of the Pure Milk association, which handles the greater share of all producers' dairy products sold through the milkman. "It is easy to see why many dealers could not stay in business when they were doing just as little as possible to process and protect the milk and to keep the farmers paid up. Such men didn't belong in the milk dealer picture, and they have been eliminated for the most part."

At the time the tuberculin test ordinance was made effective, April, 1926, the city health department, at that time directed by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, inaugurated several new and stringent requirements for pasteurizing the city's milk. The weaker dealers, unable to cope with the ordinance or finance new equipment, sold out. Some of these men became vendors, buying bottled milk from wholesale milk plants for from 98 cents to $1.12 per case of 12 quarts. There are 172 milk routes now operated by 162 of these licensed vendors.

Two years ago, according to Steve Sumner, business agent for the Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers' union, all dairy workers were given a boost of $5 per week in salary. These men, some 7,000 of them, including inside workers, now get $50 per week for a minimum of 1,333 points (a bottle or package is a point) in a six day week. They get a commission of 60 cents for each additional hundred points and two weeks' vacation with pay annually.

All Figures in Price.

This pay increase alone meant a jump in cost of $400,000 annually to one of the two largest Chicago distributors, indicating the part labor costs play in the Chicagoan's fourteen cents.

Then the farmers came along and exacted their toll of 15 cents per hundred increase last spring, and another 10 cents in September, adding a half cent per quart cost onto the dealer. Rumors of passing these to heavy raises in cost along to the consumer have so far faded into thin air.

The only impartial figures showing just how the price of milk is broken down to show costs seem to be those secured by the University of Illinois in a survey reported by C. A. Brown last December. Mr. Brown reported that the farmer received 5.33 cents per quart, the dealer cleared 47 cents, with the selling costs divided as follows:

	Cents.
Purchasing, receiving, processing	2.1926
Selling and delivery	4.5926
General and administrative	.3189
	7.1116

The average retail price paid for milk in Chicago, Mr. Brown found, was about 13 cents. Of the distribution costs, 65 per cent were labor and nearly 11 per cent were for materials and supplies, while nearly 10 per cent of the expense was for transportation. The remaining items included advertising, taxes, bad accounts, repairs, insurance, depreciation, and other fixed overhead expense.

. . . the Style Experts declared as they chose Bostonians' Selected Style No. 3.

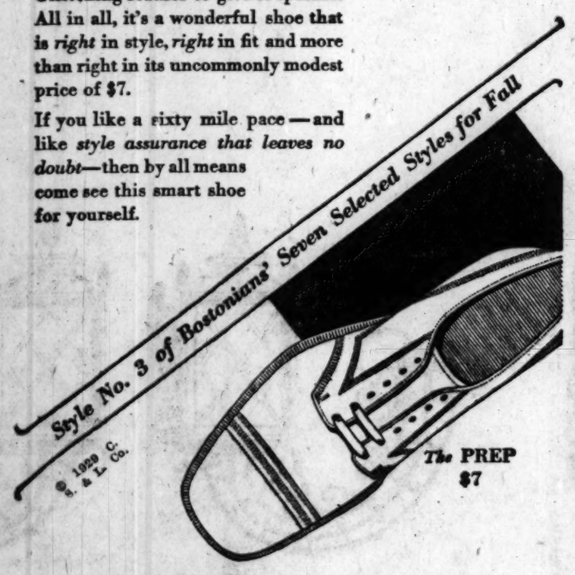

AND they certainly knew what they were talking about. Look at it. Hasn't it snap and ginger? And an irrepressible spirit of youth?

Just the shoe for the young fellow who's feeling his oats—and wanting his clothes to reflect his joy of living.

A husky sole and a broad-beamed toe to give it a swagger ruggedness. Glistening leather to give it sparkle. All in all, it's a wonderful shoe that is right in style, right in fit and more than right in its uncommonly modest price of $7.

If you like a sixty mile pace—and like style assurance that leaves no doubt—then by all means come see this smart shoe for yourself.

Artistic Creation!

And Stevens copy it, beautifully!

Madame Vionnet is an artist. Perhaps more than any other French couturier, she knows what lines are flattering to the feminine figure. Incidentally, V is here not only in name but in fashion. The coat sketched, by means of its graceful irregular v-line hemline, both heightens and slenderizes the wearer. Then, too, the softly-draped neckline is luxurious, a flattering frame to the face. . . . The name Vionnet, applied to a Coat is synonymous with Individuality!

FORMER PASTOR OF COOLIDGE IS HOOVER CRITIC

Asks Aroused Public to Demand Crime Cleanup.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Rev. Josan Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational church, of which former President Coolidge was a member, today called for "an aroused public opinion," to stir President Hoover and congress into action to end the crime wave and "generally demoralized condition" in Washington.

In the second of a series of sermons which he has announced will continue until conditions are bettered, Dr. Pierce rapped "a vicious circle in which the United States attorney blames the delay of justice to court conditions, the courts in turn criticize the evidence presented by the police, and throw it out on technicalities, and then the police department feels the helplessness of initiative under such conditions."

Not Self-Governing.

Asserting that if the District of Columbia were self-governing, "we might be in a worse situation, but at least it would be different," Dr. Pierce urged his congregation that "since this situation must be handled by the President or by congress, our part is to awaken." An aroused public, he continued "will produce aroused public officials and aroused public officials will enforce the law."

The recent McPherson strangling and other, as yet, unsolved murder mysteries are climaxes, the pastor asserted, in a wave of lawlessness marked by highly organized and systematized bootlegging, drunkenness, and crime of all kind.

"There is more systematized bootlegging, illicit manufacture and sale of hard liquor than there was five years ago," he said, "and these evils never go alone. Our police arrest men for drunkenness only as a last resort, yet already we have passed the unbelievable number of 12,000 such arrests since last Jan. 1—a record number. Boys and girls, as well as men and women, are selling agents."

Bootlegger Near Church.

Dr. Pierce charged that "four blocks from this church a man named Shore apparently has been doing a large liquor business for years, corrupting our youth and ruining the happiness of scores of homes."

The proprietor, "named as one Beard," of "a gambling joint within two blocks of this church," operates unmolested, the pastor charged.

"These and other instances in streets and alleys hard by this church illustrate a general and demoralizing condition," said Dr. Pierce.

Speaks at Evanston

GEORGE WARREN.

Hundreds of social workers of Illinois and neighboring states will assemble at the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston tomorrow night for the opening of the Illinois conference on public welfare. Sessions will continue through Wednesday, closing Thursday night with an address by Gov. Emmerson.

Family adjustment and reconstruction will be problems for primary consideration by the conferees. Among the speakers to be heard on these problems are Judge Charles W. Hoffman of the Cincinnati Court of Domestic Relations and George Warren, director of the international migration service of New York.

Rodney Brandon, director of the Illinois department of public welfare, will speak at the opening session. Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of the Chicago Council of Special Agencies, is chairman of the arrangements committee.

GAR WOOD BUYS FOUR MOTORED DOX TYPE PLANE

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Gar Wood of New York, motor boat racer and manufacturer, has ordered a flying boat of the DO-X type at the Dornier works at Friedrichshafen for his private use. The boat will be 105 feet long with a 75 foot wing spread. It will be driven by four motors, each of 500 horse power, made in America and capable of driving the craft 140 miles an hour with 27 passengers. But Wood wants accommodation for only five passengers. The boat will contain every luxury, such as sleeping cabins, a lounging room, a bathroom with shower, an electric kitchen, and a refrigerator.

THREE MEN LEAD POLICE TO $1,000 LOOT IN 2 FLATS

Three men taken into custody on Saturday by Sergt. Joseph Burke and his detective squad yesterday confessed to holding up several stores and led police to two flats where they had hidden nearly $1,000 in stolen property. Thomas Wyatt, 18 years old, 3351 Emerald avenue, and Harry Rintz, 25 years old, 4349 South Spaulding avenue, were arrested first when Sergt. Burke stopped them for questioning. Both were armed.

They took the detective squad to a flat at 3604 South Lowe avenue where the first batch of loot was discovered, and while the police were there Steve Coninsky, 23 years old, walked in, carrying an empty suitcase and a revolver. Last night they admitted that about $500 worth of loot was hidden at 5330 Aberdeen street and a detective detail went there to recover it.

FRED, 7, TRIES THE HIGH LIFE, BUT IT FLOPS

"Call me a cab," ordered 7 year old Fred Mulford, stamping his foot at Policeman Thomas Walsh in the East Chicago avenue station yesterday afternoon. "I want to go home the way my mother and father do." Fred insisted. "Hurry up, I want a taxi."

Policeman Walsh was dubious about the boy's ability to pay the cab fare from the station to his home at 1516 Adams street and hesitated. Fred had been found at Chicago avenue and Dearborn street and admitted he had run away from Sunday school and had spent the day trying to get into theaters.

As Policeman Walsh hesitated, Fred's mother, Mrs. H. E. Mulford, walked into the police station. Mother and son went home on a street car.

The unenlightened woman who still suffers every month, receives little sympathy when she could so easily end those pains with Midol. This merciful medicine is not a narcotic, you know. Nor does it interfere in the slightest with the normal and natural process itself. But Midol does banish the pain—in five to seven minutes. Because it acts directly on the organs affected. If taken ahead of time, you may avoid a single uncomfortable moment. Try to realize what a truly wonderful discovery this is; it has made at least one form of suffering quite needless. When every drug store has these harmless tablets, isn't it foolish to be a martyr? Midol costs fifty cents, in aluminum case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

MEDICAL ADVERTISING

The Chicago Medical society, whose bulletin recently spoke favorably of medical advertising, has now gone a step farther in clarifying its views. Dr. Charles B. Reed, the president of the society, has taken the position that the advisory committee of physicians, appointed to adjust the differences existing between the Public Health institute and the society, must, among other matters, bring the advertising of the institute within the restrictions imposed by medical ethics. These restrictions, says Dr. N. S. Davis III., permit the publication of advertisements which educate the public in matters of health, but do not recommend the services of any particular doctor or group of doctors.

This is very well as far as it goes, particularly as it seems likely that the society will find it expedient as time goes on to go farther. The first bridge has been crossed. The doctors' society now asserts that medical advertising of itself is not vicious; it must be judged by its uses. The society's officers have specified one form of medical advertising that they can approve as beneficial alike to the public and the profession. They still assert that advertising which recommends particular services is inherently vicious, but that position, too, should yield to further examination. If, as a result of advertising in the form the society approves, John Jones' life is prolonged and a doctor earns a fair fee, every one is better off. Every one might be still better off if, as the result of advertising, John Jones should find himself a patient of a superior physician or a superior clinic.

It would be a mistake to conclude that all professional restrictions upon the use of advertising should be dropped forthwith, but it is certain that Dr. Davis' reservation must be modified sooner or later. The whole tendency of modern life is toward organization. It is apparent in business, industry, and the professions. Doctors today are organized in clinics and hospitals. A physician who has a patient in need of the services of a specialist commonly recommends a particular specialist, and this is as it should be. These often informal organizations are destined to become more formal. They will assume the character of large scale enterprises which can serve the public economically only as large scale practice is developed. Advertising and large scale enterprise go hand in hand. Indeed, the one can hardly exist without the other.

We do not ignore the fact that the relations between physician and patient are peculiar and personal. It is well, therefore, that the medical profession itself, through its societies, guide the physicians in their efforts to achieve more efficient methods of serving the public and themselves. On the other hand, if the societies seek to prevent instead of guide the march of progress, they may lose control of the situation entirely.

The reëxamination of the Chicago Medical society's position on advertising must be credited in no small measure to the attention attracted to the question by the courageous example and by the expulsion of Dr. Schmidt for his indirect association with the Public Health institute. It may be asking too much of human nature to expect the society to reverse its action regarding Dr. Schmidt, but if it does not, he stands before his profession and the lay public as a sacrifice to the cause of progress.

THE PURE IN FOOTBALL

The Carnegie Foundation report on football revealed the University of Chicago and the University of Illinois as model institutions of higher learning and purer athletics. Their player students were not guests of the alumni. They were not subsidized by the hot dog concessionaire or carried on the president's vegetable garden account. The fact is worth noting because the political conditions of the communities in which these educational centers flourish have offered little in the way of noteworthy purity of anything.

If a confession were required it would be that the government of the state and the city has been quite rotten in the period out of which these blossoms of purity came. It might be asked what the city of Chicago had to do with the University of Chicago and it may be answered nothing, but nevertheless there might have been an influence. Mike Faherty's expert pay rolls, for instance. And the University of Illinois derives its vital essences in funds from the state government which has been such as to make a real Carnegie Foundation report if well handled.

Aside from noting these flowers of perfection in what might be regarded as astonishingly poor soil the Carnegie report mainly suggests the inquiry why the inquiry was undertaken. The foundation might investigate that and make another report.

It is apparent that even the most erring institutions of higher learning have made appreciable progress. It is no longer necessary to give courses in piano moving to provide an intellectual attachment for the football players with the pedagogical department. Older graduates can recall the time when it was and many sterling players came out of this course. No institution, so far as has been indicated, pays off after the game, nor does any engage talent on a per diem basis.

Present day football might be better managed by Morris Gest in collaboration with Jack Dempsey and possibly some day it will be. It may not be even now the most congruous product of the American collegiate system, but considerable of the objection to it is based apparently on the theory that it is all too enjoyable to be permitted. It is too much fun for the spectators, most of whom are willing to let nature take her course. That is not without reason. If American colleges can be ruined by football they're probably only waiting for something else to do it. Even now there are evidences that it does not control all the collegiate decisions. One college president said he could not join the undergraduates in raising whiskers until the team won a game. He was with them in spirits, although not in spinach.

EUROPE IN THE NEW DISPENSATION.

Stern warnings from the Fascist government to the Serbian because of anti-Italian demonstrations or attacks upon Italians at Ragusa, Sebenico, and other points in the Dalmatian littoral are natural enough, but the tone is not precisely that of a statesmanship which has renounced war. The situation in this region is incurably provocative, like that in some other marginal regions of Europe, and it will test the pretenses of the new dispensation sorely. What it ought to impress upon Americans is the fact that, while the Kellogg-Briand treaty may be classified, as Mr. Hoover has described prohibition, as "an experiment of noble motive," it has not repealed as yet the unwritten laws which have governed the conduct and the practical politics of a thousand years of European society.

European statesmen, we are confident, compelled to respect these laws, as our theorists and doctrinaires are not, have signed the treaty renouncing war as an instrument of policy with a considerable reserve, if we ought not to say with tongue in cheek, and we note that in two conspicuous contemporary instances two great powers whose signatures to the treaty are hardly dry have taken a tone which has at least the sound of violent belligerency, and in the case of one, Russia, has actually expressed itself, and is continuing to express itself, in military force. What is going on in northern Manchuria looks to us like war to the full extent of the restricted circumstances of soviet military power. If events offer any basis for reliable inference it is clear that only the shortage of material from which the otherwise strong Red army suffers, plus the great difficulties of carrying on extended military operations thousands of miles away, and plus some rather serious problems of internal control at home and the probability of resistance by Japan, prevents Moscow from taking the Chinese Eastern railway and all of north Manchuria away from the Chinese by military force, or, in other words, by war. A news report in Pravda, communist official organ of Moscow, will give our readers a sense of the value of the soviet's signature to the Kellogg treaty. It is reprinted below as an editorial of the day. As for Fascist Italy, we cannot find in the tone or policy disclosed upon every occasion, whether in Dalmatia or the Tyrol, any satisfying assurance that Fascist Italy would hesitate to use armed force at the moment conditions justified it as expedient or profitable.

In short, we are quite confident that neither government has renounced war as an instrument of policy or signed the Kellogg-Briand treaty with any intention of surrendering the advantages of superior power wherever or whenever they can be exploited. It may be suggested that the soviet and Fascist governments are survivals of the age of war and will be disciplined or restrained, if necessary, by other powers of the new dispensation, using such nonmilitary means as are available or, if need be, the sword dedicated to ends of peace, as it almost invariably has been declared to be in modern times.

This seems a rather dubious alternative, which for us does not wear the semblance of world peace as we understand it, or offer much encouragement for the pragmatic American mind to assume that mankind is reborn or that the United States can safely relinquish such means as it has maintained and employed in the past to protect its interests and purposes.

Editorial of the Day

RED DAY IN MOSCOW.

[From Pravda, Moscow Soviet Organ.]

Enthusiasm, the real revolutionary enthusiasm—when eyes are fiery and there come ecstatic or indignant shouts from hundreds of breasts—such an enthusiasm cannot be the product of imagination. Also the militant enthusiasm which urges the people to take stronger hold of the rifle, to keep in step with the comrades, and to sing half forgotten war songs in chorus, suddenly acquires a special meaning, a special significance:

"My pet rifle, shoot, shoot,
My pet rifle shoot!
Red pet rifle,
Have no pity for the bourgeoisie!"

This song comes from the lips of those in blue blouses (those in working clothes.—T.). Half an hour ago they stood at their work benches, assembling the parts of agricultural machines. Now their columns march, following the endless lines of other proletarian columns, filing in front of the district party committee, and above them floats the slogan:

"We Do Not Want a New War, but We Are Ready to Resist It!"

This preparedness at times is felt almost physically, strengthened by the conviction that the tested Leninist party leadership will not "give up," as well as by the realization of the power and unity of the international revolutionary proletarian columns.

The slogans appear first on the placards. The columns as they meet each other shout them at one another. They are hurled from the platforms on the Red Presnya, on Sukharevka, on Khamovniki, and in the proletarian district. The masses of the Red capital, a half million strong, swear by them:

"Down with the instigators of a new war!" the amplifiers carry out to the streets.

"Death to the world bourgeoisie!" the masses answer back. "Death!"

The slogans for Red day resounding here and there in the workers' suburbs blend finally into the thunder which is heard in all parts of Moscow and which doubtless will be heard outside it, and even beyond the boundaries of the U. S. S. S. R.

THIS CHANGING WORLD.

Crossing the ocean hasn't got the kick it used to have. All the mystery and romance has been knocked out of it by radio, moving pictures, fashionable restaurants, stock brokers' offices, telegrams night and day, and everything we have on shore. It used to be in the good old days, when your good ship dropped the pilot, you left the world behind and floated in space until you picked up the new pilot on the other side. Now you're just as much in touch with the events of the moment as though you were in a Chicago hotel. No more rushing to the rail to see the whale; even the dolphins have got disgusted. The only thing the modern ocean liner hasn't got is taxis. But they'll probably have 'em very soon.

JUST AS WE FEARED! A lot of the football teams on which rested the curse of the Carnegie Foundation broke loose Saturday and trampled the lily white athletes into the dirt. You certainly have to hand it to the subsidized players; they're worth subsidizing.

HE SAYS IT'S A DOG'S LIFE.

R. H. L.: Not that I hold any brief for that miserable ruminant Vangie (curse that goat, she's feasted off my choicest contributions for years), but is this Mr. Tylwyth Teg that you've brought back from Wales to take her job equal to the task? A goat will eat barbed wire or spring poetry without flicking an eyelash, but, I ask you, how can Tylwyth Teg swallow a pun or a wise crack without choking? Vangie stood it for years, but goats are that way. Now a dog—but what does Mr. Teg say about it? ANXIOUS ANNIE.

Quite Sad, but She'll Outgrow It.

Mrs. Herman is a graduate of Oskaloosa high school and Iowa State university, where she was afflicted with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

SENATOR BLEASE, who helped elect Mr. Hoover, says it's Mr. Hoover's job to dry up Washington. But if Mr. Hoover did that he wouldn't have much time to do any presidenting.

"HOW," roars Senator Blease, "can Mr. Hoover sleep peacefully in the White House with Washington rapidly becoming a hades of crime?" We don't know for sure, senator, but maybe Mr. Hoover counts sheep jumping over a fence, or perhaps he begins at 10,000 and counts backward until Morpheus comes. Or maybe he reads the Encyclopædia Britannica, or, better yet, possibly he reads Senator Blease's speeches. Any of those things ought to enable one to sleep peacefully in the White House or anywhere else.

Now, Why Bring That Up? And We Were So Happy.

R. H. L.: Gosh, I feel relieved, for of course you came back so you could get the 1929 Line Book ready. We were almost afraid you'd forget it, gallivanting around in Europe. FAYE READ.

O Well, He Thinks He's Running—No Don't Tell Him.

The New York press, which we saw as seldom as possible while we were away, almost convinced us that New York was all a-twitter over the mayoralty contest between Mayor Jimmie Walker and Mr. La Guardia, et al. But we had our doubts. When we were there last week and couldn't find any one except the newspapers who knew there is a political campaign on, our doubts increased. And yesterday in browsing through the current New Yorker we came on a tale that settled it. According to that eminent authority, one day recently Mr. La Guardia, the Republican candidate for mayor, strolled down the hall from his private office into the room of one of his managers. The latter was out and the secretary regarded Mr. La Guardia with polite unconcern. "Who shall I say called on um?" said she. "MISTER LA GUAR-DIA!" barked the chagrined candidate, turning to leave. "Howd'ya spell ut?" she called after him sweetly. . . . Ho-hum, we always felt sorry for the man who tried to defeat Jimmie Walker.

COMPROMISE.

Ex-marine, so cross and worried,
There's no need to be all flurried,
Let us compromise this matter so acute.
Fluted ruffles are my passion,
Be they in or out of fashion,

Oh, I'll promise no more smocking,
Or French dots you find so shocking!
Dainty swisses from now on shall be taboo,
If you'll concede without a scuffle,
One small whip-stitched fluted ruffle
'Round the collar of this little suit, will you?

You may crate long and wildly,
I'll just sit here sewing mildly,
'Round the collar of the baby's little suit,
One fluted ruffle wee and cunning,
Look dear! see how very stunning!

SALLY DERR.

LAGNIAPPE.

AND NOW the Stalwart Republicans have made him mad, so Senator Norris reconsiders his decision not to run again and buckles on the armor for another fight. It's always better not to poke the animals around.

AN ITALIAN WAITER has created a terrific sensation by declaring that George Bernard Shaw, who claims to be a vegetarian, eats porterhouse steak. We always thought George dined on Americans, eating them raw and holding their bones in his two hands while he gnawed away in wolfish glee.

AND ANOTHER THING that spoiled our first Sunday at home was the item in the morning papers that the up-to-date family nowadays has two radios in the home. Two radios! Oh death, where is, et cetera.

SUNDAY IS GETTING to seem only a long, dull wait between football and the stock market.

HABIT FORMING DRUGS.

At a recent meeting of the Southern Medical association several physicians expressed emphatic opinions favoring amendment of the Harrison drug act so that it included veronal and other barbital drugs. These drugs at times surpass opium, morphine, heroin, and cocaine in the harm they do. A year or so ago we recorded some Pennsylvania physicians who were of the opinion that the use of veronal and other barbituric remedies should be regulated by law.

Dr. W. C. Ashworth of Greensboro, N. C., says the British nation and, in fact, most European nations have laws for the control of veronal. We are perhaps the only highly civilized people who have not imposed restrictions on its use. He regards veronal as a habit forming drug and has observed cases that had a hangover just as there is after the use of opium and comparable to the "dark brown taste" after one has been liquored up.

Dr. P. V. Anderson says the addition of 10-15 grains of veronal to a stiff swig of whisky has become almost a habit in certain parts of Virginia. The physiologic effects of veronal and whisky are preferred by addicts to the effect of either drug taken alone. Most of those who have written of veronal addiction have referred to the rapid and great mental deterioration which it causes. It seems to harm the mind more rapidly than morphine does.

However, one who takes morphine in small doses can go a long time without slipping much mentally and probably the same can be said of the veronal addict who sticks to small doses. The disposition and the emotions suffer especially as a result of the habitual usage of considerable doses of any member of the barbituric group.

Dr. Ashworth called attention to the fact that there were certain types of people who should avoid veronal and other drugs of the group. They were those who just seemed to have a natural hankering for taking medicine, whether it be purgatives, headache medicines, tonics, aids to digestion, or what not.

Dr. Anderson said all neurasthenics should avoid these sleep producing remedies. Neurasthenia is really a mild, depressive manifestation and all so affected pick up habits readily.

FOOD FOR THE BABY.

E. X. P. writes; I have a baby 6 months old who does not get enough food, I think. My mother feeds him and she will not listen to me. He gets six bottles between 7 in the morning and 10 at night. Each bottle consists of 8 ounces of a mixture of two parts milk and one part barley water and 1½ teaspoons of sugar. The interval between feedings is three hours. In addition he gets zwieback rather frequently and freely, and one potato. Should he have fruit, cereal and egg? Where can I get a book?

REPLY:

If a baby is happy and playful and grows according to schedule he is being fed about right regardless of what anybody says to the contrary. You supply no information on this point.

As a rule, babies six months old should be fed at four hour intervals. The bedtime feeding, as a rule, is omitted, though there are many exceptions. An 8 ounce feeding is amply large. Most physicians give about the dilution you are using. Therefore, you are feeding too much milk.

Crackers can wholly replace cereal. There is no need for barley water in the milk, nor for sugar, for that matter, if crackers, potatoes or cereals are used. He should be having fruit juice or tomato juice daily. Egg can wait.

Send a stamped and addressed envelope [not small size] for booklet.

SHE HAS FEAR COMPLEX.

Mrs. M. writes: I have a girl almost 3 years old who seems to be a healthy, normal child. She complains every night she cannot go to sleep because she sees frightening things such as burglars and "other things." All she can tell me is just that. I lie down with her time and again, explain there is nothing to fear, but I do not seem to be able to convince her or to drive away her bad thoughts or dreams. She says she sees them when she shuts her eyes or is awake. I have had to leave her many times with others while I work, as we are alone. What are habit clinics for? Would I get help there?

REPLY:

This child is suffering from a fear complex. Her training has been at fault. The remedy is proper training.

If a habit clinic is available make use of it. They are for just such cases.

FLEAS AS DISEASE CARRIERS.

N. C. writes:

1. Are fleas carriers of disease? Please name them.
2. What method would you suggest to get rid of them?

REPLY.

1. They spread plague. There is some proof that they spread one kind of modified typhus. They may spread other diseases.
2. Fleas can be eliminated by [a] controlling hosts, such as dogs, cats, rats; [b] cleaning up the dusty places in which they breed; [c] free use of powdered moth balls; [4] killing adult fleas; [e] controlling temperature and humidity.

USING TRADE NAME.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it legal for an individual to advertise and do business under a trade name, such as a certain agency? 2. Does a trade name need to be recorded? H. W.

1. Yes. 2. No.

WAGE CLAIMS FROM BANKRUPT FIRM.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When a corporation goes into the hands of receivers and is still operating, does the receiver pay employés for wages earned before they took possession? 2. If so, how long must we wait? 3. To obtain the money, is it necessary to have a lawyer to take this up in court? 4. What can be done about checks issued two weeks before the foreclosure that could not be cashed at the bank? R. E. B.

1. The previously earned wages are a preferred claim and as such should be paid in the course of administration, but they are not automatically paid by the receiver without further court order. 2. Depends on the sufficiency of the assets and on other facts that are not before us. 3. If you have not filed a claim and do not know how to file one, you should employ an attorney. 4. You should file claim for the amount as wages if the checks were given for wages.

ASHLAND AVENUE CONDITIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—Is there a probability that the city may settle damage claims in connection with the widening of Ashland avenue in the near future? The delay in settling claims is working a great hardship on the property owners, as the torn up and partly unfinished condition of the street makes it almost impossible to rent property and secure sufficient income to pay taxes. F. B. C.

If the bonds are voted favorably at the election of Nov. 4 we will be in a position to pay the awards allowed for property to be taken or damaged on Ashland avenue, Western avenue, and La Salle street, and the city can then take possession of property condemned. JOSEPH F. McCLORY,
Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 28, 1864.

CHICAGO.—Private dispatches were received in this city last night announcing that Grant's grand movement began at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The general news dispatches contain no hint of it, but the announcement comes to us so well sustained by our previous advices that we cannot doubt it. We cannot believe the movement will take the form of an attack upon the works of the rebel capital, but rather believe it will be a broad, resistless sweep upon the sole remaining southern connection of Richmond, the Danville railroad.

ST. LOUIS.—The following is derived from a reliable source: Our forces have been driving Gen. Price rapidly since the 23d. At last accounts he was 20 or 30 miles south of Fort Scott with his army routed and dispersed. On the 25th we had a fight with him between Mound City and Fort Scott, in which he was badly whipped, losing 150 prisoners and 10 or 12 pieces of artillery. Among the prisoners are Maj. Gen. Marmaduke and Gen. Cabell. After another engagement yesterday Price burned 200 wagons to prevent their being captured.

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Examiner of the 24th says of the late battle with Gen. Sheridan in the Shenandoah: "Our principal loss was in cannon. We lost no prisoners—principally wounded—teamsters and drivers. The enemy was severely thrashed and they know it."

CHICAGO.—The first grand outpouring of the loyal sentiment of Chicago in the present campaign was made yesterday. The three largest halls in the city, Bryan, Metropolitan, and Turner, were each crammed with loyal men and women. The Hon. Schuyler Colfax, speaker of the house of representatives; the Hon. Lyman Tremaine of New York, and Maj. Gen. Carl Schurz each delivered spirit stirring addresses on the side of truth and right.

LONDON. — A battle somewhat similar to the Boer attack on Mafeking was fought on Tuesday just outside of Kimberley between 500 British under Colonel Murray and 700 Boers led by Commandant Botha. The British claim a decided victory. The Boer losses were heavy, according to the British, including Commandant Botha. The Boer version is yet unknown and may tell another story.

CHICAGO.—"Dr." Alexander Dowie, the head of Zion, was mobbed, stoned and run out of Hammond, Ind., last night by a crowd of several hundred people. The attack began in Heuhn's opera house, where the overseer was to have lectured. It ended at the outskirts of the town, whither Dowie was chased through mud and rain. The onslaught was the outcome of indignation over the death of the 4 year old child of ex-City Marshal Al Walker without care other than Dowieites.

CHICAGO. — William E. Mason's threat to resign his seat in the United States senate if the Philippines were not given liberty aroused some speculation and brought out a rumor that if the senator voluntarily relinquished his toga it would be during the holidays.

NEW YORK.—Della Fox is dying. It is not believed the actress will live throughout twenty-four hours.

NEW YORK. — General Guy V. Henry, U. S. A., "Fighting Guy," until a few months ago military governor of Porto Rico and famous as an Indian fighter, died today on the eve of assuming command of the Department of Missouri.

OCTOBER 28, 1919.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson vetoed the prohibition enforcement bill this afternoon and the house promptly repassed the measure over the veto by a vote of 176 to 55, with two members voting "present." This is 21 more than the two-thirds majority needed. It is expected that the senate promptly will take the same action.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Confronted by the demand of President Wilson that the strike call which would halt production in the soft coal fields be rescinded, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, invited 25 district presidents of coal producing states and members of the miners' scale committee to meet with the international executive board Wednesday to consider the issue.

LONDON.—The chances of Gen. Yudenitch, commander of the Russian northwestern army, to capture Petrograd before winter puts an end to the operations seems again to be fading. The bolsheviki have brought strong reinforcements from other fronts.

GARY, Ind.—First official admission of the loss of the steel strike was made by L. F. Titus, member of the steel council, captain of the pickets and labor leader, who defied Mayor Hodges and the police. "There is no use pretending," he said. "The men are going back to work and the strike is lost. The army is responsible."

COMMUNIST-FASCIST PROPAGANDA IN THE UNITED STATES.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—You are certainly correct in stating that "assimilating foreign elements in our population is difficult even without a propaganda directed at keeping those elements estranged." Yet that is exactly what the communist organization, directed from Moscow, is doing, as witness for instance its work in its so-called foreign language sections and in the so-called Council for the Protection of the Foreign Born that was communist organized and which is communist controlled and directed. Furthermore, it does not stop with these activities among the foreign born, but specifically works to alienate native born elements in our population, teaching the doctrine that the only "fatherland" of the workers is the U. S. S. R. I respectfully submit that the editorial statement that "the contempt of Fascism for American citizenship rights is more serious because it is more overt" will not stand up, at least not so far as "more overt" is concerned.

The communist organizations, and those directed and controlled by them, ridicule the United States and at this very moment, operating through the so-called International Labor Defense, is arranging massmeetings throughout the United States to protest against the verdict rendered in the so-called Gastonia cases. Without raising any question whatsoever as to whether the verdict rendered in the Gastonia cases is justified by the evidence or not, attacking the North Carolina court as owned by mill owners and as the agent of the capitalist class and endeavoring to align masses of people in this country and in every country of the world against the United States is certainly an overt hostile act. So far as I know Fascism has never done anything in any way comparable to it.

The effort of the communists is to stage world-wide demonstrations, including demonstrations within the United States, similar to those that it so successfully staged in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case. I know of nothing that Fascism has done that is comparable to that.

At this very moment, instead of moving to put a stop to soviet propaganda against the United States, our governmental authorities are directly aiding and abetting it by instructing naval radio stations to cooperate in the flight of the Red airplane, Land of the Soviets, and by instructing the Sixth corps area headquarters of the United States army here in Chicago to extend facilities and courtesies to these propagandists. I can easily demonstrate from records in my possession that the flight of this soviet airplane is a propaganda mission.

I am not defending Fascism nor expressing an opinion on it one way or another. The point I wish to make is that apparently in these two editorials on the same page of THE TRIBUNE this morning flesh is made of one type of anti-American propaganda and fowl of another type. Why the distinction?

Since I am on the subject I would like to point out that, while there is a Fascist League of North America, there is likewise an Anti-Fascist league, and the latter is communist directed.

HARRY CURRAN WILBUR.

MUSSOLINI'S AMERICAN SUBJECTS.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 25.—In reply to your editorial regarding Fascism in the United States I would suggest that you verify facts before taking up valuable space.

Having just returned from an instructive and illuminating trip to Italy [not on any mission or for personal interviews, but merely for my own satisfaction] I find that Mussolini has been so busy with his own affairs in the last seven years bringing Italy up to such a wonderful condition both financially and otherwise that he could not possibly do any of the things mentioned above.

Mr. Duffield does not state in his article that unnaturalized Italians or their children are liable for compulsory military duty in Italy as in any other country which has compulsory military service. Neither does he state that the United States government has never taken steps to make an agreement with the Italian government whereby it has a right to claim such Italians.

Even if the article were true we should THE TRIBUNE waste valuable editorial space on such a subject—worrying about a few Italo-Americans when it has been most instrumental in attempting to brand the Italians as an undesirable race, refusing to acknowledge as Americans the comparatively small percentage of criminals of Italian descent, even of the second or third generation, and suppressing as far as possible the ancestry of those thousands of the same race who are good, loyal citizens and who have proved their ability to stand on an equality, socially, culturally, and otherwise, with those of any other race.

MARIE A. SCIARA,
President of the Italian Women's Club.

STRONG, SILENT SENATORS.

Chicago, Oct. 25. — Mr. R. R. B. would like to know why he never reads of any speeches or doings of Senator Deneen in Washington. For his information I will let him know that Senator Dereen is chairman of an important committee, and is also serving on other committees, and has not much time to wind blowing like Senator La Follette and others.

If all of our senators would use their heads a little more and their mouths a little less, conditions would be helped. If our city officials, who are about the greatest masters with their mouths, would do a little close figuring, the city of Chicago would be much further ahead than it is today.

A. W. ANDERSON.

DENEEN AND THE JONES LAW.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—In answer to R. R. B. Blair's comment on Senator Deneen, all I wish to say is "Don't be silly." Did the senator vote for the Jones law.

FRED C. NIELSEN.

IN PRAISE OF GEN. KNOX.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—It pleased me greatly to see in THE TRIBUNE a special story dealing with the Gen. Henry Knox celebration at Knox college, Galesburg, Ill. I happen to be an alumnus of Knox college, and it is gratifying to have THE TRIBUNE recognize the news value of a story about an educational institution that has meant a great deal in this particular part of the middle west.

Incidentally, I think you would be surprised to know how many Knox college alumni there are in TRIBUNE territory, and I am sure that all of these are gratified at the attention which THE TRIBUNE pays to news concerning Knox college.

R. C. WARNER.

CAPITAL LOCOMOTIVES.

Chicago, Oct. 24.—In THE TRIBUNE of Oct. 22 an article states that the new class H locomotive of the North Western railroad is the largest and most powerful in the world. There are several locomotives in the United States which are larger and more powerful than this.

The North Western engine has a length of 105 feet 4 inches, weighs 600,000 pounds, has 76 inch drivers, and develops 83,000 pounds for its maximum tractive effort. It has a maximum speed of 85 miles per hour.

The Northern Pacific engine No. 1[illegible] is 125 feet in length and weighs more than one million pounds. The Southern Pacific cab-in-front locomotive weighs 906,000 pounds. The Hudson type engine has 79 inch drivers, while the Pacific type on the B. & O. has 80 inch drivers. The Santa Fe type develops a maximum tractive effort of 25,380 pounds.

An articulated locomotive of the 2-8-8-2 type is greater yet, with 1,500 pounds, while the Union Pacific three cylinder type for freight service is credited with 96,650 pounds. On the Delaware and Hudson, engine No. 8[illegible] is capable of 90 miles per hour, and the Boardwalk Flyer on the Philadelphia and Reading has a speed limit of 75 miles per hour. EDWARD J. MORAN.

SO. SHORE LINE IS EXAMPLE OF TRANSIT SERVICE

Road Creates Epoch in Suburban Traffic.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The South Shore line—the electric route running the 90 miles between Chicago and South Bend—illustrates what capable railroad management can give metropolitan Chicago in the form of transportation. It travels in and out on the Illinois Central suburban tracks between Kensington and Randolph street. This line is so good that it was recently given the Charles A. Coffin award at the Atlantic City convention over every other electric road in the country.

The line was originally built back in 1906-7-8. When operation was started on July 1, 1908, it represented the best that engineering skill could produce for $10,000,000. It went along fairly well until the world war in 1914.

Finally Becomes Insolvent.

The upheaval unbalanced its stability. High money rates, increased cost of labor and materials, parallel hard roads, competing motor trucks, a few buses and many private automobiles pushed it from bad to worse until it became insolvent. It had no credit, even its bondholders would not advance money to help it along. The $10,000,000 investment shrunk to $6,450,000. It was sold by the court in July, 1925, and the Insull interests became the operators

In 1924 the loss was $259,813, while this year there will be a profit of that amount. In 1924 its passenger revenues were $655,734; last year they were $1,756,636. In 1924 its freight revenues were $172,924, last year $1,442,823. In a word the South Shore line's revenues in 1924 were $857,688 as compared with $3,060,539 last year, and for the year ending Sept. 30 last the figure was $3,334,695.

Meets All Competition.

In the last three years the road has not only been rehabilitated but has practically been rebuilt and reelectrified, and about $7,000,000 of new money poured into the property. The number of private automobiles has greatly increased, the bus lines multiplied, the motor trucks doubled, and the South Shore line competes successfully in cities and towns traversed by nine class A railroads. It is meeting the keenest competition while paralleling one of the famous paved roads of the nation—the Dunes highway.

The secret of the success has been service. When the Illinois Central electrified its suburban service the South Shore had to duplicate that performance in order to use the I. C. tracks.

First the amount of service was increased. The number of trains in 1925 was 18; today the number is 80. First it was "a train every hour on the hour," then a train every half hour.

At the same time the patrons were offered speed. Under the old management the fastest train required two hours and 55 minutes to run from South Bend to Chicago. The new management cut the schedule to two hours and a half and maintained it for three years. On April 29, 1928, an extra fast service of two hours and 15 minutes was inaugurated.

Time Cut Again and Again.

Sure of its footing on the new high speed basis, the time of extra fast trains was cut a year ago to two hours and five minutes, and all regular trains to two hours and 20 minutes. At the beginning of this year the Fort Dearborn Limited, a de luxe dining car train, started on a schedule of one hour and 59 minutes. Twice this road has been recognized as having the second fastest schedule in the United States.

Thus this year the South Shore line has buckled into the competition presented by the private automobile, the motor coach and the competing steam railroads. In effect the South Shore dares the speed demons in their autos to race. At some of its important stations the South Shore provides free parking space for autoists who wish to leave their machines while they ride in on the electric. Each owner of a car is told that the electric will make better time than he can make through the Calumet industrial district and the crowded streets of Chicago. The cars are capable of attaining a speed of 67 miles an hour and frequently poke a nose ahead of the Illinois Central trains which spin along a mile a minute.

Seldom a week goes by that one or more commuter does not write THE TRIBUNE complaining of the behind the time trains of a certain steam suburban service. Under the old management only about 75 per cent of the South Shore trains were operated on time. Under the Insull management out of 28,266 scheduled trains operated in 1928, 93.68 per cent were run on time. This compares favorably with the most efficiently operated steam railroads of the country.

It is impracticable to attempt to mention every factor which has contributed to the upbuilding of the south shore, but it is probable that the type of cars has had much influence. The smoking compartment is separated from the remainder of the car by an arrangement similar to that in steam railroad Pullmans. The cars are all steel construction with vestibules and diaphragms, dual heat control, and storm windows to protect against noise. In addition to the ventilation system, all cars are equipped with electric fans to stimulate ventilation, and individual window vents permit the passenger some control over the temperature and freshness of the air he breathes.

Dining Cars the Best.

The dining cars compare favorably with those of the extra fare steam trains, but the kitchens are extra large to provide for the fastest service. The towns along the route are close together and the system of operation permits of a speed of 37 minutes for a meal. The parlor cars have all the features of such a car of an extra fare train to New York or Washington.

The enormous increase in freight tonnage is another story, as well as the number of new industries which the management has persuaded to locate along the line. The freight revenue, while not as large as the passenger income, helps the financial side of the enterprise.

POWER SITE RIVALS WILL GET HEARING BEFORE U. S. BODY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Rival claims for a license to develop the Flathead river power site in Montana, frequently described as "the Muscle Shoals of the northwest," will be argued tomorrow before Commissioner Wilbur of the federal power commission by representatives of the Rocky Mountain Power company and Walter H. Wheeler, Minneapolis engineer.

A tentative decision made by F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission, in favor of the Rocky Mountain company, was appealed by Wheeler and brought forth protests from both Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.] and Senator Frazier [Rep., N. D.], who is chairman of the senate Indian affairs committee.

BAR MAY LOOK INTO CUSTOMS ROW OF JUDGE

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Bar association of the city of New York will be called upon to investigate the recent controversy of Judge Amedeo A. Bertini of the Court of General Sessions with United States customs authorities, which resulted in payment by the judge of $2,286.37, which included a penalty.

Judge Bertini was appointed by Gov. Roosevelt to fill the vacancy which arose when Francis X. Mancuso retired under fire, and has been nominated by the Democrats for a full term

When called upon for an explanation of the customs case, the judge said the payment he made was due solely to a dispute over the value of some articles he had brought in, and had been made under protest. He said he has filed a demand for relief with the secretary of the treasury.

SOVIETS EXECUTE 30 PEASANTS IN ROWS OVER GRAIN

Include Priests in Stern War of Reprisal.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Dispatches to the official Tass News agency today said that 30 Kulaks, or rich peasants, in various parts of Soviet Russia had been shot for opposing the government's campaign. The government has encountered some enormous difficulties in its double purpose of gathering grain from the peasantry and converting the present small peasant land holdings into large collective farms.

In the village of Gari, near Ivanovo-Voznesensk, where the local cemetery was included in a new collective farm established by the government, two priests and two rich peasants were shot for spreading a rumor that the government would destroy the graves and close the church. These rumors had led the population to take severe measures in reprisal against government inspectors and members of the communist organization.

Shot for Burning Grain.

In the village of Mály Penky, in the same district, two brothers named Karchagin were shot for opposing the establishment of a collective farm by burning their grain and terrorizing local communists.

For the murder of a government grain collector at Taskoava in the Tomsk district, five Kulaks were shot. The inspector had reported on their activities. At different points in Novosibersk province on the same day 14 Kulaks were similarly executed either for opposing a government project or deliberately burning their grain to prevent the authorities from taking it.

The government prosecuting officials have made no secret of these summary executions, which are only a few of those carried out to date in the determination of the authorities to fulfill their plans without regard to consequences.

Priest Is Executed.

The death sentence was also pronounced today on four members of the Preobrajensky church in the town of Kimri, in Moscow province, for "counter revolutionary activities." The Priest Koleroy was among them, and a number of others identified with the same church were sentenced to from four to ten years imprisonment.

It was charged that when government agents attempted to close the church the priest and his assistants rushed to the church tower and rang the bells. Hundreds of villagers assembled and, under the alleged inspiration of the priest attacked the government representatives and members of local communist organizations.

PARIS BLACK AND TAN LIFE BARED BY MURDER CASE

Woman Kills Husband After Wild Orgy.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The wild life of the black and tan resorts in the Latin quarter of Paris, where the color line is not drawn, promises to be an important feature of the evidence in the trial of Mme. Didi Weiller this week for the murder of her husband last December.

The tragedy occurred after a night-long orgy in which Didi Weiller, her husband and friends spent hours in black and tan cafés, where Mme. Weiller met again a beautiful mulatto girl who, it is claimed, exerted a mysterious attraction over her. M. Weiller, despite his wife's strange affection for the Negress, is said to have not been jealous, and also made love to the girl.

Hint at Abnormality.

Doctors have examined Mme. Weiller and pronounce her sane, but nervously afflicted. Her husband is asserted to have been the victim of a wound received in the war which brought about a chronic psychosis.

The wife asserts that after they returned from the night in th cafés her husband had a paroxysm, during which he seized her throat and tried to choke her. She went into another room for a revolver, and when she returned he attempted to attack her again. At this she fired three times, each bullet taking effect.

A servant girl heard M. Weiller scream, "Didi, you are mad!" and then the three shots. When the police arrived Mme. Weiller was standing over the body of her husband painting her lips, and did not once look back on the body when she was taken away.

Whites Cavort with Blacks.

Mme. Weiller described the party, which began with an elaborate dinner with plenty of cocktails and lots of champagne, and then proceeded to a black and tan dance hall in the Latin quarter, where wealthy white women often go clandestinely to dance with Negroes, and where prominent business men cavort with Negresses.

Here Didi danced with her favorite mulatto girl. After being here for some time, the party proceeded to another notorious café, where there was questionable entertainment and where more champagne and sniffs of cocaine aided in the delirium of the night. The party went home about 6 o'clock and then followed the murder.

The mulatto girl is being held as a witness for Didi.

PICK CHAMPION OF DOGDOM AT BENEFIT SHOW

Kingsthort Sandstorm, a wire haired fox terrier owned by Alex Stewart of Kenilworth, was crowned champion of champions last night at the close of the first annual licensed dog show of the Mid-States Associated Dog club at the 131st infantry armory at 16th street and Michigan avenue. Kingsthort Sandstorm is an English champion and was imported by Mr. Stewart last winter.

The selection of the best dog of the show in all classes was the climax of a two day exhibtion held for the benefit of the Chicago Boys' club to raise funds for work among underprivileged boys. The show was sponsored by social leaders.

Carlo Von Taubenbrunnen, owned by E. F. Dulen of Detroit, was awarded the American championship for police dogs. He previously held the title of international champion.

EAT! DONT BUY FLAGS FOR ME, SAYS ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Oct. 27.—Gov. Theodore Roosevelt has asked school children not to buy American flags to wave in greetng him when he visits schools while on a motor inspection of the island and governmental activities.

The governor said he had learned that in some instances the children bought flags with money which they needed for school lunches, costing five cents.

While appreciating their desire to show respect to him in his official capacity, the governor said he would enjoy a more impromptu reception involving no expense to the schools or children. Practically all flags, large and small, have been sold out in the last two weeks.

FLAYS FINLAND'S DRY REGIME FOR WAVE OF CRIME

Prohibition Breeds Vice, Says Police Chief.

BY B. VON ALFTHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 27.—Lawlessness in Finland is the direct result of prohibition, according to Maj. Gen. Bruno Jalander, governor of Helsingfors county and chief of police of Helsingfors, who today attacked the dry regime in an interview published in the Hufvud Stadsbladet.

Gen. Jalander answers press attacks which blame the growing crime wave on the county governors' vice and indolence. The governors have often advanced proposals for combating crime, Gen. Jalander says, but neither house of the diet will support them in their efforts because the lawmakers prefer to keep the police comparatively helpless against prohibition offences in order to be able to blame the police governors for the disastrous results of prohibition.

More Jails Under Dry Law.

Ten years ago post-war conditions were blamed for hooliganism and criminality, and prohibition was offered as a remedy which would empty the prisons. Instead, Gen. Jalander says, Finland has been kept busy building new prisons, while the criminal groups which are keeping the bootleg industry alive are able to work openly in sight of the citizens without fear of denunciation.

The bootleggers are making vast sums in tax free income with little exertion. Citing the passiveness with which lack of respect for the prohibition law is accepted, the general says it is practically impossible to secure witnesses in prohibition cases.

The majority of criminals in Finland originate in the liquor traffic, he declares, where they learn disrespect for law, earn large sums of money, and spend it in heavy drinking of their own merchandise. Statistics also show an alarming increase in insanity attributed to poisonous and adulterated beverages, he declares.

The prohibition party still has a majority in the diet, but no hold among the people. Many a friend of genuine temperance has been alienated by prohibition and the dire results of it.

Find Liquor Everywhere.

The psychological result of the dry law in Finland, according to Gen. Jalander, is the provocation of the desire to break the law as a sort of sport. In the public belief there is no reason to be ashamed of violating the prohibition law, and this makes the most diligent efforts of the police and customs officers futile. Drinks are available everywhere, former teetotalers have become drinkers, and even school children are drinking.

Scoring those who continue to regard prohibition otherwise than an abortive experiment, Gen. Jalander concludes that the sooner a rational correction of the prohibition law is effected the sooner criminality will be checked.

Student Fatally Shot; Thought Stealing Gasoline

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Halice Valoris Lindley, 20, of Kokomo, Ind., a sophomore at Ball State Teachers' college here, was shot and fatally wounded early today by Jesse L. Senter as he was leaving Senter's garage, where he was believed to have been stealing gasoline. He died two hours later.

DEMOCRATS WAR IN VIRGINIA TO END CANNON RULE

Governorship Race Is Close; Vote Nov. 5.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Virginia voters this week enter upon the last lap of the most bitter, interesting and uncertain race for governor that has disturbed the old dominion since reconstruction days, when whites battled Negroes for control of the state.

William Mosely Brown, professor of psychology at Washington and Lee university, is the candidate of the Republicans and those Democrats who opposed Gov. Smith for President. He is known as the coalition candidate in some quarters, the fusion candidate in others, but Democrats call him the Republican anti-Smith candidate.

Balks at Cannon Rule.

Opposing Brown is John Garland Pollard, Democratic nominee, a prohibitionist by practice and principle, but balks at delivering the control of the state into the hands of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist church, South, probably the most dominating politician in Virginia.

Cannon is opposed to Pollard because he supported Smith for the presidency. Cannon was the organizer of the anti-Smith movement in Virginia and other southern states. He also is against Pollard because Pollard is backed by the Democratic organization, which supported Smith for President and backed Harry F. Byrd, the present governor, in a victorious race against Cannon's candidate four years ago.

Byrd, the recognized leader of Virginia Democrats, is the successor of the late Senator Thomas S. Martin, the Democratic boss of Virginia. Byrd is stumping the state for Pollard. Capture of the state by the Republicans would wreck Byrd's leadership and enthrone Cannon as boss.

Waters Are Muddied.

Cannon has muddied the waters by injecting Al Smith and J. J. Raskob, national Democratic chairman, as an issue. He insists a victory for Pollard would be a victory for Smith and Raskob and would mean the nomination of Smith for the presidency in 1932.

Brown is devoting most of his speeches to the Cannon issue, with charges of corruption in the Democratic machine in the collection of money for campaign purposes. He declares the nation is watching the result in Virginia, and that if Pollard wins it will be a victory for Smith and Raskob and defeat of prohibition and independence.

Slight Advantage.

Cannon also has injected the religious issue into the campaign by charging that Pollard is backed by Smith and Raskob, who are Catholics, and that a victory for the Democrats will be hailed as a victory for Romanism.

There have been many desertions from the anti-Smith camp into the Democratic ranks. An unbiased forecast of the election, which will be held Tuesday, Nov. 5, would give Pollard a slight advantage. Brown appears to be strong in Fairfax and Arlington counties and in the Third and Ninth districts. He probably will carry the cities of Portsmouth, Danville, and Newport News. Richmond and Norfolk, from indications, will give Pollard about 3,000 and 1,500 majorities, respectively.

12,000 CHEER 4 RUSSIANS ON WORLD FLIGHT

The Russian around the world flyers were cheered by 12,000 persons who jammed the Broadway armory yesterday. Several speakers declared that the trip of the plane, Land of the Soviets, should hasten recognition of the soviet government by the United States.

As a substantial token of their enthusiasm, the audience responded to an appeal from a woman speaker who declared that tractors were needed in Russia by contributing several thousands of dollars to be carried back by the flyers to their native land.

The flyers, S. A. Shestakov, Philip E. Bolotov, Boris V. Sterligov, and Dmitry V. Fufayev, started their flight from Moscow on Aug. 8. They flew across Siberia and Bering straits to Alaska, down the Pacific coast to Seattle and Oakland, and then eastward to Chicago. They will leave Curtiss field between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning for Detroit and from there continue to New York. The flight is backed by the Russian National Aeronautical association.

KIND TO THE EYES

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Amendments making extensive increases in duties on agricultural products are ready for presentation in the senate as consideration of the tariff bill progresses.

Cheered by the duty on casein, in which dairy groups are interested, from 2½ cents per pound, as in the house bill, and 3½ cents, as recommended by the senate finance committee, to 5½ cents, the senators representing agricultural states propose to fight for higher rates all along the line. Already the finance committee has made a number of increases over the boosts given to farm duties in the house bill, but the American Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange, and other organizations have asked for further advances.

Town and Country Clash.

The movement for higher farm duties will go hand in hand with the effort to hammer down rates on industrial products.

The controversy over duties on vegetable oils, which are included in the chemical schedule in the tariff law rather than in the agricultural schedule, is scheduled to come to a head tomorrow. Agriculture and industry have clashed over the question of duties on these oils, which include raw materials used in the manufacture of soap and paint. The soap and paint manufacturers have resisted any increases in duties, with the result that both in the house bill and the senate finance committee bill compromises were effected which do not satisfy the farm groups.

Amendments embracing increases desired by agricultural organizations on vegetable oils will be presented tomorrow by Senator John Thomas [Rep., Idah]. His amendments fix a minimum rate of 45 per cent on the entire group of oils. The finance committee applied a minimum of 45 per cent on soy bean oil, but refused to do so on other items. The house ways and means committee failed to accept the 45 per cent minimum on any of the oils.

Linseed Oil Rate Is Issue.

In the case of linseed oil, the Thomas amendment provides a minimum duty of 55 per cent. The duty is fixed at 4½ cents per pound. The house bill increased the old rate of 3 3-10 cents per pound to 4 16-100 cents, but the finance committee cut it to 3 7-10 cents, which is the rate fixed by President Hoover under the operation of the flexible tariff.

The Thomas amendment also increases duties on castor oil from 3 cents to 5 cents per pint; hempseed oil from 1½ to 4½ cents per pound; poppyseed oil from 3 to 8 3-10 cents per pound; rapeseed oil from 6 cents per gallon to 3 7-10 cents per pound; cocoanut oil from 2 to 2 6-10 cents per pound; cottonseed oil from 3 to 3 6-10 cents per pound; peanut oil from 4 to 5 4-10 cents per pound; palm kernel oil from 1 to 3 6-10 cents per pound; and sesame oil from 3 to 5 4-10 cents per pound. It fixes the rate on soy bean oil at 2 8-10 cents per pound, as in the finance committee bill.

The Thomas amendment also increases duties on vegetable tallow and hydrogenated or hardened oils or fats and makes dutiable palm, perilla and sweet almond oils, now on the free list.

Philippine Oil Enters Free.

That the effect of high duties on vegetable oils is partly nullified because of the fact that cocoanut oil comes in free of duty from the Philippines has been contended and is one reason why the finance committee refused to make further increases. The farm interests have already been defeated in an attempt to make Philippine products subject to duties.

One of the principal fights over the oil paragraphs will come on olive oil. The finance committee cut the basic rate on olive oil from 3½ cents per pound, as in the house bill, to 7½ cents, as in the present law. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] will offer an amendment to make the rate 8½ cents, while Senator P. L. Goldsborough [Rep., Md.] proposes to make it 10½ cents. Senator R. F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], on behalf of New York importers, will urge a cut to 6 cents.

Requests Are Numerous.

Numerous other amendments for higher duties on farm and competitive products will be offered when the agricultural schedule is reached. These amendments on the basis of recommendations of the American Farm Bureau federation, will include increases from finance committee rates as follows:

Live cattle, from 2 to 3 cents per pound under 700 pounds, and from 2½ to 4 cents per pound over 700 pounds; lard, from 3 to 5 cents per pound, with a minimum of 45 per cent; frozen eggs, from 8 to 12 cents per pound; corn, from 25 to 30 cents per bushel; paddy or rough rice, from 1 to 2 cents per pound with a minimum of 45 per cent; cherries in natural state, from 2 to 4 cents per pound; limes, from 1 to 2½ cents per pound, with a minimum of 45 per cent; oranges and grapefruit, from 1 to 2 cents per pound, with a minimum of 45 per cent; peanuts, from 4¼ to 6 cents per pound; castor beans, from ½ cent to 2 cents per pound, with a minimum of 40 per cent; alfalfa seed, from 5 to 6 cents per pound, and green peas, from 2 to 3½ cents per pound.

RADIUM POISONING VICTIM NOT YET ON CRITICAL LIST

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A victim of radium poisoning, Mrs. Quinta McDonald of Orange, N. J., was reported as in "fair" condition today at Memorial hospital. She is one of five New Jersey women whom physicians 16 months ago declared doomed because their systems had absorbed radium from luminous paint which they applied to watch dials while employed by the United States Radium corporation of Orange, N. J. Their systems absorbed the radium when they dampened the paint brushes with their lips.

Although she was reported last night to be dying, Memorial hospital authorities today said Mrs. McDonald's name had not yet been entered on the "critical" list.

PARLIAMENT WILL BE ASKED TO RULE ON BAN AGAINST NEGRO

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The question of the color bar against Negroes in England will be raised in parliament by James Marley, Labor member, at the earliest opportunity, he announced today. Protests by two widely known American Negroes against alleged discrimination because of their race has raised the question in England for the first time in an acute form.

Marley has assured Robert S. Abbott of Chicago of his intention of pushing the matter in parliament. Abbott, who was a member of Gov. Frank O. Lowden's race relations commission in 1919 and president of the Hampton Institute Alumni association, had complained of discrimination against him on the British liner Aquitania.

Paul Robeson, American Negro singer, recently stated that he and his wife were refused admittance to a prominent London grill room, although they were to be entertained there by white friends. Marley wrote of this instance to Prime Minister MacDonald and received a letter in answer saying, "It is not in accordance with our British hotel practice, but I cannot think of any way in which the government can intervene."

WURLITZER BUYS FAMOUS VIOLINS OF WANAMAKER

New York, Oct. 27.—[U. P.]—Rudolph Wurlitzer, millionaire musical instrument manufacturer, announced today his acquisition of the Rodman Wanamaker collection of rare violins, valued at more than $650,000.

Wurlitzer is believed now to have the greatest collection of such instruments in the world. It is valued at around $3,000,000.

Included in the Wanamaker collection are 64 violins, violas, cellos, guitars and a harp. Five of the violins are the work of Antonio Stradivarius, the master Italian craftsman of the eighteenth century.

On Minding Your Own Business

AMERICAN business today is paying too much attention of the wrong kind to the stock market. In the past few years speculation in securities has become a national business obsession. Not only has it made business men waste a lot of time and energy they owe and might more profitably devote to their own business responsibilities. What is more serious is that this speculative complex has grossly distorted the views of the business community and a large part of the general public regarding the nature and conditions of economic prosperity and progress in this country.

At this time it is especially deplorable that such exaggerated emphasis should be placed upon what is going on in Wall Street. There is no reason why business or the government should act at any time as though security trading or security values are of paramount importance in our economic life.

The business situation in the United States or any other country is not made or destroyed by conditions in the security market. Prosperity does not depend upon the price of stocks. Progress is not measured by the volume of securities floated or sunk or the amount of money that changes hands in buying and selling them.

Fundamental conditions of business itself—the creation and exchange of useful goods and services, the advancement of industrial science, the efficiency of business management, the wise use of credit, the expanding employment of labor—in the end determine conditions in the security market. These things are the chief concern of everybody. Upon them alone the general welfare depends.

In face of violent vituperation and political pressure, the Federal Reserve System has done the nation a great service by resolutely and steadfastly conserving the credit resources of our banking structure so that the universal and permanent interests of American business as a whole shall be protected.

Security trading is a large, legitimate and necessary business, but it is only a part, and a relatively small part, of the vast aggregate of American economic activity. There are many others much larger, much more important, and quite as exciting—such as mining the world's coal, making its iron and steel, manufacturing its clothing, raising its food, transporting and distributing the goods it needs. These are the basis of business here and everywhere. Without them the stock market is merely a game of tiddledywinks, and security prices are simply statistical sawdust.

If business will mind its own business, the security market will take care of itself.

86 DEAD SONS OF MICHIGAN TAKE LAST TRIP HOME

Sail on Soviet Funeral Ship for France.

LENINGRAD, Oct. 27.—(AP)—With flags flying at half mast the soviet steamer Lieutenant Schmidt, carrying the bodies of 86 American officers and soldiers who perished during the Archangel campaign of 1918 and 1919, steamed out of the harbor here today for Havre, France, while all Leningrad was still asleep.

From Havre America's honored dead will be transported homeward by an American battleship with impressive ceremonies.

Dig Up Frozen Graves.

The bodies were accompanied by R. Dutcher, member of the special graves commission, which came from Detroit to retrieve Michigan's veterans from their frozen graves beyond the arctic circle. Other members of the graves commission had already left for France via Finland to make arrangements for reception upon arrival in France.

As all bodies will have to be reinterred upon arrival in France or in the United States, and also must be further identified by relatives, the graves commission found it more practicable to place all the bodies in ten large hermitically sealed cases. The bodies of 62 identified dead were kept separate from 24 unidentified bodies.

The soviet government was eager to render full military honors to America's dead, although the American expedition force at Archangel fought against the bolshevik troops.

Leave Russia Quietly.

Chairman S. Campbell of the American graves commission decided, however, that it was best for Michigan's fallens sons to leave Russia as quietly and unostentatiously as they had come in during the grim days of 1918. Therefore the bodies of the 86 members of the Detroit 339th infantry were borne from the stone pier up the gang plank of the soviet steamer without the sounding of reveille, without religious ceremony, and without funeral march.

The entire work of the graves commission was performed so quietly that the Russian public was unaware of the members' presence. No mention of their activities was made in the soviet papers.

When the gray hulk of the soviet funeral ship with the bodies aboard steamed from the Gulf of Finland other Russian vessels lowered their flags in final salute to the dead.

Surgeon Who Operated on Clemenceau Dies at 72

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Theodore Tufier, surgeon who operated on Georges Clemenceau in 1919 and on former King George of Greece in 1921, died today aged 72. Fellow physicians attributed his death to a failure to undergo the operation of prostatectomy, which he himself had performed scores of times.

Ex-U.S. Woman, Widow of German Artist, Dies

MUNICH, Germany, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary von Stuck, widow of the famous painter, Franz von Stuck, died here today at the age of 63 years. She was born in Brooklyn, N. Y. Her husband, who died in 1928, was also well known as a sculptor and architect. Many of his paintings are in American museums and galleries.

Applauds Lack of Oratorical Flourish.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra concert, Fredrick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3 o'clock, was one of radio's musical messages of weight and elegance yesterday. Without any oratorical flourish, Beethoven's First symphony was announced; and the playing of it surpassed my erstwhile comprehension of the beauties and grandeur of this work. What was beauty to the eye in yesterday's sunshine out of doors, this work was beauty to the ear and mind within our homes.

Karsakow's "Capriccio Espagnol" (all five movements) followed. Theodore Thomas' arrangement of Schubert's "Serenade," and two short encore numbers completed the program.

The announcer's voice and the content of the announcer's statements were ideally befitting to the dignity of this concert. In fact, the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Conductor Stock, and the advertiser who made the broadcast possible, may justly be proud of the achievement.

Alfred Wallenstein, cellist, was unexpectedly announced as joint soloist with Giuseppe De Luca, baritone, on the New York concert through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15. Here was Mr. Wallenstein's first big opportunity on the air, and he proved himself a master of the cello in all its manifold phases. Each piece revealed the evidence. In one selection it was marvelous richness and breadth of tone; another, his uncanny facility of technique; in another, unusual strength and dynamic power; another, his own depth of feeling; and in all his pieces his phenomenal interpretative powers.

The Theater Symphony orchestra concert from New York through KYW, 1 to 2 o'clock, was a noteworthy one. Bach's "Choral and Fugue" in G minor and Tschaikowsky's Fifth symphony, complete, were played.

Walker Confident of Re-election Nov. 5.

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—New York's quadrennial mayoralty campaign, which so far has proved a drab and rather tame affair contrasted with the excitement of other years, enters its final week tomorrow. It may be that the campaign managers are ready to touch off some fireworks to arouse the electorate before the voting on Nov. 5, but tonight there were no surface indications of it.

There are four mayoralty candidates: James J. Walker, Democratic incumbent; Congressman Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican-Fusion; Norman Thomas, Socialist, and former Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, candidate of the newly created Square Deal party.

Occasional Flareups.

Before the primaries last month there were some indications of an exciting campaign. But, except for occasional flareups—such as a ruckus growing out of sinister charges against Tammany for failure to solve the murder of Arnold Rothstein, gambler—there has been nothing to jar the complacency of the voters as a whole.

The city is overwhelmingly Democratic in the registration of eligible voters, which has caused the Tammany leaders to claim the reëlection of "Jimmy" Walker, a favorite son, by a margin all the way from 300,000 to 500,000. Four years ago Walker won by about 400,000.

Congressman La Guardia, who has made an energetic campaign and hurled charge after charge of Tammany graft and mismanagement, says he expects to win by 150,000 votes.

Late Starting Campaign.

The Democrats delayed starting their campaign until recently. Mayor Walker and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who is assisting in the speaking campaign, have not mentioned their opponents by name. The mayor has denied charges of graft and has recited a long list of accomplishments.

Norman Thomas, who last fall ran for the presidency, is a former minister, author and student of government. He has made a vigorous, dignified campaign. Political observers predict he will poll the heaviest vote a minority candidate ever received here. Four years ago he received nearly 40,000 votes.

Political writers say the conservative wing of the Republican party has not taken kindly to La Guardia, who once was elected to congress on a Socialist ticket. La Guardia's advisers deny any breaks in the ranks.

MacDONALD, ON WAY HOME, TAKES LIFE BOAT DRILL

S. S. DUCHESS OF YORK, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, whose energies in recent weeks have been largely devoted to "narrowing the Atlantic," is seeing that ocean at one of its narrowest points. Although he has been outward bound for two days and has covered nearly 1,000 miles of the voyage to Great Britain, he still could see American shores up to noon today when the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the straits of Belle Isle were left behind.

Nosing her way toward the arctic on the last north Atlantic passage of the year, this vessel will reach Liverpool in four more days. The weather today was fine, cold and sunshiny.

The premier had a busy Sunday morning, exercising in the gymnasium and attending church services. His daughter, Ishbel, rested in her cabin. Later Mr. MacDonald, like any other passenger, took part in the lifeboat drill when the full complement mustered on the cold upper deck.

MALONE TO HOLD A TAX MEETING IN CHICAGO HEIGHTS

William H. Malone, chairman of the Illinois state tax commission, will speak at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Masonic temple in Chicago Heights at the second of a series of taxpayers' meetings in the suburban districts.

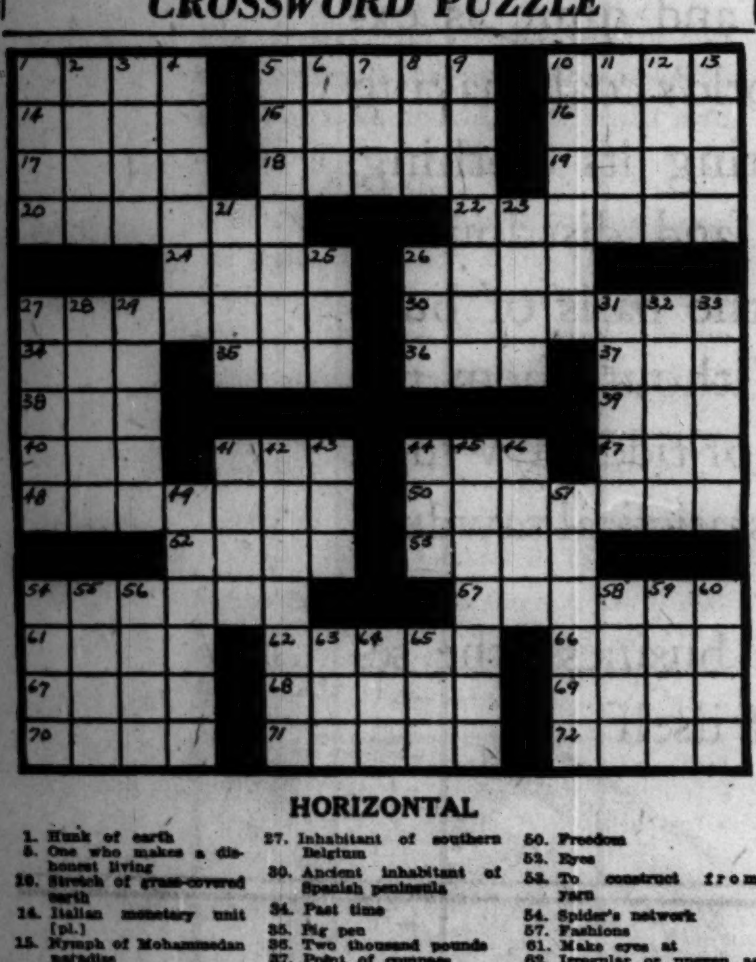

Mr. Malone is conducting the meetings to warn taxpayers against permitting an increase in tax levies by district governing bodies such as school boards and village councils. The increase in land valuations under the reassessment does not necessitate a tax increase, according to Mr. Malone.

FARMERS' GRAIN CO-OP OFFICIALS STILL IN SESSION

Officers and directors of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, recently organized by the federal farm board, continued their sessions yesterday in the Hotel Sherman under the chairmanship of S. J. Cottington of Stanhope, Ia., with expectations of winding up initial business today or tomorrow. Permanent Chicago headquarters of the corporation will be established some time this week, Mr. Cottington said. Articles of incorporation of the $20,000,000 enterprise are to be filed immediately under laws of Delaware.

I Don't Like Your Old Red Hands!

"THE least bit of work made my hands look horrid. Still my position required that I do all my own housework, and yet not have my hands look as if I did.

"I had tried every lotion and cream on the market, worn gloves at night, worn gloves by day—and still horrid hands! I had read your ads rather casually, thinking 'another useless cream!' But my three year old son stung me to action.

"He said one day: 'Mommy, I don't like your old red hands.'

"Old red hands—and I am not yet 25! Flattering! Well, I promptly tried THINC Hand Creme. I was amazed at the almost instant result; and a few days' use worked wonders—my hands were smooth and white! THINC, I believe, is what every woman is looking for."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[illegible] Bay remains undefeated in [illegible] National league pro grid race, [illegible] yesterday at Comiskey park the Chicago Cardinals came as close as [illegible] to marring that record. The Packers won, 7 to 6, Ernie Nevers' [illegible] kick for the extra point after touchdown going wide.

The Packers crossed the goal line early in the second quarter on Lewellen's 15 yard run around the Cards' left end. Then Red Dunn's successful place kick completed the advantage.

Until the fourth period it seemed as if the Packers would come through with at least a 7 to 0 victory. They had other scoring opportunities which didn't materialize because of fumbles and the excellent danger zone defense of the Cardinal line.

Lewellen Punts Brilliantly.

It wasn't until the last ten minutes that the Cards penetrated into Green Bay territory. True, they gained, especially Ernie Nevers, who can rip into any line and come up with yardage. But the attack couldn't be sustained.

And the Cards continually lost ground on exchange of kicks. Nevers was punting well enough, but he was up against Verne Lewellen. He's the best kicker in pro football. High spirals, fifty yards and more, with half the Packer line covering, didn't give the Cards a chance to run the ball back to midfield.

But that fourth period drive by the Cardinals climaxed an afternoon of good football. It was just what the opening day crowd of 10,000 wanted. Interference on a forward pass, Nevers to Rooney, gave the Cards the ball in midfield. Then Ernie, carrying the ball on three plays out of four, drove to the Packers' 28 yard line.

Two line plays lost a yard and a pass was incomplete. It was fourth down and 11 yards to go. Nevers took the pass from center, backed up, sidestepped a rushing lineman and threw. Chuck Kassel, who had gone straight down the field, cut sharply toward the center, leaped and took the ball in stride. Two men covered him, but he slipped their tackles to tumble on over the goal line.

Crucial Kick Fails.

Then the try for a tie game went wide and Green Bay kept the lead. There were four minutes to play. Two successful passes again sent the Cards into Packer territory, but the slim chance of victory was lost when Nevers, going back to pass, was thrown behind the line.

Green Bay is rated, along with Benny Friedman's New York team, as contender for the league title. But a smashing Cardinal line turned back their attack yesterday with the exception of the second period score, and an alert Cardinal back field intercepted passes to halt other threats. Nevers and Dowling snatched several of Dunn's tosses.

Lewellen's fumble on the Cardinal 1 yard line in the first quarter gave the south siders a lucky break, the only one of the game. Dilweg carried a pass from Lewellen to the Cards' 4 yard line. The first play netted 2 yards. Then Lewellen plunged again. He was met head-on at the line and dropped the ball, the Cards recovering. Nevers kicked out from behind his goal line.

End Run Scores.

The Packer touchdown completely fooled the left side of the Cardinal line. Cutting inside of tackle on their line plays, and with the aid of a pass to Kotal, Green Bay advanced to the Cardinal 20 yard strip. Three plays gained 5 yards. With Lewellen back in punt formation, the Cards played to cover a pass. But Verne circled end, and with perfect interference dodged the 15 yards to the goal line without a tackler touching him.

The game was hard fought all the way. The only casualty was Jake Williams, who dislocated his left elbow in blocking late in the fourth period. Jess Tinsley, former Louisiana university tackle, an addition to the increasing number of pros who refuse to wear headguards, was the defensive star of both lines.

Substitutions—Bears, Helmer for White, Senn for Walquist, Ryan for Murry, H. Grange for Driscoll, G. Grange for Johnsos, Pearson for Trafton, Fleckenstein for Carlson, Driscoll for Sternaman, Ryan for Kopcha.

Referee—Robert Kursch [Columbus]. Umpire—Al Dudley [Dayton]. Head linesman—Carl Olsen [Gary].

Red Grange, movie actor and once a famous gridiron performer, returned to his rôle of cavorting about a football field yesterday afternoon at Wrigley field where the Chicago Bears humbled the Minneapolis Red Jackets in a National Professional league game, 27 to 0. The noted Red Head threw his hips through the opposition, tossed passes, leaped into the air to snag 'em, squirmed and romped all over the field while his mates were stopping Herb Joesting, former Minnesota star and full back for the Red Jackets.

It was a game replete with thrills for the 9,400 fans. The Minneapolis team put up stubborn opposition, but was never in position to threaten seriously. Nydahl and Erickson were able to gain at intervals, but Joesting did little ball carrying. Haycraft, former Minnesota end, sustained a broken nose in the second quarter and was forced to retire.

Walquist Eludes Tacklers.

The Bears put the game on ice with two touchdowns in the first quarter. Less than four minutes after the opening kickoff Paddy Driscoll and Walquist alternated at slashing the line and skirting the ends from midfield. Then, from the 22 yard line, Walquist dashed to the left side, cut back through center, and sidestepped tacklers for a touchdown. Driscoll added the extra point.

Paddy started the next drive with a 15 yard gallop around right end from midfield. Then Walquist, White, Driscoll and Sternaman alternated in twisting through the opposing line, Paddy finally plunging across from the 3 yard mark. He missed the drop kick.

Both Resort to Passes.

In the third quarter Driscoll took the kickoff, returning it 33 yards to the enemy 47 yard line. Red Grange picked up 15 more behind beautiful interference. But the drive temporarily was stopped by a penalty. On an exchange of punts, Lundell of Minneapolis had the advantage. However, a little later Grange returned a punt 18 yards from the 50 yard mark. Then, alternating with White and Walquist, Red and the Bears marched across the goal line, White making the final plunge. Sternaman booted the extra point.

Both teams resorted to passes in the final period. Finally, after frequent interceptions, Walquist heaved to Cunningham on the visitors' 16 yard line. Grange then passed over the goal line to his brother, Garland, for the counter. Sternaman faked a drop kick, and then passed to the Red Head for the extra point.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

BURT INGWERSEN.

It was clean, hard blocking which enabled Illinois to defeat Michigan, 14 to 0. Perfection in this fundamental gave Iowa a win over Wisconsin by the same score and it was the interference of Purdue which brought about Chicago's defeat, 26 to 0.

Dartmouth gave Harvard a 34 to 7 trouncing because the Crimson tacklers were cut down by the players in advance of the runner. It was superb blocking which permitted Booth to score three touchdowns which gave Yale a 21 to 13 victory over the Army. This hard checking also gave Notre Dame a 7 to 0 win over Carnegie Tech.

Trojans March 80 Yards.

Southern California defeated Stanford, 7 to 0, and is now in a good position to win the remaining contests on its schedule with the possible exception of Notre Dame. It was excellent blocking in the line and open which enabled the Trojans to make a sustained march of eighty yards for the only score of that bitterly fought struggle.

Blocking and tackling always have and always will be two of the decisive factors in football. Any play executed perfectly will gain ground. The trouble with most coaches is that they stress complicated offensive formations without devoting enough time to teaching their players how to block and tackle.

As the football season enters the last half, Dartmouth and Pittsburgh appear to be the strongest in the east, although Yale must be given consideration. Old Eli was defeated by Georgia but this setback has no bearing on its eastern ranking. These three elevens have been improving with each game.

Purdue, Minnesota Lead.

Purdue and Minnesota are leading in the Western conference. Both still have hard games ahead. Iowa is the hurdle which the Boilermakers and Gophers must clear to entertain hopes of completing their schedules without a defeat or tie. Other opponents, however, may spring a surprise and either defeat or tie the favorites.

Missouri and Nebraska, which battled to a 7 to 7 tie last Saturday, appear to be the best in the Missouri valley section. They have been rivals for years and their battle last Saturday was just as keenly fought as any decided in the past. Drake, which will play Notre Dame in Chicago on Nov. 9, was held to a 6 to 6 score by Grinnell. Drake has played aggressive football all year, but the doughty Grinnell eleven displayed a stiffer defense than was anticipated.

Southern California by its 7 to 0 victory over Stanford showed it is in control of the gridiron situation along the Pacific seaboard. The Trojans, coached by Howard Jones, a former Yale player who afterward coached at Syracuse and Iowa, are looked upon as one of the strongest elevens in the country.

Tennessee is looming as one of the strongest teams in the south, but it still has some strong opponents to defeat before it can lay claim to the southern title. It has not been defeated this season and is said to be

Indiana Situation Grows More and More Hair Raising

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Indiana University No-Shave club, organized on the campus last week with the determination to stay in existence until the fighting Hoosiers annex a conference game, will remain intact if necessary until after the present season closes. Whiskers will be worn by more than 500 men, it was announced today by Deven D. Brosnan of Indianapolis, president of the organization.

Members of the No-Shave club will assemble in a local studio Tuesday noon for a group photo which will be forwarded to Minnesota as a warning that nothing short of a Hoosier victory in the game there next Saturday will suffice.

The women's student auxiliary, the No-Cosmetic group, which had its inception at the Kappa Alpha Theta house and the Delta Gammas, are reported to be standing by their ban against dates until a Crimson victory is hung up.

MAROONS BEGIN DRILLS TODAY FOR PRINCETON GAME

The Maroons today will begin a strenuous week of preparation for the intersectional football battle with Princeton Saturday.

With no serious injuries, Coach Stagg will have full strength available, with the exception of Burgess. Even he may get his trick knee into shape.

Boys See Race Driver Die When Auto Strikes Tree

Woodbridge, N. J., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—John Rohrer, an automobile race driver, was killed here this afternoon, before 8,000 persons, when a steering arm on his machine gave way during a sprint race on the half mile board track of the Evans Speedway association. Out of control, the car plunged through a guard rail and down a 30 foot embankment, hitting a tree. A number of small boys were watching from the tree, and one of them was cut slightly when the force of the impact threw him against the trunk of the tree.

Alekhine and Bogoljubow Adjourn After 40 Moves

THE HAGUE, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The nineteenth game between Dr. Alexander Alekhine, the champion, and E. D. Bogoljubow, the challenger, for the world chess championship was adjourned today after 40 moves. The standing of the series to date is as follows: Alekhine won 8, Bogoljubow won 5, drawn, 5.

Hudkins Plans to Quit the Ring If Walker Wins

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 27.—(AP)—The dreams of a sandy thatched newsie will be the driving force behind the rugged fists and fighting heart of Ace Hudkins Tuesday when he meets Mickey Walker at Wrigley field in his second ten round bout for the middleweight title.

ACE HUDKINS.

Between that newsboy of the Lincoln, Neb., streets eight years ago and the culmination of his dreams are the out-thrust rocky fists of the Rumson, N. J., scrapper, which in their turn have battered through to the welterweight and middleweight championships. Moreover, they have carried the toy bulldog within striking distance of the light heavyweight crown.

Less experienced is Hudkins, who made his entry in the middleweight division little more than a year ago with his first chance at Walker's crown in Chicago. Defeat, says the Nebraska wildcat, will mark his exit, not only from the middleweight ranks, but from the boxing game as well.

BOLAND LEADS DE LA SALLE TO 26-0 VICTORY

Loyola Beats St. George; Ties for Lead.

De La Salle won its second consecutive Catholic league victory yesterday by defeating Mount Carmel, 26 to 0, in a south section battle at Normal Park. Ray Boland continued his scoring activities, adding two touchdowns to last Sunday's trio. One was made after a short dash around the Carmelites' left end in the second quarter and the other in the last period on a 25 yard pass from Furlong.

In the same period he tossed one to Herron for 25 yards and the latter sprinted 35 yards for a touchdown.

Phil Krause made the other touchdown. Mount Carmel threatened in the second quarter, when it carried the ball to De La Salle's three yard line, but lost the ball on downs. Lineup:

ST. LEO, 14; ST. IGNATIUS, 6.

St. Leo returned to its winning stride yesterday with a 14 to 6 victory over St. Ignatius in a south section game at Shewbridge field. The reserve back field went to work early in the first quarter, and after Reker had recovered a St. Ignatius fumble on the latter's 30 yard line, Murnighan, Podesta and Frank Maher took it down the field and Maher carried it across.

MacKinnon ran 30 yards for the second touchdown in the last quarter. A fumbled punt by St. Leo gave St. Ignatius its chance in the last period and Stanton plunged for the touchdown. Lineup:

ST. RITA, 37; JOLIET, 0.

St. Rita went into a tie with De La Salle of Chicago for first place in the south section yesterday by defeating De La Salle of Joliet, 37 to 0, on the latter's field. Wagner featured the St. Rita attack by returning the kickoff in the fourth quarter 80 yards for a touchdown. Feeling was a consistent ground gainer for the winners and contributed two touchdowns.

News Item: Albie Booth Meets Al Marsters Saturday

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 27.—The personal triumphs achieved by Albie Booth of Yale and Alton Marsters of Dartmouth in games at Yale and Harvard Saturday afternoon will contribute to a deplorable situation in the Yale bowl this week-end, when Yale meets Dartmouth and these two victims of newspaper exploitation meet in a contest amounting to a personal showdown.

I have the printed word of Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, the president of the Carnegie Foundation, a professor who knows a great deal, that the glare of publicity is bad for such boys and I am certain that unless one or the other is withdrawn so as to dissolve the situation and thwart the sport writers, this meeting will be ruinous to both.

It seems almost too bad, as they are both nice boys, but I understand that the circulation managers of the New York and Boston papers are at the bottom of the conspiracy and circulation managers are tough men.

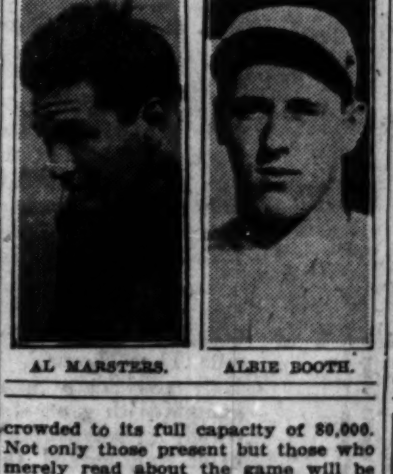

Build Meeting Up.

Throughout the intervening week the sport correspondents will be receiving orders from the circulation managers to build up the Booth-Marsters conflict so that they may sell more papers and under this influential prod they will develop such a personal equation between the two college boys as only Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney have ever known before in the sport business.

It is not likely that President Angell of Yale or President Hopkins of Dartmouth will do anything to avert the encounter, either, because there are three circulation managers in New York alone who, to my knowledge, would send their entertainment committees around to kidnap them from their libraries if they should try to muscle into the situation. It looks as though there will be two ruined college boys or two missing college presidents next Saturday evening, for circulation managers are desperate men.

The Yale bowl undoubtedly will be crowded to its full capacity of 80,000. Not only those present but those who merely read about the game will be interested only in Albie Booth and Al Marsters. The other members of the two football teams will be no more important or conspicuous than the seconds behind two heavyweights in a fight for the world championship and the cultural uplift of a given municipality.

East's Best

AL MARSTERS. ALBIE BOOTH.

Albie, It Seems, Was Better.

They were extremely unimportant last Saturday afternoon and, although I did not witness Mr. Marsters' performance against Harvard, I judge from the Sunday stories of my colleagues in the evil trade of over-publicizing sensitive and diffident young collegians that Albie's demonstration was much better. Marsters was in the game when Harvard was crowding Dartmouth and he apparently did not dominate the game with any such individual command as Booth displayed.

Before Albie took the field against the Army, the West Point boys were distinctly the better football team and

Veeck Declines to Reveal Terms.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Lester Rowland Bell will play third base for the Cubs next spring. He is the same Bell who for more than a few years labored for the St. Louis Cardinals and later for the Boston Braves.

He became a Cub yesterday when President William Veeck announced from the east that he had met up in Washington with Judge Emil Fuchs, the president of the Braves, and concluded the transaction on a strictly cash basis. The amount of coin wasn't revealed, but Veeck volunteered assurance that it was plenty.

A guess of $35,000 probably would come close to covering all angles of the deal, including the expenses incurred by the two club executives in reaching their secret rendezvous at Washington.

First Step in Strengthening.

The acquisition of Bell was the first step taken after Owner Wrigley's statement that something would have to be done after his favorites flopped in the recent series. Wrigley, not to mention Manager McCarthy and Veeck, figured third base was one of the shortcomings. The money bag was promptly jingled and Judge Fuchs was the first to respond. Whether he did the Cubs a favor or wisely unloaded somebody who was of no use to the Braves remains to be seen.

Bell last season was no star with the Braves. There were times when he appeared to be reduced to the state of one who plays on a dime. However, his occasional indifference may have been due to natural depression caused by being attached to a humble outfit after having played with a series winner in 1926. His batting was a bit better—.295 in 143 games—and it probably was this feature that recommended him to McCarthy, who always has insisted that a third baseman should be a good hitter rather than an excellent fielder. Fielding chances are few at third base.

Rated as Star in 1926.

The new North Side third sacker will reach his 28th birthday in December, so still is young enough to have a chance to get back to where he was in 1926. In that campaign he was rated as one of the best of the league's far corner occupants, not only as a fielder but also as a right-handed batter. He whacked the ball to a .325 tune that season. The next year he fell down to .259, and this figure, along with the dissatisfaction that the Cardinal owners find with most of their athletes after a few seasons, caused him to be shipped to the Braves for 1928. That season he played alongside Hornsby, who still thinks him a worth while performer.

Bell was under the control of the St. Louis club for six years. They purchased him from Lansing, Mich., in 1922 for a nominal sum and promptly farmed him out to Syracuse. In 1923 he was recalled and sent to the Houston farm, but was brought back to remain with the Cards until early in 1924. His next stopping point was Milwaukee, where he batted .365 and played shortstop regularly for that season. In 1925 he was made the Cards' third baseman, and he held the job until the end of the 1927 race.

McMillan's Status Uncertain.

The purchase from Boston leaves Norman McMillan, third sacker during the late campaign, out in the cold as regards regular employment, but nothing may be done in his case. McMillan rates high as a utility infielder, and for this reason McCarthy may be inclined to keep him, at least until after the training trip. Before another season is completed Hornsby's legs may demand an occasional rest, and in this event McCarthy will have need of a man of McMillan's experience unless some outstanding rookie should be uncovered.

Bell is the fourth Cub regular to be purchased from National league clubs in two years. Cuyler was taken from the Pirates after the 1927 race. A year later Hornsby was landed. Early in July this year Catcher Taylor was separated from the Braves by applying coin.

BY FRENCH LANE.

To those who have't been so successful in picking the winners at Chicago race tracks since the season opened last May 1 it might be timely to sound the warning here that there's only four more days left in which to get even.

The Illinois racing season comes to a close at the Aurora course on Thursday afternoon. The state law, which legalizes pari-mutuel speculation on the contests between the thoroughbreds, provides that there shall be no speculation on the races before May 1 of each year and after Oct. 31.

Paul Bunyan Takes Honors.

So far it hasn't been found possible to improve the breed without a bit of speculation, so there will be no more racing after next Thursday afternoon until May day of next year.

Paul Bunyan, the 3 year old owned by L. M. Severson of Chicago, has already run away with the championship at Aurora. He has won four races in a row, three of them at Aurora, and has beaten not only all the leading 3 year olds at the track but has shown his heels to the older handicap performers at well.

Deprini Leads Jockeys.

Those $100 boots with the golden heels which General Manager Clifford R. Trimble will give to the leading jockey has brought on a lively contest. R. Deprini crowded his way to the front last week but Tommy May, J. Commingore and Longshot Logan are all giving him a merry battle. The jockey standing at the end of the 12th day of the sixteen day meeting follows:

	Won.		Won.
R. Deprini	11	C. Corbett	3

J. Parmalee	3	A. Colvin	2
J. Mercum	3

J. Dellow, C. Landolt, O. Laidley, F. Moore, C. Frye and S. Baird have one winning mount to their credit.

The Livingston purse at a mile and seventy yards features today's ladies' day program. It has attracted a big field, including Triese, Wacker Drive, Islam, Graydale, Gold Mint, Coffee Shop, Stelimo, Mill Hand, Flood Control, and Sun God.

PHARMER LEADS BIG TEN SCORING WITH 42 POINTS

Three touchdowns and four points after touchdowns, accumulated Saturday while Minnesota trimmed Ripon, sent Art Pharmer, one of the Gophers' star backs, far out in front in the Big Ten race for scoring honors.

Pharmer's 22 points, with the 20 he contributed in Minnesota's victory over Northwestern, gave him a total of 42. Capt. William Glassgow of Iowa is second with 28. Glenn Harmeson of Purdue flashed into the battle for leadership by his performance against Chicago, landing in a tie with Russ Bergherm of Northwestern, with 26 points.

Sectional Grid Leaders Begin to Emerge

among the strongest ever developed in the south.

Notre Dame a Contender.

Notre Dame and Detroit must be given consideration when western and national honors are considered. Neither has lost a game and each has met and defeated strong elevens. If Notre Dame can win from Georgia Tech at Atlanta on Saturday and Drake in Chicago on Nov. 9, it will meet Southern California on Soldiers' field, Chicago, on Nov. 16 in a game which will bring together two of the leading contenders for national honors.

If either Purdue or Minnesota go through the season undefeated they will share western honors with any other eleven which might lay claims to the title. No one will begrudge the laurels to either the Boilermakers or Gophers. On several occasions, Purdue has come close to sharing the championship, while Minnesota's last clear claim to a Big Ten title was back in 1911. In 1915, Minnesota and Illinois tied for the title by playing to a 6 to 6 draw. In 1927 Minnesota did not lose a conference game, but it was held to a tie by Indiana, while Illinois, the champion, was neither tied nor defeated.

In the western conference, Chicago was relegated to the defeated division by Purdue, 26 to 0. The Boilermakers' varied attack combined with excellent blocking, proved too much for the Maroons. The Purdue backs worked well together and they executed their plays faultlessly. Coach Phelan has developed one of the strongest and smartest elevens which ever represented the Lafayette institution.

Tie Mars Illini Record.

Ohio State was held to a scoreless tie by Indiana. If either Purdue or Minnesota wins its remaining struggles the Buckeyes cannot lay any claim to the Big Ten title. The same is true of Illinois, which was tied by Iowa the preceding week.

Iowa played strong football to win over Wisconsin, 14 to 0. There is power in the Hawkeye attack and the ball carriers always fight for the extra yard when opposition is met. Coach Ingwersen has some excellent backs who will gain ground against any team if the line continues to give the support it has delivered in recent contests. Wisconsin tried all through the game to score, but Iowa's defense was a trifle too strong.

Michigan appears destined for one of its most disastrous seasons in years. The Wolverines have lost three conference games. They have yet to play Minnesota and Iowa, while Harvard will be met at Ann Arbor on Nov. 9.

Notre Dame was victorious in one of the hardest games on its schedule. Coach Rockne's eleven won from Carnegie Tech, 7 to 0, before the largest crowd which ever saw a game in Pittsburgh. It took all the power of Notre Dame to defeat the eleven coached by Wallie Steffen, the former University of Chicago star.

Detroit won handily from Loyola of New Orleans, 20 to 0, while Northwestern and Minnesota defeated non-conference elevens without trouble. The Purple whipped Wabash, 66 to 0, and the Gophers trounced Ripon, 54 to 0.

BAUMAN FINISHES ALONE; SAWYER'S CAR IS WRECKED

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Dutch Bauman, Milwaukee dirt track driver, won the 100 kilometer race at the South Milwaukee motor speedway this afternoon, his time was :58:32. He finished the contest before 5,000 race fans as a solo performance, his only competitor having been removed at the third turn in the 25th lap, when Johnny Sawyer went through the outside fence and down a ten foot embankment. Sawyer was removed to the South Milwaukee hospital, where it was found that he had sustained only slight injuries.

Give Your Face a Taste of the Mint Julep Shave

Once you get a box of BRISK, open the lid and shave with BRISK, you will never "monkey" with anybody's tube, stick or powder.

Let your poor, shaved-to-death face have one taste of the mint julep shave and it will never again dread the razor! A mint julep shave is easily made. Simply take a little BRISK shaving cream and add to it a little warm or cold water.

BRISK makes a mint julep shave because of the things it does on your face and on your spirits. First of all, BRISK makes plenty of lather and that's the first essential to a good shave. BRISK absorbs two to three times the amount of water that old fashioned shaving cream does. Hence it forms two to three times the amount of lather—and a lather that stays moist on your face until you finish your shave!

Lubricates the Shave.

The rich, moistureful lather quickly "cuts" the beard oil and soaks the hair soft for easy, clean cutting. Moreover, it lubricates the cutting stroke of the razor. You know how a bit of soap on a saw eases its passage through a log—well, that's how BRISK smooths the cutting stroke of the razor. The razor does not "pull" or bump along over your face, but glides sweetly over the skin, cutting down the hair closely and cleanly and almost without effort. No need to go over and over the same spot and "butcher" your face to get a close shave.

Take the flat, oval box of BRISK in one hand and rub your moist brush over BRISK.

A Skin Conditioner as well as a Shave.

Whereas the average shave is hard on your face, a BRISK shave is a boon. Your face feels and looks all the better for a BRISK shave. For BRISK carries its own balm and is a skin conditioner as well as a shave. It leaves your face soft, smooth and supple—fit to go out and meet the world. Try just one BRISK shave.

Work up lather on your face. Start in shaving. Boy! How the whiskers go down before your razor when BRISK paves the way.

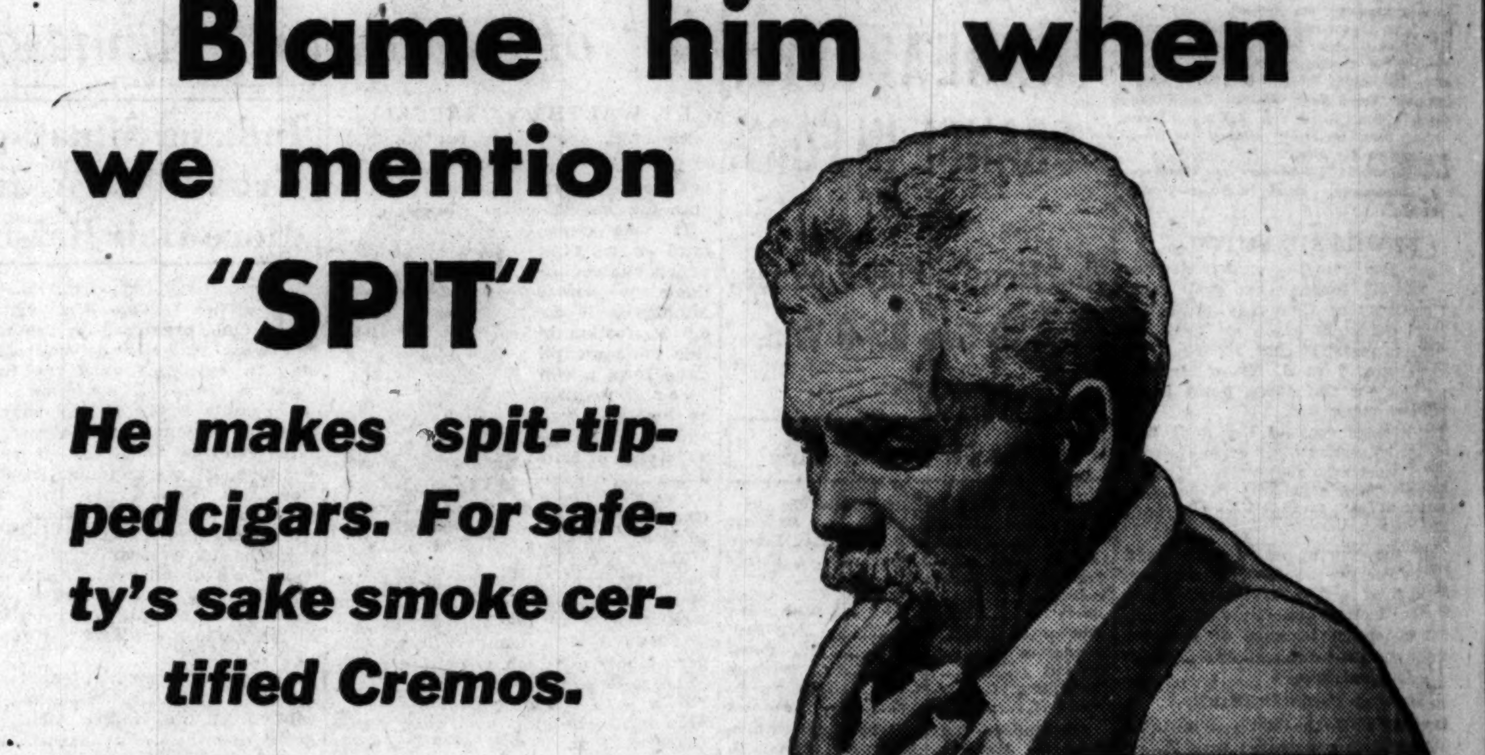

BRISK is new, even unto the package. It's a flat, oval tin box made for men only. And it holds an amazing lot of shaves because you have to use so little compared to other shaving creams. Get BRISK now at any good drug store or toilet goods counter—fifty cents.

BRISK has four brothers: ZEST, a refreshing after-shaving lotion; TRIM, a hair dressing in cleanly stick form; SMOOTH, a powder that kills shine without showing powder; STIP, a new type "stoptic" that closes cuts pronto!

PURPLE INTACT FOR ENCOUNTER WITH ILLINOIS

50,000 Will See Game; All Tickets Sold.

Northwestern's 66 to 0 victpry over Wabash has not distracted the squad from the business of preparing for Saturday's battle with Illinois. The game will attract 50,000 to Dyche stadium. All tickets were sold a week ago.

The Wildcats came through their game over Wabash without serious injuries. Bill Griffin has a twisted ankle and will be out of practice three or four days, but is expected to be available Saturday.

Coach Hanley has about decided that Kassulker and Baxter will start at the halfback. Their work against Wabash was satisfactory. Lee Hanley will be at quarter back and Bergherm at full back.

MILLS TO CALL SIGNALS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 27.—Douglas Mills, Illini hero in the Michigan game as a result of his long run for a touchdown, probably will call signals when Illinois plays Northwestern Saturday, Coach Robert Zuppke intimated today.

"I was glad to see Mills run back that punt for a touchdown yesterday," Zuppke commented. "He prefers to play half back but it looks as if he will stay at quarter back. It is doubtful if Frank Peters will be available Saturday."

Zuppke will spend the week strengthening the offense and inducing Mills and Chattin, quarter backs, to call for more pass plays. Frank Walker may be held out of practice a few days, but it is expected that he will be available against Northwestern. All of Zuppke's players emerged from the Michigan game in good condition.

LOYOLA, DE PAUL MEET IN ANNUAL CONTEST SUNDAY

The Loyola eleven today turns its attention to the De Paul game which will be played next Sunday at Soldiers' field. Proceeds of this game will go to the Sisters of Charity.

The showing of the Ramblers against St. Louis establishes them as favorites over their traditional rivals. Loyola has been scored upon only once this year. In three games Loyola has held the opposition scoreless while garnering at least one touchdown in each. The record consists of victories over Oklahoma City university, Coe college, and St. Louis. The only defeat to date was at the hands of Duquesne at Pittsburgh, 7-6.

DE PAUL IN GOOD SHAPE.

After running in circles for three weeks trying to keep pace with a vanishing list of injured athletes, Coach Ed Anderson will start the preparations with the Blue Demons in good shape.

Waterfowl Pass in Beauty Revue for Duck Hunters

BY BOB BECKER.

Duck hunters sitting in blinds along the upper Illinois last week had an opportunity of seeing several beautiful and fairly uncommon species of waterfowl whizz by, because the "mixed bag" shooting revealed the presence of the gadwall, or gray duck, the handsome widgeon, or baldpate, and the green winged teal, in addition to the mallard and pintail. Another rarity member of the water fowl family appearing along the upper river was the ringneck, or blackjack.

The gadwall is one of the most graceful ducks using the Mississippi valley migration route. It has a wider wing spread than the mallard. We compared the two in our blind last week. The gadwall's wing linings are white, so it makes a flashy appearance when on the wing with the sun bringing out this color feature. But the most beautiful color combination on the bird is found on the outside of the wings. The gadwall drake sports chestnut, brown, gray, and black feathers with a pure white patch framed in velvety black. Few waterfowl show anything prettier.

It is surprising how nearly alike the mallard and the gadwall are in nesting and food habits. Because the latter is so fond of small grains and small aquatic food, its flesh is particularly fine. It has a flavor that makes it every bit as desirable as the mallard with some sportsmen.

Hunters who go into the mallard country along the Illinois and Sangamon rivers are apt to bag both gadwalls and widgeon during the next few weeks while these birds are migrating to the Gulf.

MOON MULLINS—MAKING THE NEW BOARDER FEEL AT HOME

Chris Cagle was the only star on the grounds. The instant Albie appeared the whole Yale team came to life, the Army team went into a coma, and Albie himself found holes in the Army line that neither Snead nor McLennan before him had been able to discover. It is not unusual to see a light, fast back outspeed the defense around the ends, but this small welterweight, the lightest man on the field by at least twenty pounds, slid through the Army at the tackles and guards, where big strong cadets were waiting, backed up by Dick O'Keefe, one of the best defensive backs in the east.

He Just Walked Through.

He seemed to mesmerize them all. He seemed to be walking through, sedately, like a soldier advancing under a barrage, and why it was that the West Point boys couldn't wrap themselves around him nobody could understand. Although he is no quarter back, he ran the Yale team and personally handed the ball to Miller or Dunn or Taylor on a few spinners and short laterals merely to sustain their interest in the game. When he finally left the game after scoring all of Yale's 21 points, the Yale team became merely a lineup again. But by that time the Army boys were so winded and disorganized that nothing they tried went right.

I don't think high powered publicity will be necessary to assure a high press run for the circulation department next Saturday night. The game and the individual showdown between the two boys will sell plenty of papers and, loath as I am to dispute such a smart man as Dr. Pritchett, I still suspect that the crowds draw the sport writers rather than the reverse, as he contends.

There was a game between Upsala and Long Island university Saturday afternoon which drew only one thousand people and no reporters at all.

BATTERED SQUAD OF MARQUETTE U. RETURNS HOME

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—Plainly showing the results of a bruising battle, the Marquette university grid squad returned home tonight after dropping a 7 to 0 game to Holy Cross at Worcester, Mass., on Saturday.

Marquette men who played most of the game reported that it was the roughest contest of their varsity careers. The injured list was proof of their statement. A half dozen of the Golden Avalanche squad were under the trainer's care as they returned.

John Sisk, sophomore from Chicago, was most battered. He was withdrawn in the third quarter after being slugged and clipped on one play. Other Hilltoppers reporting injuries were co-Capt. Ken Radick, right tackle; co-Capt. Gil Corbett, quarter back; Emmet Klaus, sophomore half back, who bore the brunt of the punting; Red Bultman, center, and Tony Dormoff, tackle.

Canzoneri and Loayza Round Out Training

Tony Canzoneri, former world's featherweight champion, and Stanley Loayza of Chile, who meet in the windup of Promoter Jack Dempsey's boxing show at the Coliseum on Wednesday night, plan strenuous final workouts today. Loayza will engage in at least five rounds and Canzoneri six.

Canzoneri has been made a 7 to 5 choice and he may be even more popular on the night of the fight. Tony is expected to tear in and whittle the Chilean down with body punches so that he can nail him with a left hook or right cross later in the fight. Tony, however, has a lot of respect for Stanley's right. Both are down to 136½ pounds, the weight they will make on the day of the fight.

Mandell Starts Training.

Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, who meets Jimmy McLarnin of California in the main event of Promoter Harmon's show at the Chicago stadium on Nov. 4, will settle down to active training today at Howard's gymnasium. Sammy will bring in his training equipment from Rockford, Ill., this morning and will box this afternoon.

He has been doing light training in his home town. With a week to sharpen his eye and improve his judgment of distance, the lightweight champion should be ready for the hard hitting Californian.

McLarnin is training at Barry's gymnasium. Many believe Jimmy has a good outside chance to win, but they figure he must do so by a knockout.

Von Porat to Meet Smith.

Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, who will have Charley Smith of England as an opponent in the ten round semi-windup, is working at Barry's. Smith is training at the Arcade. There should be plenty of punching in this fight and either may take the count.

Patsy Pollack, Canadian welterweight, and Bobby O'Hara of Chicago are ready for their ten round fight, feature of Promoter Mique Malloy's show at Guyon's Paradise tomorrow night. They met last summer and O'Hara was given the decision after a close fight. Bobby is a southpaw and can hit with his left hand.

King Levinsky and Russell Buelick, local light heavyweights, will meet in a return match in the eight round semi-windup. They clashed a week ago and Levinsky won by a knockout in the first round. Four other fights round out the card.

Two Italians Team Up in Six Day Bike Grind

There will be a one hundred per cent Italian team in the coming six day bicycle grind in the Stadium. Franco Georgetti, American motor paced champion, and Pietro Linari, one of Italy's strongest six day stars, will carry the Italian colors in the coming whirl of wheels.

Hawks Start Practicing on Ice at Tulsa

TOM SHAUGHNESSY

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 27.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks under the leadership of Tom Shaughnessy and Coach Dick Irvin arrived here today for three weeks of skating practice, after a twelve day preliminary conditioning workout at Notre Dame.

Hockey players, managers and fans throughout Canada and the United States alike are watching with widespread interest the course of this major league hockey organization which has thrown tradition to the winds in the matter of training. All sorts of innovations have been introduced by President McLaughlin.

For years hockey teams have thought it necessary to train up north, Shaughnessy's Hawks will do the major portion of their ice practice at Tulsa, where snow is rare. The Chicago team will engage in five exhibition games before the National Hockey league season opens. As far as is known, this is the record for exhibition games for any major puck scrambling organization.

SURPRISE AWAITS TRADERS TODAY IN WHEAT MART

Sharp Bulge May Follow Legge Statement.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

It will be no surprise today to see a sharp bulge in wheat, as traders will have a big surprise in the announcement by Chairman Legge of the federal farm board, given out late Saturday afternoon, that the government will loan $100,000,000 to the Farmers' National Grain Marketing corporation to enable farmers to hold their wheat.

Coming as it did after a break of 44c on December wheat from the high point of the season, July 29, with enormous liquidation by holders during the week, the market was regarded as in a position to advance, should traders become scared and start a buying furore.

The rush of buying of June 3 is recalled, when prices were advanced 7 @8c. It was the beginning of the bull movement, which culminated at the end of July, after an advance of 37⅝@51c, a greater part of which has since been lost.

Exporters Uneasy, Report.

With wheat prices in United States down to an export level, an advance of material proportions would, it is believed, put prices up where export buying would be shut off, unless it should scare foreign buyers, who are becoming uneasy, and bring them in with a rush. All season they have held off, but late advices indicate that they are becoming uneasy and the recent decline has made North American wheat more attractive.

The long interest in wheat has been greatly reduced by the decline, especially on Thursday, when prices were off more than 12c per bu at Chicago, and equally as much in Winnipeg and in most of the other markets.

The finish, after a range of 15¼@16c, was at net losses of 3⅝@4c. December finished at $1.24⅛@$1.23⅝, March $1.31⅞, and May $1.35@1.34⅝.

Bullish news from Argentina, with estimates of its surplus 110,000,000 to 184,000,000 bu, was of no effect owing to the collapse in the stock market on Thursday bringing heavy liquidation from all quarters, especially from eastern and local speculators, who were credited with being heavily long. Wheat came out freely from start to finish.

Volume of trading on that day set a new record, since official figures were kept by the grain futures administration, aggregate sales of futures in Chicago being 156,131,000 bu, as revised.

Total Open Board Sales.

Total sales in the six markets, exclusive of Portland and Seattle, and including the Chicago Open Board, on Thursday were 185,632,000 bu; Minneapolis sales were 13,606,000 bu; Kansas City, 9,641,00 bu; Duluth, 2,563,-00 bu; St. Louis, 188,000 bu; Milwaukee, 23,000 bu; and the Chicago Open Board, 3,073,000 bu. The figures never have been presented before in such a combination and show the magnitude of the grain trade on a big day when everything is excited.

That the grain trade and the stock markets have come through such a strenuous period without financial troubles shows the benefits derived from present clearing house systems and the value of grain exchanges as a help to the trade as well as to the farmers, especially the latter.

Under existing conditions sharp fluctuations in prices are to be expected for the next few days. Prices for the week follow:

Storage Room for Corn a Factor.

Where storage room for corn is to be secured is the all important problem of the corn trade, and will be for months to come unless there is a big export movement and a consumptive demand that will reduce stocks of all grains at leading markets. With favorable weather expectations are that farmers will sell old and new corn in liberal volume unless there is a decline in prices from the present levels which will bring them down at interior loading stations in the corn belt to 75c or less.

It is the most serious situation as regards storage room that has ever confronted the trade. The only solution appears to be in loading out of oats and rye into boats and cars to create sufficient elevator room for handling corn, as it requires more than any other grain. Much of the new corn will be dry, and the handling of winter shelled corn is a serious problem.

Corn values, while having a sharp break during the excitement in wheat, were well sustained and came back sharply, with net gains of ⅛@1⅛c for the week, with December 91¼@91c, March 97⅛@97⅝c, May 99¼@99⅝c.

Cash demand during the week was greatly improved, with industries taking new corn at liberal discounts. Prices for the week follow:

SMALL LOSSES IN LARD

Lower prices for hogs with large receipts combined with liquidation and hedging pressure, also the break and excitements in grains had comparatively little effect on the prices of lard and meats. Trading was heavy at times, with a good foreign demand for cash lard, with the close at net losses of 20@27½c, nearby deliveries leading. Trade in meats was light and bellies closed 25@30c lower, October leading. Prices follow:

Utah-Apex Mining.

L. A. S.: Utah-Apex Mining company ore reserves in November, 1928, were estimated at 112,000 tons of lead-zinc ore, 39,000 tons of lead-copper ore, and 13,000 tons of crude copper shipping ore.

On Oct. 4, 1929, it was reported that the company had encountered some rich ore on the lowest level of the mine, but as yet the company has not determined the extent of the new body.

During the fiscal year ended August 31, 1929, the company conducted considerable exploration work, the cost of which was met from operating profits.

The company has a working capital of $1,075,000, substantially the same as a year ago.

The income account for the year ended Aug. 31, 1929, has not yet been published. A year ago the company reported a deficit of $106,645 after dividends.

There Will Be a Break of 60 to 80 Points

AT our client's conference on September 5th we stated that sooner or later there would be a break of 60 to 80 points in the Dow-Jones Barometer. This was the day before the break in stock prices began although at the time most bankers, brokers and economists said it would be impossible.

Now when statistics indicate that the time has come to buy certain securities we will just as fearlessly urge their purchase. Moreover when that time comes those who have recently been bullish will probably again be wrong.

Will Get Data on Migration of Industry

BY SCRUTATOR.

Migration of industry will be one of the subjects dealt with in the 1930 census of manufactures. This matter, although occupying a great deal of attention in the last ten years, is still struggling along without a truly comprehensive mass of statistics from which conclusions can be safely drawn.

Surveys which have been made have resulted in a strangely conflicting lot of evidence. It is unquestioned that there has been a movement of considerable proportions into the south and that some industries in new England have failed to grow. A study made by a large insurance company indicated to some extent the passing of manufacturing from the largest cities to those of moderate size. On the other hand, figures gathered by most of the large cities, individually, have shown that they are growing in this respect as in population.

Will Study Trends.

The advisory committee on the census of manufactures, appointed by Secretary of Commerce Lamont, promises that the enumerators will gather data sufficient to show accurately just what the conditions are. It is important to know, as requirements for skilled labor can be forecast with some degree of certitude in various parts of the country if the trends in the migrations are known.

Such examinations will be of maximum value only if an intelligent determination is made of what constitutes a city. Political boundaries will have to be wiped out to get at the fact that a big city extends its influence over surrounding country; that the metropolitan area is the key to American economics.

Merely to state that there has been a greater percentage growth of manufactures in cities of 10,000 to 25,000 than in those of more than a million will mean little unless it is shown how many of the smaller towns are satellites, suburbs within forty or sixty miles, as the case may be, of the biggest cities.

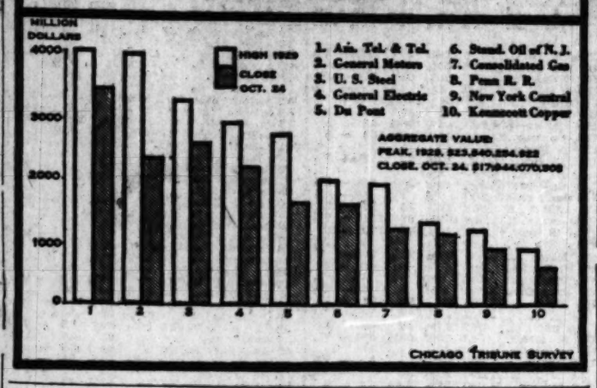

Metropolitan Expansion.

In truth, the growth of metropolitan areas, as contrasted with that of the cities within strict boundaries, has been an outstanding fact in recent years. Some of the Chicago suburbs seem to have increased much faster, proportionately, in population than the part within the city limits. The same probably holds good so far as manufacturing is concerned.

Country-wide developments are likely to increase the importance of metropolitan areas. Water transportation, cheaper but slower than that furnished by the rails, makes the bringing of raw materials into the large centers easier. Advantages for specialty companies using the heavier manufactures like steel and other metals are apparent in such areas when they have quick and economical carrying facilities, as Chicago has with its switching districts. Congestion problems have been fairly well solved by the spreading out of areas.

For a factory to move from Chicago to Berwyn or to Clearing or Gary, or even to Joliet, is no more a migration than for it to move from the north side to the west side. The advantages of the metropolitan areas still belong to it. The bureau of the census can do a good job by showing to what extent there has been a drift into or out of such areas, both of population and of production.

ACTIVE CHICAGO STOCKS HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

But Loss for Week Is 34 Per Cent.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Chicago stock traders passed the holiday yesterday in holding the "inquest" over the biggest stock market crash in history. Although the losses resulting from the debacle of last Thursday ran into the billions, the findings were not so bad that a ray of sunshine was not discernible.

As big as the losses were, the twenty-one most active issues on the Chicago Stock Exchange last week that were also traded in during the corresponding week of last year showed a gain in market value at the close on Saturday of $791,357,104, or 117.36 per cent. The aggregate price of these issues was $1,465,609,304, compared with $674,251,900 on Oct. 27, 1928.

Loss for Week 34 Per Cent.

For last week alone the loss to speculators on the fifty most active stocks in paper value was $1,153,379,291, or 32.34 per cent, an analysis prepared by Lage & Co. shows. The total value of these stocks at the close of the week was $2,565,760,676, compared with $4,719,139,967.

Total sales on the exchange for the week were 3,969,000 shares, a new high record in volume of trading. This compares with 2,907,000 in the week ended Aug. 3, 1929. Twice during the week the daily sales record was broken. First a week ago today, when total sales reached 850,000 shares, and on Thursday, when the debacle brought a turnover of 1,220,000. Total sales for the corresponding week of last year were 1,322,000 shares.

The brunt of the selling last week was borne by Auburn Automobile, which slipped 150 points to 220. The turnover on this issue, however, was only 8,100 shares for the week. Cord corporation was down 8⅜ points. Pines Winterfront lost 13 points and declines of from 5⅝ to 9 points were suffered by Borg-Warner, Allied Motor Industries, Bendix Aviation, and the Houdaille-Hershey issues.

Utilities Suffer Most.

The utility division suffered most through a loss of 38 points in Commonwealth Edison. Middle West Utilities new was down 6½ and National Electric Power A closed 5 points lower. Associated Telephone Utilities eased four points.

Corporation Securities closed 28¾ points lower and Insull Utility Investment finished fourteen points off. Losses of from five to eight points were felt by Chicago Investors, Chicago Corporation, National Securities Investment, Northwest Bancorporation, and Utility and Industrial.

Missouri Belt Prosperous, Boatner Says After Trip

General prosperity has improved this year in the Omaha, Kansas City and St. Joseph territories, V. V. Boatner, president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, said yesterday on his return from an inspection trip over the southern division of the railroad. "Western millers appear to be having a good year," he said.

Price Trend in Bond Market Is Steadily Up

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The bull movement in bonds, which has sent prices up during the last three weeks with a rapidity not equaled in several years, appears to be gathering momentum.

Aside from a temporary setback on Thursday, when all security markets were subjected to the most terrific pressure, listed bonds on the New York Stock Exchange moved steadily and evenly upward, with the result that the averages for ten representative bonds in each of the domestic corporation groups gained ½ a point. This was in the face of a moderate decline during the nervous Thursday session, when only bonds of the highest investment merit were able to hold their ground.

Liberal decreases in money rates and the weakness of equity issues have bolstered sentiment toward bonds to the point where dealers anticipate an increasing investment demand. Until stocks began to soar to spectacular levels the average investor, it is pointed out, was primarily a bond buyer; and now, with the speculative bubble pricked by the events of last week, a return of funds to the market for fixed charge securities would seem virtually assured.

In addition, banks and corporations which have been placing large sums in the call money market may be expected to go back to bonds, if interest rates continue to ease.

Illinois Central Income for 9 Months Makes Gain

Illinois Central railway yesterday reported net operating income of $19,-952,845.99 for the nine months ending Sept. 30, after deducting operating expenses, taxes, equipment and joint facility rents. This is a gain of $830,-170.04 over the corresponding period last year. September net operating income was reported as $3,212,524.44, a gain of $153,131.88 over September, 1928.

FEVERISH ERA OF SPECULATION IS NOW HISTORY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, N. Y., Oct. 27.—There is likely to be no dispute over the real significance of last week's resounding crash in stocks.

Responsible financiers have been pointing out three reassuring considerations, which are many—absence of brokers' failures, for instance, a result of the unprecedentedly high "margins" exacted during the speculative craze, the prosperous condition of trade and industry, the strong position of the federal reserve.

If there has seemed to be a note of caution even in these appeals for cheerfulness, that is probably recognition that the chapter of infatuated speculation is closed and perhaps that other remedial measures, automatic or otherwise, will be necessary before the credit situation is in full equilibrium.

Trade Reaction Doubtful.

There was natural uneasiness last week as to whether the formidable stock exchange reaction might not be a forecast of reaction in trade activity. Some such reaction has often, though certainly not always, been foreshadowed by sweeping collapse of stock exchange values. It came after the stock market's collapse in the spring of 1920, but it did not come after the severe Wall street adjustment of March, 1926.

The somewhat prevalent idea, that plans of trade will be curtailed merely because the stock market has broken, has the slightest possible warrant—always excepting industries which flour...

Now Is The Time to Buy Bonds

The average price of forty representative high grade bonds has risen two full points in the last twenty days.

Many individuals whose attention for some time has been devoted almost exclusively to the stock market are now turning toward high grade bonds; these investors are endeavoring to provide a larger income from their holdings of both stocks and bonds, and at the same time benefit from the added security afforded by their bond investments.

We feel that there is an important and definite place in every investment portfolio for high grade stocks, and it is the purpose of this house to continue to offer such stocks; however, we believe that the present is a particularly opportune time for the average investor to place a substantial part of his surplus funds in sound bonds. Prices are still exceptionally low and yields are correspondingly high.

We shall be pleased to assist investors in a selection of sound bonds currently available

Look to the South For Manufacturing Economies

99% of the nation's cotton, sulphur, and phosphate; 93% of its asphalt and 66% of its petroleum now comes from the South. Industry is turning to this historically old but economically new area.

The 60 Kentucky-Tennessee-Indiana communities served by the Associated Gas and Electric System are within easy reach of large supplies of cotton, lumber, agricultural products, coal and oil. And within a 600 mile radius lie the great Central States markets.

write to our Industrial Department.

ish abnormally when speculations scatter their paper profits in extravagant expenditure. In general, it may be said that declining trade followed such markets when both trade and market were in the grip of money stringency.

This year, for the first time in our history and largely as a result of the reserve board's policies, the extremely tight money which prevailed on the stock exchange has not extended to commercial loans. The prudent management of industry when the stock market had entirely discarded prudence, the absence of accumulated stocks of goods carried on credit, when the Wall street constituency was carrying on "brokers' loans" mountains of inflated stocks and unsold new securities, emphasize contrasts rather than resemblances.

See Normal Let Down.

This does not necessarily imply continuing trade activity on the scale of recent months; indeed, the current decrease of steel production, as compared either with last summer or with other highly prosperous autumns, has already shown that the pace had been forced too fast.

Ebb and flow in the rate of production and consumption are inevitable, even in a year of great prosperity. The case of 1901 was interesting. The famous "northern Pacific panic" on the stock exchange, followed as wild a speculative craze as that of 1929, ended almost suddenly as it had begun.

The stock market, after a few days of bewildered activity, lapsed into nearly a year of idle trading. But several months after stocks had settled down, it began to be discovered that production in various important industries had exceeded the real consumer's capacity. A season of trade reaction followed.

It was emphasized perhaps by the unexpected phenomenon of large gold exports in the autumn season, due to withdrawal of European capital which had come in huge amounts to Wall street during the period of speculation. Yet 1901 was shortly followed both by emphatic trade recovery and by resumption of stock market activity.

Damages Bullish Philosophy.

Whatever may be the sequel on the present occasion, last week's crash in stocks will certainly bring a change in some not unimportant directions. The prevalent idea of things that accompanied the prolonged and excited rise in stocks may become only a curious reminiscence.

The philosophy which based its reasoning on the presumption that a rise in prices can go on forever, that the speculative "outside public" is the best judge of intrinsic values, that buying stocks on margin is really nothing but investment on the installment plan, that "bull leaders" buy stocks always and at all times and never sell, that stocks may just as well be valued at "thirty times earnings" as at ten—that carefully cultivated philosophy of the last two years has been visibly damaged.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Stock values on the Chicago Board of Trade were well maintained throughout the week despite the demoralization in grains and other stock markets. The volume of business was only 63,300 shares.

On his return to London Dorling tells Mr. Warren that he will guide government ... to the island and they go up to Mortvaig with Detective Inspector Rason and Mal-...

INSTALLMENT LV.
AN EXCHANGE.

The airdrome had once been the home park of a prosperous estate, now ... and in decay. The sheep had kept the grass land close cropped ... rendered it thoroughly suitable for its present purpose.

Dorling was driven through rusty iron gates over a weedy path to the end of an avenue, where Wreford and two other flying officers were waiting.

"Good man!" exclaimed Wreford, enthusiastically. "Come and be introduced. There'll be a bit of a strafe before the show starts."

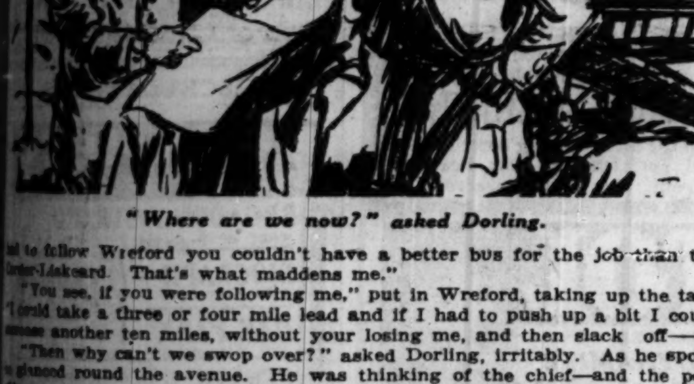

Dorling was introduced to Lockhart, the senior officer, a youngster not any older than Wreford, and Bell, who was to accompany Wreford.

"Look here Lord Dorling," began Lockhart as soon as the introduction was effected. "This thing's going to be a frost. And I'm hanged if I see any way out of it. Of course, you may not be responsible any more than I am, but just look at that machine you're supposed to use."

Fifty yards away stood two airplanes surrounded by a cluster of R. A. F. mechanics. One had the government mark of red and blue circles—like a target. Dorling's eye traveled from this to the civilian machine that had been provided for his use.

"It's a Corder-Liskeard, by the look of it!" he exclaimed.

"A Corder-Liskeard it looks and a Corder-Liskeard it is," raved Lockhart. "That's what's getting my goat. You know as well as I do—" he ... at Dorling as if he doubted his own words—"a Corder-Liskeard is just what we don't want for this job. It's too slow. If Wreford is to hang on to your tail he may find himself in trouble. On the other hand, if you fail to follow Wreford you couldn't have a better bus for the job than the Corder-Liskeard. That's what maddens me."

"Where are we now?" asked Dorling.

"You see, if you were following me," put in Wreford, taking up the tale, "I could take a three or four mile lead and if I had to push up a bit I could squeeze another ten miles, without your losing me, and then slack off——"

"Then why can't we swop over?" asked Dorling, irritably. As he spoke he glanced round the avenue. He was thinking of the chief—and the possible presence of a gunman. His mind was almost wholly occupied with the thought of a gunman and he was only dimly aware that all three officers were talking at once.

"Anyhow, the suggestion has come from you, Lord Dorling," Lockhart was saying. "Naturally, to you as a civilian, it's the obviously sensible solution. The trouble is—if I let you go up in a government bus I am on the carpet."

"Why couldn't we swop back again when we get to the island?" he said indifferently.

"Splendid!" exclaimed Wreford hastily before his senior could say anything. Dorling realized that the three of them had already decided that the exchange must be made but wished to sound him on his attitude.

"It's a matter of complete indifference to me," added Dorling. "And if we happen to be breaking some government regulation, well, you can count on me not to write to the war office about it. . . . The only thing is—that destroyer."

"I'd thought of that," said Wreford.

"Where are we now?" asked Dorling.

"About twelve miles inland from Mortvaig."

"Then their airdrome is about—over there," said Dorling, pointing, and as they agreed, he went on:

"It is my intention to go clean over the airdrome—as I'm more likely to be able to find my way. Wreford had better go up first with the Corder-Liskeard, get over the airdrome and then strike due northwest. I'll follow five minutes later. I needn't overtake you until we are thirty or forty miles out. And then the destroyer won't be able to spot which of us is leading."

"Can you beat it?" demanded Wreford, with what he believed to be an American accent. "All aboard, Belly-boy."

Dorling was alone with Lockhart.

"Very sporting of you, Lord Dorling!" said the latter. "One feels a bit of a tyke discussing departmental affairs with a civilian but you see how I am fixed. In my judgment," he said ponderously as if he were addressing a court martial, "Wreford would be running an unnecessary risk trying to follow a slower machine with a faster one. Therefore, I could not have allowed him to fly. That would have meant giving it up."

Dorling glanced again over his shoulder, then moved away from the avenue. The chief, he reckoned, had some four and a half minutes in which to fulfill his threat. . . . Four minutes. In four minutes he would be dead—or he would do all that was possible to find that island without a chart. And when he had found the island, Wreford in a few minutes would wireless its position to the nearest destroyer.

The chauffeur had followed with a bag containing his flying kit. By the time he had slipped into this he judged that the five minutes must have expired.

"Time's up, isn't it!" he asked.

"Rather. You'd better get a move on."

As he climbed to the cockpit he faced a murderous looking machine gun. Lockhart was speaking, so he stopped the engine.

"I promise not to touch it," said Dorling and restarted the engine.

As the airplane sped over the grass Dorling laughed aloud. The chief had failed. It was as if exultant voices shouted the words in his ear as he rose, then headed towards the airdrome where Rason and his score of assistants were busily trying to comb every hole and corner.

He was over the sea now, headed northwest. For five minutes he flew at nearly full speed before he saw the destroyer far below, some ten miles ahead of him and—within a mile or so of the destroyer, Wreford.

"That's about right!" he told himself and continued on his course. He had misjudged the distance a little, for he overtook Wreford when they were nearly a mile ahead of the destroyer. Having passed Wreford, he slackened speed.

He was a good three miles ahead of Wreford when the chief struck.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The RKO organization cordially invites you to visit the Woods theater which is now their picture house and hopes—with a capital "H"—that "Rio Rita," its opening feature, will make a hit—another capital "H"—with you.

The Ziegfeld success, has been adapted from stage to screen with but few changes. There are the songs, the dances, the gorgeous revue scenes with their "glorified" girls, that made the original such a radiant success. There is the thread of story running through, its love interest centered on the romance of Mexican Rita and Captain Jimmy Stewart of the Texas Rangers. There is the sustained mystery as to WHO IS the Kinkajou, a busy and evasive bandit with a price on his head. And there is Bert Wheeler, comedy singing and dancing hit of the stage production come to lend the bright light of his presence to the screen version. It is to be regretted that his former vis-a-vis was not available, for Dorothy Lee, though vivacious and willing enough displays no comedy sense and, as a singer is a pretty good dancer.

Changes noted are some additions which could have been omitted as they make the piece too long, and the subordinating of the Texas Rangers in the scheme of things. By the way, how THESE boys can sing!

Bebe Daniels in the title rôle is a surprise and a delight. Somehow it never had occurred to anybody that this lightsome, likesome comedienne of the silent screen could sing. To RKO belongs the honor and glory of discovery and the despatch with which these producers cast her as Rita, shows how smart they are.

Miss Daniels may not have the prima donna voice of Ethelind Terry, the stage heroine, but she sings quite well enough for all practical purposes and the charm of her warmly engaging personality makes her signally successful in this venture. She is lovely to look at in the many sumptuous costumes she affects and in two scenes does some arresting acting.

John Boles sings well and is handsome as Captain Jim, though he is hardly a Texas Ranger type. There is about him an intangible atmosphere of moonlight and nightingales that makes him a bit unconvincing in a "get your man" part.

He is minus snap. As a matter of fact, snap, is what this entire lavish production lacks, and I am inclined to think that "the whole show on the living screen" never will, in the case of a Ziegfeld extravaganza, be to us what the LIVING show is on the stage. Footlights, the scent of powder on warm flesh, the human, touchable element, the responsive encore, seem, somehow, essential, and their absence left me unsatisfied and, vaguely, lonely.

However, here is a movie all should see. The latter half of the film, staged on board a barge, is gorgeously photographed in Technicolor. The focus is not always perfect, but the general effect is breath-takingly lovely.

Players deserving honorable mention are Robert Woolsey who assists Bert Wheeler in laugh episodes, George Renevant as a certain cool and calculating Ravenoff, and Dorothy Kaiser as Mrs. Chick Bean, No. 1. The entire supporting cast is, on the whole well chosen and capable.

A good show!

"OUR MODERN MAIDENS."
No Dialogue.. Musical synchronization.

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Jack Conway.
Presented at the Chicago theater.
Featuring Joan Crawford, Anita Page, Rod La Rocque and Douglas Fairbanks.

"Modern Maidens," sequel to "Our Dancing Daughters," has been on the censorial carpet for lo these last three months. Balaban and Katz didn't want a Pink Permit, but the guardians of movie morals doggedly insisted

YES! It is alleged that they were thus firm because a maiden who sins in the picture meets with reward they felt only virtue could have rendered just. She is not cast into outer darkness, you see, but gets her man and lives happy ever after.

So—no children may view "Modern Maidens." The idiotic angle is, that children wouldn't understand and would probably sleep through the scenes they're being saved from, while flappers who will eat 'em up and MIGHT be influenced by them, are, alas, accorded no protection.

Personally I wasn't crazy for "Modern Maidens." The story is unoriginal and obvious though well presented. Anita Page as the false-stepping "Kentucky" runs away with the honors. But the film is just another jazz age production, and thinks I, the fuss that's been made over the piece is entirely out of proportion to its importance and its entertainment value.

See you tomorrow!

CRITIC OF THE DELAYS IN COLLEGE CAREERS GIVES COLLEGE $20,000

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Floyd L. Carlisle, investment banker, recently quoted as saying a college education unfits a boy for a business career, was revealed today as the donor of $20,000 to St. Lawrence university, Canton, N. Y.

In a letter to Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company and of the university's board of trustees, Mr. Carlisle explained his "true views."

"I most heartily recommend a college education as a foundation for any intended profession or career and only wish every boy and girl in the land could enjoy it," he said.

"A boy, however, leaving college at 22 and entering a business organization at the bottom, as he must, is under a severe handicap to the boy who has started four years ahead of him. This handicap, of course, can be overcome, but it is no light one."

Genoese Science Academy Makes Edison a Member

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Announcement that Thomas A. Edison has been named an honorary member of the Italian Academy of Sciences and Letters of Genoa, Italy, was transmitted to the inventor today by Commander Luigi Chiscuolo, the academy's representative here. The action was taken in recognition of Edison's "distinguished services to science, industry and humanity."

Commander Chiscuolo pointed out that Edison had contributed greatly toward the utilization of Italian water power for the generation of electrical energy for power and light, making Italy independent of coal producing countries.

Belgian Wives Hope to Change Marital Laws

Present Code All in Husband's Favor.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Oct. 27.—This country, where brides still vow to "honor and obey" their husbands, is due for a change.

A league of feminists made strenuous efforts last year to have the "obey" struck from the official marriage ceremony, but failed. From Queen Elizabeth down to the last little shop girl, women must pledge their obedience to men in this kingdom.

Napoleon is certain to turn around in his grave some day this winter when Belgium wives will wage their battle on the marriage and divorce laws he drew up in his famous "Code Napoleon," still enforced here. There is a 50 per cent chance that Belgium's progressive women will win their fight.

If a Belgian wife has property in her own right, she legally has to support the family whenever the husband feels unable to do so. In exchange her lord and master will "protect" her, but will claim her obedience. During childhood a girl's destinies are controlled by her father in Belgium. A husband who feels ever so much cleverer than his young wife can require that she go to college and complete her education. By law he may punish her, though not too violently.

Every husband has the right to open the letters his wife sends or receives; he may "intercept a shameful or criminal correspondence of his wife" and produce it later in court, but she can't do likewise. A Belgian wife must follow her husband wherever he decides to live, even abroad.

The only excuse for which a wife may leave her husband is to take a cure in some health resort, to attend to her private property, or to stay with her ailing father or mother.

A wife's infidelity is always a cause for divorce in Belgium, "whatever might be the wrongs of the husband." But a husband can be divorced for being untrue only if his wife and official witnesses surprised him kissing his sweetheart in his own home. "The law does not mean to punish the adultery of the husband," says Napoleon's code, "but merely the grave insult done to the wife by the fact that a concubine was kept in her own home."

The Inquiring Reporter

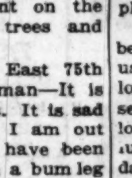

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Jessie B. McCurrach, 2529 Elm avenue, Evanston, Ill., was awarded $5.

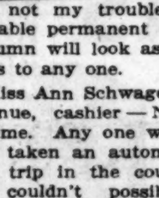

The Question.

Is autumn a sad season of the year for you?

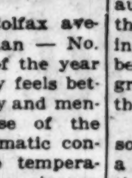

The Answers.

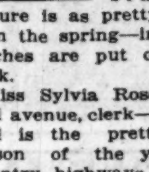

Mrs. L. E. Price, 4649 North Drake avenue, housewife — O, no; it is the most beautiful season of the year. I like it better even than spring. Some of our days in the fall are as fine, in the same sense, as the finest day in June, only more beautiful. There is vigor in the air and color running rampant on the ground and among the trees and foliage.

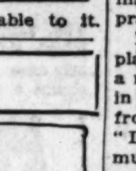

Joseph R. Jacques, 124 East 75th street, salesman—It is sad at times. It is sad for me, for I am out of work. I have been laid up with a bum leg and the going is not good. I was in the service and was wounded. The war is over, but not my troubles. When I find suitable permanent employment, then autumn will look as rosy to me as it does to any one.

Miss Ann Schwager, 6316 Waveland avenue, cashier — Not for me. Any one who has taken an automobile trip in the country couldn't possibly come back wearing a sad and melancholy look. He would be all smiles, the coloring everywhere is so lovely.

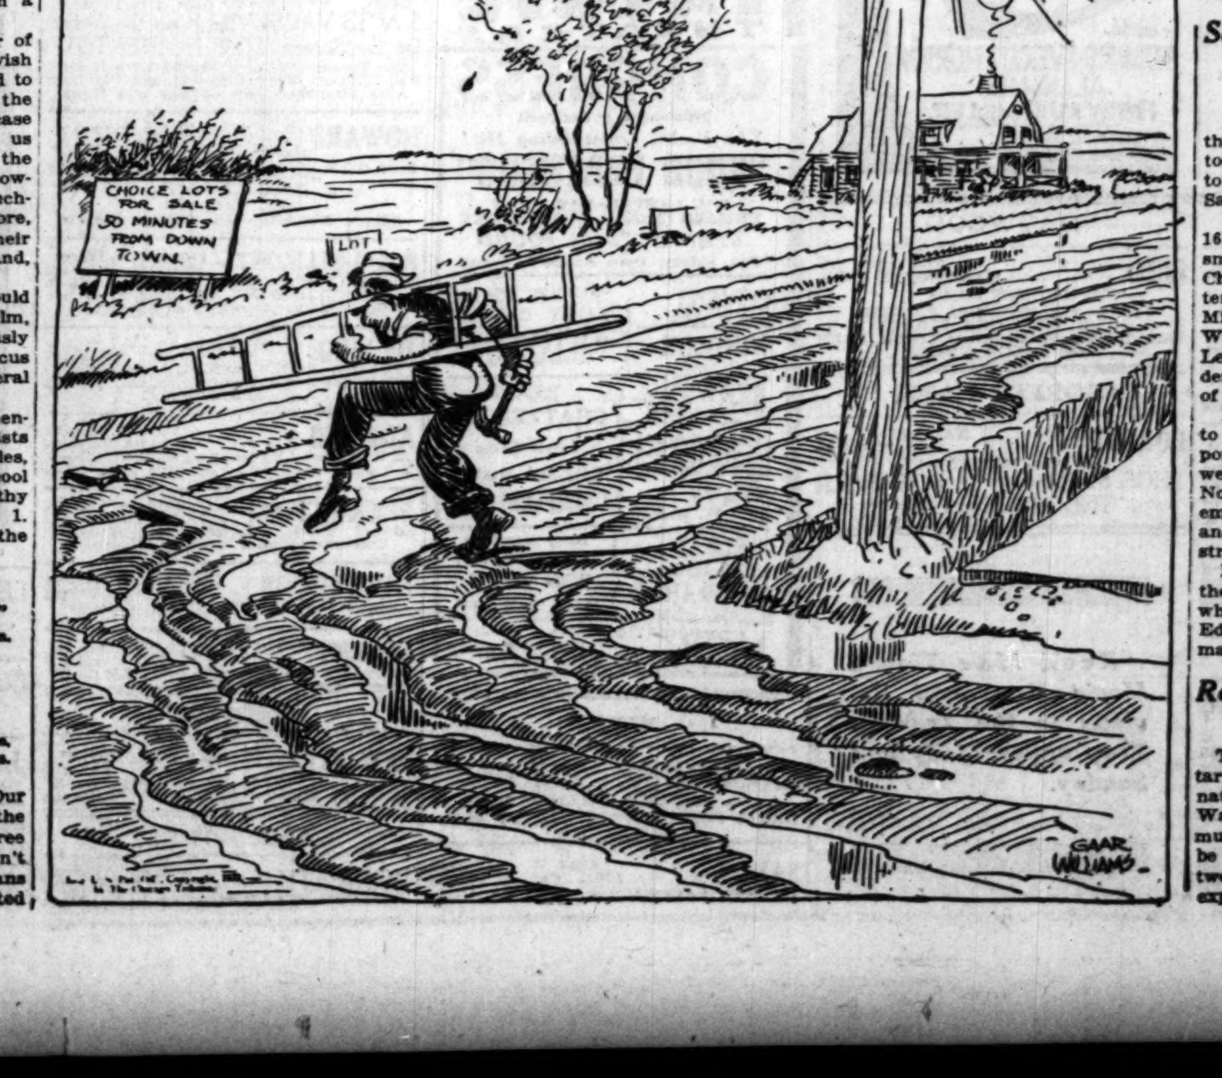

A. B. Henderson, 8006 Colfax avenue, salesman — No. In the fall of the year one naturally feels better physically and mentally, because of the favorable climatic conditions. The temperature and the air are bracing, invigorating. Nature is as pretty in the fall as it is in the spring—in fall the finishing touches are put on nature's handiwork.

Miss Sylvia Rosenberg, 1533 Fairfield avenue, clerk—No. Fall is the prettiest season of the year. Country highways are not so crowded as they are during the summer, and the scenery everywhere is simply glorious, no other time of the year being comparable to it.

OUR SECRET AMBITION

Musical Dances of Vincenzo Celli Vie with Concerts

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Vincenzo Celli, once a Chicagoan and since then a first dancer in La Scala and other European opera houses, was at Orchestra hall yesterday afteroon in a program illustrating his ideas upon the art of the ballet. He has a good many, and most of them are attractive.

He himself is a lithe acrobat of the dance with a flair for well designed lines and first rate bodily control, whether in the classical ballet to Chopin's music, a whimsical divertissement like the one he calls "Venetian Porcelain," or a modern bit of semi-nudity and a veil to Debussy's music.

With him were Berenice Holmes, who has definite gifts and excellent training as a dancer; Elizabeth Marsh, who was loudly applauded after a colorful Spanish dance, and a group of sixteen coryphees. A small orchestra played behind a screen on the stage.

The program would have been the better for a stage manager's liberally used blue pencil. At its best it was long, and the number of divertissements that were repeated made it longer. Also there were certain evolutions of such complexity that the dancing groups were in a bit of difficulty about executing them with clockwork precision.

On the other hand there was "The Combat of Tancred and Clorinda," done to the ancient music of Claudio Monteverde, which was a bit of fine imagination. Mr. Celli and Miss Holmes mimed the story with a lot of dramatic expression, and a trio of singers headed by Hortense Drummond, contralto, sang it simultaneously with the action. It turned out to be a rather striking scene, with color and design, and both attractive.

Elsewhere there were musical events extending all the way from Kimball hall to the Chicago Woman's club auditorium. Isaac Levine, occupying the northern salient, was discovered in the act of dealing faithfully, soberly, and intelligently with one of the greatly difficult Beethoven sonatas that bear the number of opus 101.

Josephine Lydston-Seyl was at the southernmost point of the territory in a costume recital of old French, Venetian, and old world songs, costuming them attractively, explaining them fluently and gracefully, and performing them daintily. She was assisted by Carmel Powers, harpist.

The Chicago People's Symphony orchestra in its first concert of the season at the Eighth Street theater, let itself go under the baton of P. Marinus Paulsen in the "Tannhäuser" Overture with a better tone and more spirited attack than it has ever had since its organization. Three soloists were on the program, Gladys Hawkins, pianist; Mary Wendling Titus, soprano; and Milton Preves, violinist.

In the Playhouse Grace Freeman played a well arranged program with a number of interesting modern pieces in it. One, a Spanish dance extracted from the last act of De Falla's opera, "La Vida Breve," was played with so much spirit and good tone that an encore was demanded.

Next door at the Studebaker Naomi Hewitt was playing the big brother of the violin, the cello. Popper's Tarantelle was performed speedily and deftly, from which point the artist moved on to the fine concerto written by Saint-Saëns.

Salvation Army Tags Today to Raise Fund

Three thousand women will be on the job throughout the city early today to sell doughnut shaped tags to passersby for the benefit of the Salvation Army.

In the City hall, Texas Guinan and 16 chorus girls will pass out tags and smiles, under the captaincy of Mrs. Christian Paschen. Mrs. R. F. Woltersdorf will head 250 taggers along Michigan and Wabash avenues, from Wacker drive to Roosevelt road. Mrs. Lester R. Wellman and Mrs. Ora Snyder are in charge of the entire group of taggers.

Entire receipts of the day will go to the Salvation Army fund for support of the hospital and home for unwed mothers and their babies at 5040 North Crawford avenue, and the emergency lodge for stranded women and children at 1250 West Adams street.

Mrs. Charles King Corsant heads the women's division of the drive, which is seeking to raise $50,000. Mrs. Edward R. Fifield is honorary chairman of the committee on tag day.

Rotary Convention Details for June Being Formed

The convention committee of Rotary International will meet at international headquarters at 211 West Wacker drive Thursday night to formulate plans for the silver jubilee to be celebrated here next June. Between 15,000 and 20,000 Rotarians are expected to attend the convention.

Heirs of Booth Fail to Retain Army's Favors

Salvationists' Camp Again Has Disputes.

BY WAVERLEY ROOT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The thin crust, which formed over the crater of the Salvation Army volcano after its eruption last January and which led to the deposition of the late Gen. Bramwell Booth from leadership of the organization, founded by his father, burst again today. Once more the public was treated to a sight of an outbreak of differences, smouldering beneath an apparently calm surface.

The double disclosure was made that members of the Booth family have been demoted from all important positions in army work as a punishment for espousing their father's cause, with the single exception of Commander Evangeline Booth. Her support of the high council won her favor with the present heads of the organization. At the same time, it was learned that receipts of the English branch of the Salvation Army have suffered severely, apparently as a result of lack of confidence in the organization since the recent open dissension.

Gen. Edward J. Higgins, chief of the Salvation Army, after a conference hastily called at international headquarters as a result of today's disclosure, issued a blanket denial covering practicaly all charges. Although the source of information is from an anonymous commissioner of the Salvation Army, Gen. Higgins declared that the statements could not have been made by any commissioner "who had first hand knowledge of the facts."

He added that there would be no disciplinary measures applied to the Booth family. Gen. Higgins denied that he had made any overtures to America for financial assistance, because revenues of the English organization fell off nearly $500,000 the first eight months of this year. But he admitted the result of the self-denial appeal was disappointing. Commissioner Catherine Booth, acting for herself and her mother, has given headquarters "unsought assurance" that they were not responsible for the disclosures, he said.

An investigation into the past and present duties of members of the Booth family lends belief to the charges that they are being disciplined. No members of the Booth family are now detailed to speak at public meetings.

A census among members of the family shows disciplinary action in almost every case. Mrs. Bramwell Booth, founder of the woman's social section, was scheduled to speak at a meeting of subscribers here next month, but a few days ago was notified that her presence would not be required. Her daughter, Catherine, is the present head of that section. She was told a few days before at a meeting of a private council that another commissioner would lead the session.

Catherine Booth has also been relieved of the editorship of the monthly Salvation Army periodical, Deliverer.

Col. Bernard Booth, supervisor of young people's work, was removed from that post and made assistant in another office. Col. Mary Booth, in charge of Salvation Army work in Germany, was recalled. Maj. Olive Booth, her sister, who was given leave to nurse her father during his illness, is now without a post. Staff Captain Dora Booth, formerly in charge of field training of 400 women at Clapton, England, was sent to a minor post in France. Staff Capt. Wycliffe is not permitted to accept invitations to speak.

A case which recently aroused public indignation is that of Commissioner Lucy Booth-Hellberg, sister of the late general, who was planning a semi-retirement because of her advanced age. She was shipped off to South America.

Financial conditions within the English army are so bad that the Salvation Army field officers—but not the headquarters' officers—must reduce expenses. An order has been issued that every field officer must make a daily report of free meals, deducting the cost of such meals from allowance fees.

Edith Walker, R. M. Walrath Will Wed Nov. 9

BY THALIA

Miss Edith Walker, daughter of Mrs. W. Ernest Walker, who is to be married on Nov. 9 to Richard Martin Walrath, is to have two matrons of honor attending her and no bridesmaids.

One of the attendants is to be Mrs. Condé Nast, the former Leslie Foster, and the other Mrs. Mather-Smith, de Rawson Marsh is to be best man for Mr. Walrath and the ushers will include Albert G. Berry Jr., Samuel J. Walker of Lake Forest, Thomas ... of Milwaukee, and Mason Blake of Greenwich, Conn., one of Miss Walker's cousins.

The service is to be read at St. Chrysostom's at 4:30 o'clock and a small reception will follow at Mrs. Walker's residence at 6 Scott street.

The bride-to-be's great-aunt, Mrs. John Leavrett Rogers of New York city, another aunt, Mrs. Mason Blake of Greenwich, Mrs. Alfred Parker Leighton of Flushing, Mrs. Carleton Granbery, and Miss Elise Granbery of New York and a contingent from Geneva will be included among the out of town guests. Mrs. Walker is giving a dinner the night before the wedding at the Casino for her daughter and the people coming from a distance, and there will be numerous other entertainments.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick will open her residence on Tuesday afternoon for the first of a series of three lectures sponsored by the Drama league. Dr. Lauro de Boses will talk on "Contemporary Italian Dramatists." Mrs. William E. Wright, social chairman of the league, is in charge of arrangements and is being assisted by Mrs. Hayden Harris.

The women who will officiate at the tea table include Mrs. J. R. Cardwell, Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. Brode Davis and Mrs. Leroy Goddard. The Italian consul general, Sig. Castrucco, and Walter L. Bullock, professor of Italian literature and drama at the University of Chicago, will be guests.

The monthly home dressmaker's sale of the White Elephant Rummage shop will be this coming Thursday. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and her committee will be in charge. Mrs. Samuel T. Chase has taken over the publicity for the Rummage shop.

The Arts club has cards out for a tea on Friday for Carl Milles, Swedish sculptor who is on his first visit to America, and in Chicago to give advice on the placing of his fountain of the Tritons to be brought here through the auspices of a group of prominent men.

Some one who has seen Mrs. Thomas Fisher's costumes, some of them native ones of Siam, the Island of Bali, and Japan, in which she will dance at the Chicago Woman's club on Friday evening, tells me they are perfectly charming. Her dances are ones which she evolved last year when she was in the orient, when the Japanese government commissioned her, a distinction never before bestowed on any dancer, to give 20 performances at the time of the emperor's coronation. Mrs. Fisher is, as you know, Ruth Page, professionally, but in the society columns, she's Mrs. Fisher.

The earnest young things who are engineering a benefit performance of the Chicago World's Championship rodeo at the Chicago stadium on Nov. 3 have already disposed of 34 boxes. Many of them have been taken by their papas and mamas and uncles and aunts, to be sure, but it makes a fine list. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, of course, has taken a box, and the Silas H. Strawn, Stanley Field, Charles Glore, Henry Porter, Barrett Wendell, John B. Drake, Mrs. Leverett Thompson, Mrs. Waller Borden, Arthur T. Aldis, Mrs. Walter Wolf, Mrs. Nelson Barnes, whose daughter, Mrs. Louis Sudler, is executive chairman for the benefit, and Gustavus F. Swift.

The north shore contingent of girls who will take part in the fashion show which is to be a feature of the Arden Shore ball on Nov. 27 at the Palmer house is so large that a special suburban committee has been formed with Miss Jane McKinney of Winnetka as chairman. Meetings are held every Tuesday morning at the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

Miss McKinney's committee includes Virginia Holabird, Veronese Beatty, Helen Bell, Elizabeth Durham, Joy Forman, Margaret Emily Lynde, Winifred McKeown, Barbara Poole, Janet Kirk, Elizabeth Parker, Marian Ruffner, Jane Trowbridge, Christopher Wheeler and Frances Wood. These girls are also helping to swell the funds of the benefit by selling program advertising.

Mrs. James Field and her youngsters have moved north and are in their new apartment at 10 East Schiller street. Mrs. Field and the late Mr. Field were south siders for many years, Mrs. Field's residence having been at 6442 Kenwood avenue.

Dr. J. G. K. McClure Predicts Merger of Trade, Science, Church

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

On the eve of the 100th anniversary of Presbyterian Theological seminary, Dr. James G. K. McClure, 82 years old, clergyman for 52 years and for 23 years president of that seminary, made a prediction. He said in this day of mergers, the greatest will be the union of science, business and religion. Dr. McClure sent this message to the 10,000 Presbyterian churches of the country yesterday when the attention of the entire denomination was centered on the Chicago institution.

Dr. McClure believes that the fundamentalist-modernist dispute has run its course. He declared that the present day emphasis is not so much upon the brand of religion as it used to be. Barriers between creeds are not as prominent as they were.

"It is the spirit that counts," Dr. McClure said. "While there may be fewer people in the church than there used to be, yet the jazz age is passing because it is superficial and unreal. People are becoming more serious minded. This soon will bring about an intensified zeal and faith which will be marked by tolerance and social service activity."

The aged clergyman under whose supervision thousands of clergymen were trained, pointed out that the main thoughts of religion fifty years ago were related to death, solace for bereavement and hope beyond.

"Human nature still needs spiritual inspiration and the minister of the future will be less a 'man of affairs' than today, but more of a mystic and shepherd of souls," said Dr. McClure. He then spoke of the new affinity between science, religion and business and indicated that between true science and true religion there is the opposite of conflict. A vast synthesis of the three great human activities, science, business and religion, is developing with great rapidity.

"There is no question that the true spirit of Christianity is entering into business through such men as Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and Cyrus McCormick," Dr. McClure said. "Likewise science has its brilliant minds with spiritual understanding, such as Prof. A. A. Michelson, Prof. Arthur H. Compton, Mme. Curie, all winners of the Nobel prize."

MME. OLSZEWSKA, WITH SHORT SKIRTS, IS HERE FOR OPERA

Mme. Maria Olszewska, Viennese contralto, who will be with the Chicago Civic opera for her second season this year, arrived in Chicago yesterday. She wore a short brown skirt and yellow sweater, as defiant of fashion's new edict of long skirts as Mary Garden, who recently returned to America.

"I won't wear them," cried Madame Olszewska with a challenging gesture and flashing eyes, and followed that remark with a flood of eloquent German.

But as proof that she is not feministic, came Madame Olszewska's comparison of the opera as it flourishes on the continent, to which she returned last summer, and in America.

"You cannot have a good cake unless the butter and eggs you put in it are good," she said in German. "It is the same there as it is here, except that America has the money to buy a little better ingredients, meaning the artists and directors."

ENGAGEMENT

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Milton F. Davis of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen Dorman, to Morton Starr Cressy Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Starr Cressy of Chicago. Miss Davis attended the Knox and Gardner schools, also the Sorbonne in Paris. Mr. Cressy was graduated in June, 1927, from the United States Naval academy.

Evanston Church Begins 10 Day Rites for Its Dedication

A ten day celebration was begun yesterday because of the opening of the new Northminster Presbyterian church at Central Park and Harrison street, Evanston, of which the Rev. Wallace Harper Carver is pastor. The dedication sermon was preached at the morning services by the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States.

The dedication was followed in the afternoon by services dedicating the Mother memorial organ. At that ceremony the Rev. Roy Ewing Vale, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Oak Park, spoke.

When It's Cousin Jim's Fault Don't Blame the Children

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Play Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans, for mothers of preschool children, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Have you ever thought that we too often blame the children for things that aren't their fault? Especially social things?

Haven't you often held a post-mortem over a misdemeanor which if you analyzed it was not primarily the children's fault at all?

Suppose a man relative or old friend calls on you or stays for luncheon. His manner with the children is one of assumed roughness in words and actions. Your children, especially if they are boys, will be rough in return. And because they are children and don't know when to stop, before the fooling is over they will have been altogether too rough—and disaster will have resulted.

Or some one who loves to "wisecrack" may visit you. Well, one wisecrack invites another—and the first thing you know the children may have said one thing too much and hurt feelings ensue.

Children respond to the treatment they receive. If a person finds them funny and laughs at them, this encourages more monkeyshines, makes them self-conscious and they show off. In all these cases you have to intervene—tactfully, or if things become too strenuous, in a really squelching manner. This squelching, perforce, you direct at the children—though you long to aim some of it at the guest who sets the pace. If you're courageous and know your friends well enough, you perhaps do that, too. But it isn't pleasant.

On the other hand, the friend who is interested in the children, in what they have to say and do just as he or she might be in an adult, never causes a social tension. You never have to step in with an admonition—or feel you must reprove the children after he or she has gone.

Now, of course, there comes an age when we expect our children to have enough stability to keep from losing their heads in certain social situations. Still, it's a good deal to expect, at that. And when we feel tempted to say, "I'm ashamed of the way you acted when Mr. James was here," or "I could hardly talk to Aunt Rose—I felt like sending you out of the room," or call them rude or silly, we would do well to remember that much of the blame goes to Mr. James or Aunt Rose, and not be harsh or unjust with the children.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Vegetable Soups of Sorts.

It is much easier to get our meat soup stocks by using some meat and the bones that come with pot roasts and even the steaks. This is because the shin bone is not an easy bone to make immaculate, while in the very business of preparing our pot roasts and steaks we can do this little bit of work that will give us a soup foundation. This way of doing, however, is best for small families. For a family of two, or even of one, a two pound piece of shoulder meat may be purchased and used in three or four different ways, so making the cost, a cost of about 70 to 75 cents, seem more reasonable. Little pieces of the meat can be rolled in flour and sautéd and make, with vegetables, a nice preparation to serve with macaroni or rice. A pound may be pot roasted and the bone and a little of the meat cleaned and covered with cold water, gently simmered for several hours, cooled rapidly and be ready for soups.

With this foundation one may make a most paltable thin or thick soup. Suppose we wish for a cup of thick soup. Let us cut up one good sized onion and sweat that, or soften it in the heavy bottomed covered sauce pan for five minutes, then stir in perhaps two teaspoons of flour and add a cup of the broth or meat stock. Stir this constantly until it thickens, adding a teaspoon of salt or a little more, and a grate or two of white pepper. After this is well thickened, add to it some cucumber cut exceedingly fine. If you have the little fresh gherkins you may use three or four of them. Put them into the soup and cook for ten minutes. This will make a thick and most refreshing soup, and will not contain enough calories to frighten anybody.

It is still easier, of course, any time and always to add to the thickened soup some tomato, preferably a fresh tomato. Both with the tomato and the cucumber we can make a soup in the minimum of time and have something fresh and perfect of flavor to construct a considerable part of a meal for one eating alone. Always in such soups there may be a little celery, or just the white celery leaves, but this is better with the tomato than with the cucumber, the flavor of which is easily hidden. As a matter of fact, with a good strong broth and a little thickening, with the onion alone cut up, our soup is above the average in flavor and attractiveness, but particularly in this case the addition of a little celery will be worth while.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Doll Bodies Wanted.

"I have four unbreakable doll heads and I am looking for bodies for them 12, 18 or 24 inches high. I want to dress these dolls for some poor children I know. Mrs. G. S."

The dolls your children are discarding because of a lost wig or cracked head would bring no end of pleasure to the youngsters Mrs. G. S. is interested in. With one of these heads and a pretty frock they should be attractive.

Boy Wants Induction Coil.

"Has one of your readers an induction coil he would be willing to give away? I am a 15 year old boy, interested in electricity, and could use this coil in my experiments. I am unable to buy it myself. T. B."

This ambitious young student of electricity would spend many an interesting hour with the electrical equipment you discard from time to time. When you have some to dispose of again, won't you send it to him?

It's Not Enough to Be Slender; You Must Be Supple, Too

It's no trouble to get women to fall into line about reducing their weight. I mean it's no trouble to convince them that they ought to reduce. They'll agree perfectly and perhaps start right in eating one piece of buttered toast instead of two. But may even go farther than that and eat no buttered toast at all. But when you try to sell them suppleness and in your selling talk you mention that some exercise is necessary, the enthusiasm isn't quite so jolly, really.

But what's the use of getting slimness, nowadays, unless it be supple slimness. Slimness is not the latest model. It was last year's or the year before's. Now to be very, very chic you've got to represent supple slimness in your new frocks and your general movements. And that is just one of the things you do not get by diet alone. You may be more supple than you were, to be sure. With ten, fifteen, or twenty pounds less, what could prevent you from feeling a bit giddier on your feet? But that isn't the sort of suppleness meant in the new order of form to fit the new order of supple dress and swaying, trailing chiffons.

You see thinness and suppleness, to let us repeat, are not necessarily synonymous unless extreme youth is involved in the presentation. You know how the old time caricatures of the maiden lady of uncertain years showed a bespectacled, unyielding personage whose stiffness made her so formidable. That's what we have to avoid now in the reduced figure.

And, as I say, it cannot be done without supplifying [if there is such a word] exercises. Dancing we have recommended before for this loosening up of tension. Swimming, too, takes the kinks out of the long iron bound muscles, but the latter is cut off as a possibility for the great majority now. There is always, however, the well known bending work to which even five minutes devoted morning and night contributes heartily to younger, more supple grace of movement. And five minutes morn and eve is all I'd recommend for a beginner—but five good round minutes, and no cheating.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

Several of the weedy grasses are causing considerable trouble to sheep and cattle, particularly in those sections where the sheep industry is of considerable economic importance, reports Dr. L. H. Pammel, veteran Iowa botanist.

These grasses cause injuries impairing the eyesight, and the bristles penetrate the skins, gums, and throats of the animals. The pelts of the sheep are rendered worthless in some cases by these injuries and are reduced 50 per cent below their normal value. The wool is greatly damaged by the presence of plant burs, spines, and awns, and may sell for as little as one-half the normal price.

In a recent bulletin published by the state college of Iowa at Ames, Dr. Pammel lists and describes five common weedy grasses that cause the most trouble to sheep men. The grasses considered are poverty grass, bristly foxtail, squirreltail grass, wild barley, and awned brome grass.

These grasses are all annuals and are readily destroyed by careful cultivation. Many of them grow on slopes and gullied hillsides and can be destroyed by burning just before maturity. If wild barley, squirreltail grass and awned brome are cut just after blossoming, they will be largely destroyed.

We Hang to Straps in Our Fashion Transit

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Getting into the harness has a very pleasant significance this season in the dress world. Among the new neck lines one notes of outstanding interest that much bestrapped affair known as the harness neck. Aside from this there are numerous clever introductions of straps. For example, Patou is fond of dropping a panel of material from the center of the neck line to the waist. This panel is detached and loops over itself. Hence it bears an amusing resemblance to a rein.

In Patou's famous model of day time frock called "Lily," one which we sketched last week, this strap in the back is a significant detail and bears out completely the message of chic breathed by the bolero front, the natural waistline and flounced sleeves. In the other Patou model which we show today this same partiality for a detached back strap is indicated to balance the jabot of the front.

Carried out in red silk crepe, here is a frock which breathes the very latest message of Paris. It indicates the natural waistline by means of those elaborate seamings of which Patou is so fond. And it represents the curving direction of such seams on the fitted sleeves.

As for the neck line, this recalls to us once more that the jabot has all the longevity of a cat—or of a gentleman who drinks six cups of coffee a day. This season the trick here utilized—that of making the jabot a logical termination of a strapped neck line—is one often encountered.

Bright Sayings of the Children

John had wheedled his mother into giving him a second piece of the delicious fried chicken at dinner, rather more than a three year old boy should eat at one meal. Soon after he scurried out with the scraps to feed Coxin, his dog. Holding a bone high above his head, he said, peremptorily, "Beg for it, Coxin. I had to!" D. C. W.

Fair Weather Friends and Gin Companions Proved Synthetic

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The question of whether it is so clever, after all, for girls living in an apartment to keep a gin cupboard stocked for "callers" is with us today. No doubt it is a query affecting a number of young women who have solved their living expense problem by coupling up with another young woman.

To be specific: Jane moves to the city from a town nearby. She is a well trained secretary and gets a job after a few months of looking around. Her salary is $35 a week. After trying out a few of the clubs which house women, she decides that if her friend, Helen, comes on as promised, an apartment for both of them would be more agreeable, socially and economically.

Helen arrives in time. They get an apartment, which does provide a nicer manner of living for girls of a domestic turn, and it works out more economically because of the meals they can prepare for themselves.

With this apartment to entertain in, naturally these young women wanted guests. Their acquaintance was limited, but Jane knew a man and he had a friend, so a foursome was completed. The girls decided it wasn't quite the smart thing to entertain young men without cocktails before the home cooked meal and a highball or two later in the evening. So they made purchases befitting and the men drank. The girls went very lightly on the liquor, but a happy evening was reported by all.

Next evening one of the men called up to say he was bringing another friend over if the girls would be at home. A few evenings later the other man of the first party phoned that he would like to drop over and bring a friend of his. A new supply liquor had to be put in hurriedly. Understand that the girls are attractive and thoroughly nice young women.

The men weren't backward about asking if there was a little drink in the house. So the girls thought they had better have it on hand. After a couple of months' experience, they began to ask themselves if the liquor price of these friendships was worth the sacrifices that had to be made in order to buy the stuff. The men weren't taking them anywhere, noticeably. They came, drank, were entertaining and entertained, and away they went.

The girls said: "Let's try not serving anything next time and see where stand." They tried and Jane says they found out, all right.

She says: "If you want to find out what stuff friends are made of, put them on a dry evening. The good ones will stick, but watch the rest flee." And the sooner the better, she adds.

When the Bag Broke.

Last Saturday I went shopping. I had bought some ripe tomatoes and small onions which I put in a paper shopping bag. When I reached the top of the L stairs, the bottom of my shopping bag fell out, and tomatoes and onions showered down the stairs. Was I embarrassed? Well, I took the next L that came along and didn't bother about picking up my vegetables. M. G. S.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

Here is an adorable dress for small girls to wear during play hours. The yoke effect is made by cutting through a perforated line at either side of the front and back, gathering the lower edges and joining them to the upper ones. The dress closes at the center front under an applied band, and the long sleeves are gathered into narrow bands. Chambray, gingham, pique, broadcloth and challis are all suitable materials.

The pattern, 3007, comes in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

A A A
are beginning to realize that selling real estate is not entirely a man's job; nor a tough job, either, when the properties for sale are properly and adequately developed and backed by a reliable firm of developers.
Women, why not make the most of your education, personality, poise, and tact by joining up with one of the most outstanding real estate developing organizations in the country—in the world, in fact.
Women with ability are finding out that real estate will pay them more than any other line of endeavor they can get into.
Remember, the work is dignified and the compensation is attractive, and we'll do all in our power to see that you make good. Experience is not necessary, but of course helpful.
